Campaign on Measure
Which Failed.

The Missouri Committee for Better Banking Facilities reported today it spent $263,705 in its unsuccessful fight in behalf of the limited-area branch banking proposal. Total expenditure by proponents and opponents in the campaign was $476,177.

A committee representing Missourians Against Branch Banking yesterday reported spending $212,472 in leading opposition to the proposal, which was soundly defeated in the Nov. 4 election.

The Post-Dispatch said in a news story Nov. 9 that each side had spent at least $200,000 in the spirited campaign on the measure, which would have permitted banks to establish branches in the same county in which the banks were domiciled.

Deficit of $142,669. In reporting expenditures of $263,705, the Committee for Better Banking Facilities said it had incurred a deficit of $142,669.

Alfred Fleishman, committee treasurer, said he did not know how the deficit would be made up. The committee owes the First National Bank in St. Louis $145,000.

Fleishman's report, filed with the Recorder of Deeds in Clayton, said the committee received $121,036 in contributions.

The First National Bank in St. Louis gave $86,000 and Boatmen's Bank, $30,000. A large number of individual bankers here contributed relatively small amounts.

Most of the money spent was for newspaper, radio and direct-mail advertising in a campaign covering 114 counties in the state, Fleishman said.

Gardner Advertising Co., of St. Louis, was paid $56,492. Krupnick & Associates Inc. received $25,983.

The balance went for precinct workers and incidentals, he added.

The committee gave $5000 to the Jackson Democratic Club in Kansas City. In the St. Louis area, ward and township organizations were given various sums, ranging from a few hundred dollars to $11,500.

The report by the Missouri Committee was filed yesterday at Fulton with the Callaway county recorder by deeds by John C. Harris, committee treasurer.

Expenditures included $17,064 paid to Lemone Skinner Jr. of St. Louis for public relations work; $11,810 to Jack Stapleton of St. Louis, Mo., the committee's executive director; $24,359 for newspaper advertising; $23,830 for radio and television advertising; and $23,909 for printing and advertising materials.

The committee also transferred $41,000 of its funds to a St. Louis group and $22,500 to a Kansas City group to be used in those communities in the campaign against the branch banking proposal.

Contributions totaling $31,100 were listed from St. Louis area banks and bankers. One contribution of $10,000 and another of $5000 were made by the National Stock Yards National Bank of National City, on the East Side.

State-chartered banks were prohibited from contributing in the branch banking campaign, but national banks could contribute. Bankers also could participate in the campaign as individuals, even though affiliated with state-chartered banks.

Teamster Leaders Here Angry;
Only 250 Turn Out for Hoffa*3500 - Seat - Kiel Opera House Hired, Notices Sent Out Month Ago—Staff Meeting Called on Reason.

St. Louis Teamster officials were angered today by sparse attendance of union members at a special meeting last night at which Teamsters General President James R. Hoffa spoke.

Only about 250 members of the 2300-member Local 610, which sponsored the event, attended the meeting in the Opera House at Kiel Auditorium. The Opera House has about 3500 seats. Rental for the auditorium was $350.

The meeting was widely publicized as Hoffa's first appearance in St. Louis since his election to presidency of the international union.

Notices of the meeting were sent to Local 610 membership a month ago and articles announcing Hoffa's appearance were published in labor and daily newspapers.

In addition, telegrams urging stewards and their wives to attend the meeting were sent last Wednesday to the heads of all Teamster locals in the St. Louis area.

Pete Saffo, secretary-treasurer of Local 610, said today that "notices for the meeting went out late," as explanation for the small attendance.

The telegrams sent last week described the meeting as a "city-wide mass meeting" for "stewards and their wives" and all membership. The Teamsters have about 40,000 members in St. Louis locals.

Meanwhile, officials of Local 610 were called to a staff meeting today by Saffo to determine why the meeting was so sparsely attended, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Hoffa was introduced to the meeting last night by Saffo, who commented that for "some unaccountable reason the attendance at this meeting is poor."

Hoffa made no reference to the attendance.

Hoffa told the gathering that "the Teamsters International Union is more popular with its membership and more powerful today than at any time in its history."

In spite of attacks by the AFL-CIO, the McClellan Committee and the press, Hoffa declared, Teamster membership is at an "all-time high" and the union is organizing more rapidly than any other in the country.

Hoffa attacked monitors appointed by a United States District Court to supervise union affairs "as the most serious problem within the international union," in a talk earlier last night at a dinner for representatives of Joint Council 13.

He said the monitors were "ham-stringing" operations of the union and at the same time

WEST BERLIN
OF KHRUSHCHEV
IS CONSIDERED*Diplomats Feel Voters Would Reject Proposal for Free City—
Allies Rethinking Whole German Issue.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Some Allied diplomats were reported today to be in favor of challenging Nikita Khrushchev to a plebiscite in which West Berliners could accept or reject his proposal to make their city a demilitarized free city.

Qualified informants said if the 2,200,000 West Berliners rejected free-city status, Khrushchev would be obliged to dump his scheme and continue to abide by the existing four-power occupation agreements.

If the West Berliners accepted the Soviet Premier's proposals, then the Americans, British and French would be bound to withdraw their 10,000 troops from their sectors of the city.

Several Ideas Studied. The informants stressed that this was only one of several ideas being pondered. The Allied diplomats who favor some such proposal to Moscow said they are convinced:

1. That the Russians would not risk putting their proposals to the test of public opinion.

2. That in any vote the West Berliners would resoundingly reject the Russian proposals.

There was no indication whether the idea of challenging the Russians thus has yet been considered by Allied governments at top level. But Russia's move has started some thinking among the Allies about their position, not only in Berlin but also in all Germany. There is a recognition in several Allied capitals that, 13 years after the war, the time has come to examine new approaches and even to take risks for the sake of a German peace settlement.

Officials here believe that Khrushchev's move, so far as it has dramatized the need for a German settlement, has served a useful purpose.

Other preliminary conclusions reached by experts studying the Russian proposals are:

With the lever of Berlin, Khrushchev really is trying to open up the entire German question.

The specter of runaway German rearmament, taking place in a re-united vengeance-seeking Germany, still haunts Moscow.

For the first time the Russians seem ready to accept some sort of United Nations role in the search for a live-and-let-live arrangement with the West on Germany.

But Khrushchev's basic suggestions are completely unacceptable to the Allies even as a subject for negotiation.

The Moscow radio, anticipating a Western call for a big-power conference on Germany, claimed its aim only would be to defeat Russia's Berlin proposals.

"Actually it is an attempt to torpedo the U.S.S.R.'s realistic and concrete plan for eliminating the abnormal situation in Western Berlin," the English-language broadcast said.

Moscow agreed it would be "incomparably better to solve the entire German question instead of only one of its aspects" but made clear the Kremlin still demands a settlement which will preserve the Communist hold on East Germany.

The broadcast said the Soviet Union wants "speedy reunification of Germany with full consideration of the actual state of affairs in both the Western and Eastern parts of the country."

"The West," said the Russians, "insists on what it calls free elections. It deliberately

17.1 PCT. RATE RISE
ON PARCEL POST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Post Office Department today formally asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a 17.1 per cent increase in parcel post rates, designed to get fourth-class mail service back on a self-sustaining basis.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield announced this proposed advance in early October. At that time he estimated the department was handling parcel post at a loss of $88,000,000 a year.

Postal officials said the proposals submitted today would bring in about $88,000,000 more annually.

Postal laws require that parcel post service pay for itself, since it competes with privately operated express services. The Postmaster General has the authority to fix the package rates, provided the ICC agrees that his schedules are reasonable.

MAUSTON, Wis., Dec. 2 (UPI)—The president of a finance company and his wife were shot to death last night at their home and their 17-year-old daughter admitted today she killed them, authorities said.

Sheriff Kenneth Heding said Jane Dakin confessed killing her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dakin with a .22 caliber rifle. She was picked up by authorities while driving toward Wisconsin Dells in her father's car.

Heding said the girl, a senior at Mauston High School, told him she meant to kill her mother, and only shot her father because he had walked into the house when she fired at her mother.

The girl gave no good reason for shooting her mother, Betty, 45, the sheriff said, except that the two had the normal number of differences in a mother-daughter relationship.

BOY KILLS GIRL, 12, DOING HOMEWORK

ST. LOUIS, Mich., Dec. 2 (UPI)—A teen-ager boy shot to death a 12-year-old girl last night as she was sitting in a chair doing homework.

Paul Rondeau, 15, of St. Louis, admitted to police today he killed Carol Ann Risk, a next door neighbor, with two shots from a pistol borrowed from the girl's brother.

The girl found dead in the chair, a bullet through her neck and another through her head, when her parents returned from helping her brother with his paper route.

Christina A. Risk, the father, said he and his wife, Lova, regularly helped their 15-year-old son, Mike, deliver his papers when it snowed.

Paul told police he had "an urge to kill" the Risk girl and had been biding his time for two days and was downtown when he saw the Risks driving their son on his route. He said he went to their home and Carol Ann let him in when he said he wanted to borrow Mike's bicycle.

Rondeau walked into the living room and fired after Carol had seated herself in front of the TV set and resumed her studies.

SADDLE ROCK, N.Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy killed his mother and sister in their Long Island home last night and then committed suicide.

Detectives said that James Wiener shot his mother, Dorothy, 47, and his sister, Laurie, 26, with a small rifle. The boy then placed the rifle against his head and, using either his fingers or toes, pushed the trigger.

The bodies were discovered by Allan Aaronoff, a friend of the sister, and by Arthur Wiener, an uncle. The father, Max Wiener, was at his advertising studio in Manhattan.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The chiefs of Chicago's law enforcement and investigative agencies joined today in an effort to learn what started the fire at Our Lady of the Angels parochial grade school, in which 87 children and three nuns perished yesterday.

The possibility that a pupil may have set the fire accidentally by carelessly discarding a cigarette, was being investigated. Boys had been assigned to carry trash daily to bins near a basement stairwell where the blaze apparently started, it has been learned. However, authorities said arson had not been ruled out as a cause.

An inquest into the 90 deaths will be held next week. Flames and black smoke swept the Roman Catholic school at mid-afternoon yesterday, less than a half hour before the more than 1300 pupils were to be dismissed at 3 p.m.

53 Girls, 34 Boys. Fifty-three girls, 34 boys and three nuns perished. Fire children ranged in age from 9 to 15. Seventeen nuns and nine lay teachers escaped.

Three of the nuns, the school janitor, and 78 children remained in hospitals today with burns and injuries.

Many of the children leaped from the upper floor of the two-story building. Others suffocated in their classrooms.

There was no indication that the school had violated any fire or building codes. Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said that an inspection of the 40-year-old building only a week ago showed that satisfactory fire precautions had been taken.

Authorities questioned two 13-year-old boys who said they carried trash from classrooms every day to the rubbish bins.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Frank Pape said the two boys told of being in the basement with a third boy at about 2:20 p.m. yesterday. The fire broke out about 2:30 p.m.

May Have Been Smoking. "It would seem to me that some youngster was smoking down there and slipped the cigarette away when he thought he heard someone coming," Pape said. Also being considered was the possibility that a burning cigarette had been carried to the basement in rubbish.

"At the present time the origin of the fire is still undetermined," Pape continued. He said it didn't "make sense that a child would set the fire deliberately" and then return to his classroom.

Police headquarters assigned 35 additional officers to the arson squad to assist in questioning boys whose job it was to carry trash. Chief of Detectives Patrick Deely ordered the squad to "try to enlarge" on the theory that a discarded cigarette caused the fire.

Sgt. Drew Brown of the arson detail said the thick smoke, at first believed to have indicated an oil fire, apparently came from thick wax on the school floors.

He said the flames spread quickly when second floor windows were opened by panicked youngsters seeking to escape. The draft thus created sucked the smoke and flames up through the stairwell to the upper floor.

One Outside Fire Escape. He said the fire could have been smoldering for some time in tightly packed papers under the stairwell before it broke out. The building had only one outside fire escape.

In Springfield, State Fire Marshal John Twomey said the state would not enter the investigation unless the city requested it.

The school is classified under city building codes as a two-story building. It has two stories atop a high English-style basement, giving the appearance of a three-story building.

These might be stairways, or fire escapes, or one of each.

He said, however, that the City of Chicago has its own fire code and the only requirement in such cases is that it have standards no lower than those of the state code.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Erick Bergaust, Norwegian-born rocket and missile expert, said today the Russians within the last two weeks, fired a missile which "passed the moon and went on out beyond Mars."

Bergaust, editor of Missiles and Rockets magazine, told the Ad Club of Pittsburgh that United States scientists had tracked the missile "on radios for three days."

The expert, a member of the information advisory group to President Eisenhower's committee on scientists and engineers, said Russia apparently already has a nuclear-powered airplane and that it was only a matter of weeks before the Soviets test a nuclear-powered rocket.

Bergaust said the United States Army will make its first moonshot test Saturday at 3 a.m. and that chances of success were one in two.

The fog began to act in here at 2 a.m. It started to break up at 7:30, and by 9 o'clock visibility at the airport was three-fourths of a mile.

The area covered by fog extended 40 miles south and west of St. Louis, 100 miles to the north, and 215 miles east. Normal cooling after nightfall, accompanied by high humidity, caused the foggy condition, the Weather Bureau said.

Traffic in the St. Louis area was unhampered this morning. The fog had lifted sufficiently in time for motorists going to work.

COUNTY BOARD SEEKS TO CHECK
VOTERS BY MAIL

The St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners will seek legislative authority to use its discretion to conduct a canvass either by mail or door to door, Joe Oxenhandler, board chairman, announced today.

Oxenhandler said the decision was made after the board studied results of a sample postcard check made in 32 University City precincts last October. The findings were compared with results of the regular canvass made by election board employees, who went to voters' addresses.

Some areas lend themselves to a mail canvass, Oxenhandler said. In other places, where most of the voters are known to election officials, the personal canvass would be more accurate.

Oxenhandler acknowledged, however, that some cards sent in the sample canvass were not returned to the election commissioners until 10 days after the poll books were closed.

The Missouri election laws do not provide for canvassing registered voters by mail. If the County Election Board desires to adopt the postcard method, enabling legislation would be required.

Postcards returned to the Election Board in the University City check reported that 819 voters had moved and 9 had died since the previous canvass last July. By comparison, the regular canvass in October listed 787 removals and 52 deaths.

Although there was a wide discrepancy in the number of deaths reported, Oxenhandler pointed out that only 11 more ineligible voters were found in the personal canvass than were uncovered by mail.

"We are not trying to gather vital statistics," he said. "We are simply trying to find what persons on the registration lists are not at the listed addresses."

University City was selected for the check because

ARMY SAID TO OK COMPROMISE ON SCIENTISTS FOR CIVILIAN AGENCY

Terms of Agreement Withheld — Von Braun Had Opposed Idea of Breaking Up Missile Team.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Reports circulated today the Army had agreed to a compromise of the proposed transfer of its top missile scientists to the new civilian space agency.

The compromise, according to the reports, will be submitted to President Eisenhower's Space Council at a White House meeting tomorrow.

The agreement, in effect, would relieve the council of the task of resolving the issue raised when the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration asked for transfer to its payroll of Dr. Werner von Braun and nearly 2100 other Army scientists at Huntsville, Ala., and Pasadena, Calif. The Army strenuously objected.

Just how the dispute was settled was not clear, but sources said the Army had approved an agreement which also is satisfactory to NASA.

The Army was known to be willing to permit the scientists to devote almost full time to the civilian agency's space projects, provided they retained their Army identity.

Von Braun objected to the transfer mainly on the ground that it would break up a scientific team that has developed some of the country's most important missiles and that launched the successful Explorer satellite. Another group of scientists involved is at the jet propulsion laboratory in Pasadena.

The council meeting tomorrow will be presided over by the President, who said recently that he had received no recommendation from the NASC for a solution of the dispute.

Later tomorrow, the President will hold the first of two National Security Council meetings this week. They will be devoted to discussing the massive programs for fiscal 1960 involving the maintenance of American security through the military spending budget, plus the mutual assistance programs for friendly nations. The NASC is similar to the National Security Council in membership.

Return to Washington. The President, ruddy and full of pep after 13 days of golf at Augusta, Ga., and only the most necessary work, flew back to Washington this afternoon. Between now and the end of January is just about the busiest period of the year for Mr. Eisenhower as he drafts his legislative program for the new Congress, then translates it into a series of messages.

Either late this week or early next week, Mr. Eisenhower planned a conference with Defense Secretary Neil M. McElroy on military spending in the next fiscal year. The defense budget must be completed before McElroy leaves Dec. 10 for the NATO council meeting in Paris.

Chavez Wants Increase. By the Associated Press. McElroy was invited by Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, today to put up a fight for a substantial increase in defense funds in the new budget.

Chavez, who heads the Senate's Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said in an interview he understands McElroy wants more money than President Eisenhower's fiscal advisers are willing to see spent. "I'm on McElroy's side," Chavez said. "If he will fight for the funds he needs, he will find the majority of congress behind him. We're going to vote every penny needed for national security."

McElroy has hinted that next year's military budget request may be a billion dollars higher than the current $40,800,000,000 level of defense outlays. Mr. Eisenhower has been attempting to hold the total of defense and all other spending down to keep the new budget under an 80 billion dollar ceiling.

LEBANESE EX-PREMIERS IN EGYPT FOR DISCUSSIONS

CAIRO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Two former Prime Ministers of Lebanon who led the revolt in their country last summer arrived in Cairo today for talks with leaders of the United Arab Republic. Saeb Salam and Abdullah Yafi, leaders of Lebanon's National Union Front, said they would hold general discussions but had no specific agenda for their talks.

Camille Chamoun, President at the time of the revolt, charged that the rebels were aided from the Syrian province of the U.A.R. He broke relations with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government. The revolt resulted in the election of the army commander in chief, Gen. Faud Chehab, as a compromise President. Relations between Lebanon and the U.A.R. were resumed last month.

Parents Make Rounds From School to Morgue Asking Aching Question: 'Is My Child Here?'

Anxious Fathers and Mothers Rush to Hospitals and Police Station.

By NICHOLAS SHUMAN
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch, Copyright 1958.

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 — In screaming hysteria and in horrified silence, far into the night, the parents made their bitter rounds.

First the school . . . then Red Cross headquarters in the rectory . . . then to each of seven hospitals . . . then to district police headquarters.

There were hundreds of them, but all with the same question:

"Is my child here?" Each carried the hell of uncertainty in his heart, and almost invariably each saved until the last the feared and rarely mentioned place—the county morgue.

Singly and in pairs they trooped into the rectory, red of eye and ashen of face. Lists were being compiled there by the Red Cross, but they were pitifully incomplete.

"I'm sorry. We just don't know. Leave your name and phone number and we will call you when we do."

Church Next Stop. In a steady procession, they trooped next door into Our Lady of Angels church. Their children were not there, but hope was.

The nave of the church was black because fire had doused the lights. But two portable floodlamps operated by a fire department generator threw an eerie, harsh white light on the altar.

At any given time hours after the fire, about 50 persons knelt in the shadows. They made no sound.

There was pandemonium at the hospitals.

About 200 came to Walther Memorial. "Is my child here?" it was shouted. It was sobbed out. It was whispered. "Is my child here?"

Hundreds jammed the corridors, the entrance to the emergency receiving room.

Many mothers were there in house slippers — surprised by disaster. There was a carpenter in the hallway—his hammer still dangling in its sling.

Bodies Brought In. There were screams when charred bodies were brought in. Eager straining when a living tyke with a smudged face went by.

"Who has a list? Why don't you have a list? Where is my child?"

Mrs. Antonia Patrillo broke into tears and wailed: "We found Tommy, but we can't find Antoinette."

Maybe she was lucky. Some found what they prayed they would find. "Oh, my God, it can't be. It can't be," sobbed Mrs. Rosemarie Chambers. At St. Anne's Hospital her husband, Jasper, had just looked at four small bodies, seeking their daughter, Margaret, 9.

The fifth was too badly charred to be recognized. But there was a familiar dime store ring with a red stone, bought just last Saturday.

"It can't be," Mrs. Chambers said. But she recognized the shoes. Then she collapsed.

Receptionist Besieged. The searching hundreds at Walther Memorial besieged the receptionist, Mrs. Irene King, who had been a British war bride.

"I saw the blitz at Coventry, in London and in Birmingham," she said. "But this is the most horrifying experience I ever had."

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Secco came with four relatives, seeking their daughter Antoinette, 10.

"We have been to the other hospitals. What can I do now?" Secco asked. His wife slumped over Mrs. King's desk and twisted her babushka.

In the background others suggested to the relatives that there was only one place left—the morgue. Louis told his wife: "You go home now. I'm going to make one more check."

The mother knew. "She's gone. Oh, my God, she's gone." There were young searchers, too. Joanne Pettanow, 12, came with a 10-year-old cousin, seeking Joanne's sister, Mary Ellen, 9.

She was not on Mrs. King's list, and the girls fell to weeping.

Two nuns comforted them and said: "Please go home now. Pray. You can't do anything more."

Stream at Headquarters. District police headquarters had a constant stream. In spite of rapid flow, there were always at least 30 anxious persons about, asking, asking, asking.

Occasionally detectives in the squad room would read the lists of the injured. Parents strained forward with each name, hoping for injury rather than worse. Many swept away tears. Many mouthed prayers inaudibly as the names came.

At one reading, only two heard the names they wanted to hear. The others heard the cruel words from the detectives: "The morgue."

One man was called to the telephone. He came out of the booth weeping: "Oh, no. Please, God, no."

It was a kinsman calling from the morgue.

When the lists of the living were over, each man and woman stood momentarily in dazed silence. Then all filed out for the long, long trip to the end of the line.

SEARCH FOR MANY ENDS AT MORGUE

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (UPI)—A morgue attendant gently lifted a sheet from a charred body and said, "This is a boy." John Jakowski Sr., leaned over, looked intently at the lifeless form and screamed.

One of fortunate students to escape from inferno at Our Lady of the Angels grade school weeping with pain from burns while receiving treatment in first aid room of hospital last night.

"Oh, my God, my boy, my boy."

Upstairs in the crowded main hall at Cook county morgue, a deputy coroner intoned into a megaphone:

"We are looking for the parents of an 11-year-old girl with a medal and cross around her neck. She wore a full school uniform with long black stockings. She can be identified."

A little woman in a tan coat cried out, then sobbed uncontrollably into the ends of her scarf.

Seated in Smoky Room. A blue-clad student nurse guided the woman to a seat in a smoky meeting room. A policeman led her husband past 20 other anxious parents and relatives and down the long steps to the bodies in the basement.

In the noisy lobby, Vincent Mucci juggled at the sleeves of coroner's deputies and newsmen—anyone with a slip of paper in his hand—seeking word of his niece, Elaine Pessoli.

"She's 9," he said, "wearing red bobby sox and black suede shoes. My brother and I were taken down into that hell-hole to see if we could find her. My brother thought one body was hers, but I didn't. I don't see how anyone can identify anyone down there."

Hours later, Elaine's name was posted on the official death list.

Walter Kalinowski and his red-eyed wife sat in a grand jury room, waiting quietly for news of their daughter Angelina, 14.

"I haven't given up hope," Kalinowski said. "I won't, unless they take me down there and show her to me. We went to every hospital before we came here. We've been here three hours now."

Holds Up Brass Key. Lt. James McMahon, chief of the homicide bureau, walked into a grand jury room and held up a small brass key with a red-rope loop that tapered into a scorched bit of twine.

"Does anyone recognize this?" he asked.

No one did. He walked out. The small bodies, covered with blankets, were carried into the morgue from ambulances and squad cars that drew up 10 to 12 deep in the street outside.

Police carried the bodies into a waiting room and put them gently down on the cold concrete floor. They arrived faster than morgue attendants could carry them to the elevator and take them to the basement.

Rows Grow Longer. Police officers wept as the rows of children's bodies grew longer and longer. Priests administered last rites to each victim as the stretchers were placed down.

As fast as the stretchers were sent back up to the entrance door, the ambulances sped back for more victims.

The first 20 bodies were put on the floor along the green east wall of the largest basement room.

The next 20 were placed on foot-high benches of fresh pine boards.

The tragic cargo moved in faster than carpenters could build benches.

Morgue attendants moved about, determining a child's sex, writing descriptions of any clothing that remained, searching for lockets or other trinkets that would aid identification.

It was two hours after the bodies started arriving before the first relatives arrived.

"It's only natural," Deputy Coroner George Connor said. "They're trying all the hospitals first, hoping for the best. They come here when they have nowhere else to go."

20 IRISH PRISONERS FLEE

DUBLIN, Dec. 2 (AP)—Twenty Irish political prisoners escaped from a government internment camp during an inmates' soccer game today. Two men were reported wounded by fire from camp guards.

The camp is used chiefly for detention of members of the Irish Republican Army, an extremist organization dedicated to reuniting by force the Irish republic and British-controlled Northern Ireland.

WATER PIPE CUT, U.S. FAMILIES IN CUBA AFFECTED

Group on Plantations Down to One-Day Supply—Ship Stands By for Evacuation.

HAVANA, Dec. 2 (AP)—About 54 American families on United Fruit Co. plantations in eastern Cuba were down to a one-day water supply today because of rebel interference with their pipeline.

A company ship stood by in the Bay of Nipe off Preston. A spokesman said it would be necessary to evacuate the families from Preston and nearby Guarao if Rebels who cut the pipeline continue to prevent its repair.

The Rebel radio confirmed yesterday that it had cut the water supply to the United States naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, three times last week. It called the action "an unavoidable act of war" against President Fulgencio Batista.

(United Press International reported today that 14 Americans fell into rebel hands 10 days ago when the United Fruit Co. agricultural station and the village of Guarao were captured by the rebel band which since has cut off the water supply at Preston.

(The UPI also reported that the rebel radio had launched a bitter attack on the United States, accusing Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith of "meddling" in Cuban affairs.

"Enough is enough," an announcer said. "We are tired of being branded as Communists by the American State Department . . . if any (United States) Marines land on Cuban soil, they will be fought the same as (President Fulgencio) Batista's soldiers."

The rebel radio today said revolutionary troops had beaten back a government thrust near Holguin in Oriente province. The broadcast claimed the government forces suffered heavy losses and that the rebels lost three killed and six wounded.

The rebels were led by Paul Castro, brother of Fidel Castro, the broadcast said.

The rebels asked the International Red Cross to arrange to pick up 400 prisoners held by Castro's forces.

In Havana, a bomb exploded last night in a school garden some 400 yards from the capital. The blast caused only minor damage.

An unofficial report said Batista had put Gen. Luis Robalino Piedra in charge of operations against the rebels. The report said Gen. Martin Diaz Tamayo, who has been field commander, will be sent to Paris as military attache.

Judge Upholds Hoffa in Dispute With Teamsters Union Monitors

Rules Court - Appointed Group Serves Only in Advisory Capacity to Labor Leader.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 (AP)—A federal judge today upheld the position of Teamsters Union president James R. Hoffa that three rank and file members of Local 377 at Youngstown, are ineligible to run for office in the local.

District Judge James C. Connell issued a declaratory judgment that the men cannot run. He also lifted a temporary restraining order which had delayed the local election until Dec. 10.

In doing so, he held that three court-appointed monitors for the international union could serve only in an advisory capacity to Hoffa and the union's executive board.

The monitors had ruled the candidates eligible. They held that the prospective candidates had not been properly notified of a 1957 provision in the union's constitution. It requires monthly dues to be paid into the union treasury by the first of the month. The candidates said they could not help it if the company which deducted their dues from paychecks failed to make the deadline.

Not in Good Standing. Judge Connell said the prospective candidates were on the union mailing list and must be presumed to have received such notice. By failing to meet the dues requirement they were not in good standing under the 1957 provision, he said.

"My observation has been that when a candidate fails to investigate the requirements for office he would not have the requirements to hold the office if elected," he commented.

Under the court decree by which the monitors were appointed, said Judge Connell, they have no right to usurp the power of the general president (Hoffa) and the other officers to interpret the union's constitution.

In Office 15 Years. The rank and file candidates were William Gaw of Columbiana and two Youngstown men, Joseph Sammartino and Joseph Carely. The regular slate is composed of incumbents who have held office more than 15 years. The local has about 5000 members in Youngstown and north east Ohio. Robert Higham, local president, and three others were plaintiffs in the case.

The board of monitors for the Teamsters was appointed by Judge F. Dickinson Lettis in United States District Court at Washington last Jan. 31 as a result of a suit brought by a dissident faction in the union.

Technically, Hoffa had made no specific ruling on the Youngstown case. But he had sent telegrams to the union saying that under the union constitution the three rank and file men were ineligible. They later appealed to the monitors.

CONGRESS POLICY DISCUSSION WITH PRESIDENT JAN. 5

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 — President Eisenhower will invite the Democratic and Republican leaders of the new Congress to the White House Jan. 5 for a top-level discussion of foreign and military policy.

On the following day, according to plans now being worked out, the White House discussion will switch to primarily domestic subjects with only the Republican leaders from the strongly Democratic Eighty-sixth Congress present.

The President's custom has been to hold his pre-session briefings well before Christmas. Last year, for example, the two-day discussions that laid the foundation for the state of the union and other presidential messages were held Dec. 3 and 4.

This year Mr. Eisenhower was understood to have deferred to Democratic leaders in Congress who sought a delay in the White House conversations until just before the opening of the new Congress Jan. 7.

$68,262 U.S. TAX CLAIM INVOLVING FIRMS' RESERVE FUNDS ARGUED

Outlays for Expansion by Metal Products Concerns Here Were Excessive, Government Contends.

Jack Adler, president and principal owner of two St. Louis companies which manufacture and market metal filing cabinets, testified before Judge T. Gregory Bruce of the United States Tax Court here today that he authorized large reserve funds out of income to provide for future expansion.

The government alleges the reserve funds were excessive in two income tax claims totaling $68,262 filed against the Adler Metal Products Corp. and American Metal Products Corp., both at 3850-90 Laclede avenue, American Metal Products sells cabinets manufactured by the other firm.

The alleged deficiencies occurred in 1952, 1953 and 1954, according to the federal claim. Adler testified before Judge T. Gregory Bruce of the tax court that his company was the only manufacturer of metal cabinets west of the Mississippi river in the 1952-54 period. The large reserves were set aside to finance extensive expansion necessary to compete with six large national manufacturers, he said.

The government contends the expansion was not necessary.

Saigh's motion Granted.

Yesterday, the tax court granted a motion by Fred M. Saigh to remove Gerald L. Wallace, New York University Law School professor, as his attorney in a $1,636,000 federal income tax claim against Saigh and others.

In an affidavit, Saigh said Wallace had entered his appearance as attorney for Saigh without the client's specific authority. When Saigh found out the fee he was being charged by Wallace he notified the attorney he would not be able to use his services, the affidavit stated.

The case involves a civil claim against Mr. and Mrs. Saigh, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Salomon Jr., Mrs. Robert E. Hannegan, widow of the former Internal Revenue Commissioner and former chairman of the Democratic National Committee; A. L. Watson and R. Vernon Clark, real estate operators and the Robert E. Hannegan Trust. It grew out of the purchase and sale of the Railway Excelsior Building.

$63,998 Refund.

The Globe-Democrat Publishing Co. won a $63,998 refund in a compromise settlement of a disputed income tax liability growing out of a transaction during the newspaper's ownership of the post-Korean War period. In order to get delivery of 6800 tons of newspaper over a three-year period, the newspaper was obliged to buy shares of common stock of the supplying paper company. The stock depreciated sharply after the paper shortage ended, resulting in a loss when it was sold.

The newspaper contended the stock loss was part of its operating expenses, allowable in full. The government argued the purchase was an investment and the loss on it a long-term capital loss, only partly deductible. The tax liability of $217,654, paid under protest, was reduced in the settlement to $153,655, resulting in the refund.

A claim of $474,188 against Jack Kennedy Inc., former automobile sales concern at 5434 Natural Bridge avenue, was settled for $78,666. It was based on a claimed surtax on accumulated earnings and profits "beyond the reasonable needs of the business" in the years 1953 and 1954.

GUNN EXTENDS SYMPATHY TO CHICAGO FIRE DEATHS

Donald Gunn, president of the Board of Aldermen, today sent a telegram to Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, expressing sympathy for the people of Chicago over the deaths of 87 children and three nuns in a fire in a Chicago Catholic school yesterday.

"Permit me to express the sincere and heartfelt sorrow of the people of St. Louis to our good friends the people of Chicago over the tragedy which has struck at the hearts of all of us in these pre-Christmas days," Gunn said in the message.

"There is little that can be said to bring comfort to the families and friends of the children of Our Lady of Angels School who are victims of this most unfortunate accident. I am sure, however, that all St. Louisans want me to assure them of both our sympathy and prayers." Gunn is acting mayor. Mayor Raymond E. Tucker is attending a meeting in Boston.

Judge, Jury Differ in Placing Blame For Accident Costing Man His Hands

One Attributes It to Manufacturer, Other to Employer — New Trial Sought.

By AL OSTROW
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 — A new trial was sought today for Henry J. DeGonia of Granite City, Ill., because a judge and jury blamed different corporations for the industrial accident in which he lost both of his hands.

Attorneys claim DeGonia suffered a legal injustice when the jury, sitting in United States District Court, here, refused to assess damages against the manufacturer of a 200-ton stamping press which severed the hands.

The jury blamed DeGonia's employer, the A. O. Smith Corp., of Granite City, which had been dismissed by United States District Judge James C. Connell as a co-defendant.

Judge Connell was expected to rule soon on the plaintiff's motion for a new trial.

DeGonia, bitterly downcast after the jury's verdict, gestured angrily in the courtroom with two artificial hands. He asked his lawyers to appeal the case to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, "to get me justice."

Father of Seven. DeGonia, who lives in the Kirkpatrick Homes on Edwards street, is the father of five daughters and two sons. The accident occurred Dec. 3, 1954—four years ago tomorrow—and he has just begun to learn the use of the artificial hands.

DeGonia sued for $500,000 damages from the A. O. Smith Corp., which manufactures automobile frames, and the Federal Machine and Welder Co., Warren, O., manufacturer of the stamping press.

The suit was tried in United States District Court here because the accident was due to faulty maintenance, not an unsafe machine. They refused to award DeGonia even a penny of damages from the Federal Machine and Welder Co.

Several jurors signed affidavits stating their belief that the stamping press was "reasonably safe," and the accident was caused by A. O. Smith Corp. neglect to have a loose screw properly tightened.

On these and other grounds,

TRUMAN AGAINST ONE MAN, TRUMAN, FOR PRESIDENCY

Former President Harry S. Truman, on a stop-over here today between trains, made it clear he is against only one man for President in 1960—himself.

"That's fair enough, isn't it?" he asked at Union Station. "I'll be 76 in 1960. I told somebody the other day I would be a candidate when I was 90 years old and the man said, 'That won't be an election year.'"

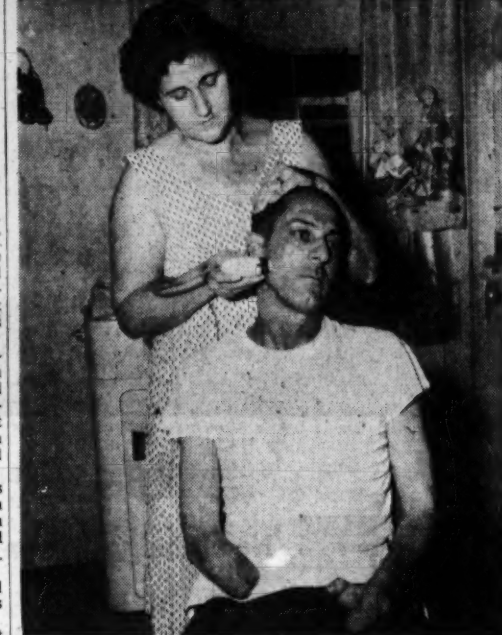

The former President, his usual confident self when discussing politics, said his role in the next election would simply be to "help elect the man the Democrats nominate." Truman and his wife are en route to Raleigh, N.C., where he will speak Friday at ceremonies commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of Andrew Jackson, seventeenth President, Jackson, was a Democrat.

VERDICTS IN DEATHS OF 4: 2 HOMICIDE, 2 SUICIDE

Two verdicts of homicide and two of suicide were returned today by the coroner in the deaths of four persons whose bodies were discovered Sunday night in their living quarters at 5542 South Thirtieth street. The dates and times of death were not determined.

Homicide verdicts named Arthur Forrester, 62 years old, in the death of his wife, 64, and Miss Blanche Conklin, 66, in the death of her mother, Mrs. Mary Conklin, 86. Verdicts of suicide were returned in the death of Forrester and Miss Conklin. Forrester died of a gunshot wound of the heart and the other three of gunshot wounds of the mouth, the coroner determined.

10 Killed in Bus Collision. BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2 (AP)—Ten persons were killed and 17 injured when two buses loaded with passengers collided head-on yesterday on the road from Buenos Aires to Rosario.

DeGonia is shaved by his wife, one of the many personal chores she has to perform for him.

Attorney Curt E. Stern of Cleveland and Attorney George J. Moran of Granite City asked Judge Connell to vacate the verdict and order a new trial.

F. Crawford Morris, attorney for the Warren defendant, yesterday filed a brief asking the court to reject this plea.

"The plaintiff was content to submit his case to this jury, and it was submitted," Morris wrote. "Let him not be heard to vilify the jury system now—just because the jury took a different view of the evidence than his own. The jury, not the plaintiff, is the trier of the facts."

"The jury, rather than return a false verdict to help out a badly injured man, found within the dictates of its own conscience the courage to call the facts as it found them to be, even though to do so meant turning the plaintiff away."

John W. Peters, one of the jurors, admitted making a device in his own home workshop to demonstrate to other members of the panel that faulty maintenance caused the accident.

ICING FORCES REDUCTION IN 3 NAVIGATION POOLS

Icing conditions and consequent decrease in flow in the upper Mississippi and Illinois rivers will make it necessary to reduce water levels in three navigation pools above St. Louis beginning today, Col. Charles B. Schweizer, district engineer, announced.

The pools are those above lock and dam facilities on the Mississippi at Alton and at Clarksville and Winfield, Mo. In each case the drawdown will reduce the water level 12 inches by Saturday. The Clarksville and Winfield pools will be lowered at maximum rate of two-tenths of a foot a day.

In the case of the Alton pool, Col. Schweizer said it might be necessary to reduce the level by one additional foot beginning Monday and ending the following Saturday. He said the Army Engineers were aware of the inconvenience to duck hunters and other persons using the river, but the reductions could not be avoided.

PART OF LOCUST STREET TO BE CLOSED FOR WEEK

Locust street will be closed for about one week, beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow, between Jefferson avenue and Beaufort street, Director of Streets Henry S. Miller said today. The reason for closing, Miller explained, is the demolition of a building at the southwest corner of Jefferson and Locust in the widening of Jefferson avenue. Traffic will be detoured over Olive street while Locust is closed.

GRAND JURY TOLD TO MAKE INQUIRY INTO DRAG RACING

Vigorous Action to Stop Menace' Ordered by Circuit Judge Reagan.

Drag racing in St. Louis should be investigated and indictments returned against all violators, the December-term circuit court grand jury was told yesterday.

Circuit Judge Franklin E. Reagan, in giving a special instruction to the newly-impaneled jury, said: "Reckless youth, souped-up automobiles, gasoline and sometimes booze constitute a combination for broken bones, seared flesh, bloody highways and death."

He told the jurors that "young men who use the public streets for drag racing are a menace to the community." Urging the jury to take "vigorous action to stop this growing menace," the judge described drag racing as "merely a modern version of Russian roulette, played with souped-up, high-powered automobiles."

He reminded the jurors that parents who permit an automobile to be operated by a person without a driver's license are guilty of a misdemeanor. Reckless and drunken driving are criminal offenses, as is leaving the scene of an accident, he pointed out.

Leroy Boettcher, a representative of the St. Louis Hotrod Safety Council, said the council welcomes the grand jury investigation. The council is composed of 25 hotrod clubs in the St. Louis area, he said, and devotes itself to promoting safe driving practices and road courtesy.

He said none of the persons recently involved in drag racing incidents is a member of a local hotrod club. All of the clubs prohibit drag racing on public streets, Boettcher added. Foreman of the jury is Robert L. Burnes, 6233 Rhodes avenue, sports editor of the Globe-Democrat.

Other members of the grand jury are: Mrs. Jessie M. Barco, housewife, 6653 Devonshire avenue; David F. Collins, supervisor, 5914 West Park avenue; Herbert L. Gamber, engineer, 4505 Jamieson avenue; James F. Hohn, merchandise manager, 4501 Holly Hills avenue; Hanorah Huggie, secretary, 5444 Murdoch avenue.

Henry Matteuzzi, painting contractor, 6400 Devonshire; Gilbert McDonald, auditor, 5325 Loughborough avenue; Erwin C. Meinert, secretary of the Carpenters District Council, 5327 Oleatha avenue; Vernon J. Suche, mechanical engineer, 6409 Ruth drive; Mrs. Frances M. Wells, 5097 Westminster place; Ralph T. Young, social worker, 4742 Maffitt avenue.

Alternates are George L. Eschbacher, assistant department manager, 5070 Queens avenue, and Mrs. Besse Lund, 3501 Connecticut street.

Court Actions Block American, Pan American Airline Strikes

Injunction Is Continued in First Case — Union Promises to Hold Off Walkout in Second.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Court developments in New York have eased pressure on two airlines involved in labor disputes. Talks on ending strikes at two other lines are continuing.

The strike moratoriums give breathing space to Pan American World Airways and American Airlines and keep their planes in the air. The struck carriers are Eastern Air Lines and Trans World Airlines.

The Transport Workers Union pledged in State Supreme Court yesterday not to interfere with Pan American operations pending the outcome of mediation over union demands. The line had accused the union of curtailing the amount of overtime its members could work.

About 8000 Pan American employees, including 1400 at the Air Force's Cape Canaveral, Fla., missile base, are demanding fewer working hours with no pay cuts. The contract expired at midnight last night.

Injunction Continued. American Airlines was able to continue operations when United States District Judge Frederick VanPelt Bryan continued an injunction against a strike by 1500 members of the Airline Pilots Association. Court arguments continue today.

In Kansas City, negotiations in the 11-day-old TWA strike hinged on a seniority issue involving machinist foremen.

Leverett Edwards, chairman of the National Mediation Board, said the International Association of Machinists and the carrier were "three inches apart on wages." On the seniority problem, they were "11,000 miles apart," he said.

Eastern Negotiations. At Miami, Fla., Eastern Airlines executives and union leaders planned to meet again today. The line was struck Nov. 24. A total of 5383 mechanics and 550 members of the Flight Engineers International Association are out. J. H. Brock, an Eastern vice president, met yesterday with George Brown, a Machinists officer. They reported talks were friendly. Officers of the Flight Engineers Union said they were willing to negotiate but no meeting has been scheduled.

A spokesman for Eastern said that even if the Machinists reach agreement, the company's Flight Engineers before resuming operations. The Flight Engineers are demanding an end to an understanding between the line and the Pilots Association requiring engineers on jet flights to have pilot training.

Talks Continue in International Harvester Strike. CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—A new series of talks aimed at settling the 19-day strike of 37,000 International Harvester employees went into the second day today.

Federal Mediators William G. Murray and Donald D. Brown held separate sessions yesterday with negotiators for the company and the United Auto Workers Union.

A spokesman for Harvester said the UAW demands in the pension field go beyond the pattern set in the auto industry earlier this year.

In Detroit, a strike cut into production of the Electric Auto-Lite Co. and affected company plants in seven cities. The exact effect on the automobile equipment supplier firm was not clear. The United Auto Workers said the strike involved 8500 union members. However, the company said only about 3800 have been employed at affected plants.

The UAW went out on strike yesterday when national contract negotiations failed to produce an agreement at a union-strike noon deadline.

Auto-Lite plants were struck in Fostoria, O.; La Crosse, Wis.; Bay City and Orosco, Mich.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Vincennes, Ind., and Atlanta, Ga.

Reaching through from the outside and avoiding a grill-type alarm device, they removed the bottles one at a time, police reported.

The boys told police they and three other youths, 14, 15 and 16 years old, used a similar method to steal approximately three cases of whiskey from the firm last Wednesday night. Police arrested the other three and recovered about half of the whiskey.

2 TEEN-AGE BOYS CAPTURED AFTER CHAMPAGNE THEFT

Two teen-age boys with a champagne taste and a knack for breaking windows without activating burglar alarms were arrested last night by police as they fled from the Stickey-Hoelscher Co., Inc., 4312 Clayton avenue.

The youths, one 15 years old and the other 16, were captured half a block from the office of the firm, a wholesale liquor and tobacco dealer. Police said they were carrying 12 half-pint bottles of champagne.

Police said they admitted breaking a rear window at the

TWO KIDNAPED BY FUGITIVES AND DRIVEN HERE

Kentuckians Kick Way Out of Auto Trunk After Two Convicts Abandon Car.

Two motorists kidnaped in Kentucky and forced to accompany two escaped convicts on a harrowing ride to St. Louis kicked their way out of an automobile trunk after the convicts abandoned the car in South St. Louis last night.

The victims are Munnell W. Gore, 52 years old, a crane operator, and Edward D. Teague, 39, both of Princeton, Ky. They were uninjured, but were shaken by the experience.

Authorities at the Eddyville (Ky.) Penitentiary said the convicts were Gearin Bogdon, 30, and Eugene R. Jennings, 29, serving long terms for robbery. St. Louis police, who were joined by federal agents in a search for the men, did not learn the method of their escape.

Gore told police he picked up the convicts as hitchhikers near Eddyville yesterday morning. After Gore had driven a short distance along U.S. Highway 62 one of the men drew a knife and threatened Gore and Teague, a passenger in the automobile.

"They said they were taking charge and would kill us unless we followed instructions," Gore related. "They robbed me of $43 and Teague of $1, and one took over the wheel."

The route was north, through Paducah and into Illinois, Gore said. At Vienna, Ill., the convicts stopped at a filling station, purchasing gasoline and a tire with the stolen money. The tire was to replace a punctured one.

Teague tried to attract the attention of a policeman at the filling station, but was threatened with the knife, and remained silent. The trip was resumed.

After crossing Jefferson Barracks Bridge into St. Louis county, Gore and Teague were forced into the trunk of the automobile. The machine was driven to the 3500 block of South Second street, where the convicts continued their flight on foot.

Residents of the neighborhood called police after seeing Teague and Gore emerge from the automobile trunk. The kidnap victims slept last night at Lynch street police station, and expect to return home today. Both were wearing portions of the prison uniforms of the convicts, who exchanged some clothing with them on the ride.

GAMBLER GIVEN REFUND AS TAX CASE IS SETTLED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A $5,500,000 tax claim against New York gambler Frank Erickson has been settled for about $2,500,000, Internal Revenue Service officials said today.

The settlement, reached in conferences between Erickson's lawyers and attorneys for the IRS, was approved by the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, and by the United States Tax Court.

A tax Court decision clearing the case from the docket was issued without publicity Aug. 29.

IRS originally contended that Erickson owed $5,536,000 in back taxes and fraud penalties. Government lawyers said the settlement was for $1,800,000 in taxes and penalties and an additional $450,000 in interest. The Government challenged Erickson's tax returns in three separate cases involving the years 1937 through 1946, 1947, and 1948 through 1950. Officials said Erickson's returns had been under investigation for at least 11 years.

IRS officials in New York said that before settlement was reached, Erickson made tentative payments of several million dollars so that the IRS claims, if upheld, would not continue to draw interest.

Because of these payments, Erickson actually collected a refund after settlement, because he had paid more than the agreement called for. Officials said figures on the exact amount of the refund were not immediately available.

3 STANDARD OIL FIRMS NAMED IN ANTI-TRUST SUIT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Federal Government today filed an anti-trust suit against three Standard Oil companies, accusing them of restrictive trade practices in five states.

Named in the action were Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky, Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, and the latter's subsidiary, Esso Standard Oil Co.

The petition requested an order voiding an alleged 1956 contract requiring Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky, with headquarters here, to buy 80 per cent of its petroleum products from Esso Standard Oil Co. of New York City.

The suit also asked that Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and Esso be prevented from selling refined petroleum products to Standard Oil of Kentucky "for such time as the court may deem necessary."

Standard Oil of Kentucky does business only in Kentucky, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, the complaint stated.

No penalty is involved in the suit but any individual who feels that he has been damaged by restraint of trade can sue for triple damages.

Prince Pignatelli Dies.

ROME, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Prince Antonio Pignatelli Aragona Cortez, husband of Texas-born Beatrice Molyneux, died early today from injuries suffered when he was hit by a motorcycle as he was crossing a street. He was 66 years old.

3 CITED IN NEW INDICTMENT IN TEAMSTER ASSAULT CASE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Jefferson county grand jury returned a second indictment, yesterday against three Teamster local 86 members in connection with a tear gas assault on a Minnesota truck driver.

The panel charged local president Stoy Decker, assistant business agent Robert M. Cox, and member Floyd Guinn with malicious striking and wounding with intent to kill. It also restated charges of assault and battery and conspiracy which were carried in an indictment against the three returned by the November grand jury.

The case involved an attack against Lloyd Alexander, 33, Milaca, Minn., who was burned by tear gas and beaten in front of a downtown bar last month. The three men indicted denied connection with the attack.

ASSEMBLY OF UBANGI-SHARI VOTES TO JOIN FRENCH UNION

BANGUI, Ubangi-Shari, Dec. 2 (AP)—The territorial assembly of Ubangi-Shari, one of the territories making up French Equatorial Africa, voted unanimously yesterday to join the French community as the Republic of Central Africa.

It was the eighth French territory to join the union—to which by Premier De Gaulle's new constitution they will delegate their economic, defense and foreign affairs responsibilities. The French President will preside over the union's affairs.

Others which have joined are Madagascar, Senegal, French Sudan, Mauritania, Chad, Gabon and Middle Congo. Four other territories have yet to make a choice. One, French Guinea, rejected the idea and became independent of France.

YOUTH HALTS RUNAWAY BUS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—A school bus with 25 pupils aboard ran wild down a steep grade yesterday after the driver collapsed of an apparent heart attack, but an alert youth brought the vehicle to a halt.

No one was injured.

"After I realized what happened, I was scared," said Eddie Sowell, 17 years old, a sophomore at University high school. Sowell grabbed the wheel and finally halted the vehicle at the foot of a hill. The driver, Alphonse Tennant, was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Examiner of the building department, said the city code requires exits at least five feet wide, doors three feet wide, and a minimum of two exits and stairwells. He said a fire escape was not considered one of the required exits.

One investigator said he believed much of the loss of life was caused by panic. When smoke spread through the school, he said, the children ran to and fro instead of to the exits.

In recent weeks there have been a number of cases of vandalism and arson in Chicago schools both integrated and non-integrated and a scattering of bomb scares. There also have been some racial incidents among pupils. However, no Negroes attended Our Lady's Angels parochial school, and none live in the neighborhood.

The school is in an old Italian-Italian neighborhood on Chicago's West Side.

The families, for the most part of the working class, live in old homes in an area which has seen little change in the last several years. The area is nearly five miles west and about a mile north of the Loop.

The school itself consisted of two buildings, both of brick construction. The larger building, which sustained most of the fire damage, was built in 1910. The second building was constructed within the last five years. Four hundred pupils were in it when the fire started.

The first floor of the two-story building was converted from church to classrooms in 1939 when a new church was erected. The building's classrooms were large with high ceilings and extensive wood trim.

Fire Commissioner Quinn estimated damage to the building at $50,000.

Nuns who led out many children and men who dashed into the burning building from the street helped cut the loss of life. Firemen carried down others on ladders from the upper floor.

A crowd of thousands, many of them hysterical parents, swarmed around the burning building. They were restrained by police cordons.

Mothers in the crowd fainted as they saw children jump from the second-story windows and crumple on the ground below. The jam hampered the efforts of ambulances and fire equipment responding to the five-alarm blaze.

Ambulances 10 Deep.

At the morgue, ambulances were backed up 10 deep waiting to unload bodies. They were taken to the basement and parents, in groups of seven, were led down to attempt identification.

For many the effort was futile. Some bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Fire Commissioner Quinn said the speed with which the flames flashed through the building prevented the children from fleeing through the six exits.

"They just couldn't get out into the corridor to go down stairs," he said.

The fire indication of the blaze was black smoke seeping under classroom doors.

When unable to reach the stairways, children clambered to the second-floor window sills and jumped or were pushed to the ground.

Firemen sent up ladders and spread nets. A number of children jumped and missed.

Bystanders and firemen tried to catch the children, some with their clothing and hair afire, as they leaped.

Pleas With Son to Jump.

Max Spachura, who lives across an alley from the school and has two children there, ran to the building and caught or broke the fall of 12 children who jumped from windows. Then he saw the face of his own son, Mark, 9, at a window.

"Jump, jump, Mark," he shouted. "I'll catch you."

The boy could not move. His face disappeared. His body was found later.

A nun teaching the seventh grade led her class out into the second floor corridor, some of the children holding onto her skirt.

"But they were afraid to go down the stairs," she said. "I carried down six and went back up for more. A couple wouldn't go down and I rolled them down the stairs. I rolled them down even though they screamed."

Three Die With Pupils.

Three of the nuns of the order of the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary died with their students. Others formed chains with children holding onto each other's shirts and dresses, to lead them to safety.

The fire alarm was turned in at 2:42. The fire was controlled at 4:19 p.m. It was not until then that the full extent of the tragedy was realized.

Firemen under the glare of searchlights playing against the blackened ruins began bringing out the victims by 10s and 20s.

A joint funeral for the 87 children will be held Friday at an armory. Archbishop Albert G. Meyer will officiate at the mass.

A funeral for the three nuns killed in the fire will be held at the rectory Thursday.

It was the worst school fire in Chicago's history and the city's most tragic blaze since the Iroquois Theater fire killed 575 persons in 1903. It was the nation's worst school fire since 294 were killed in an explosion at New London, Tex., in March 1937.

NEARLY ALL IN 8TH GRADE ARE KILLED

By the Associated Press.

Nearly all of the eighth grade class of two upper-floor classrooms perished. Firemen found 24 bodies in one room. A few of the victims were still at their desks.

The screams of the children trapped on the upper floors were heard by horrified spectators and hysterical parents standing below in the 30-degree cold.

Nuns rolled some students down the staircases to save them. Some children dropped to the floor, seeking cool and fresh air, and crawled out.

Others groped their way to freedom by grasping hands and belt buckles of classmates and filling out of the smoke-filled structure.

For some there was no rescue, however.

The injured were taken to seven nearby west side hospitals. Twenty-two victims died en route to hospitals or soon after arrival. Sixty-eight bodies were sent directly to the morgue.

Priests walked through the crowd and stood near the doomed building, administering extreme unction, last rite of Catholic Church.

A nun, who refused to identify herself, made three trips into the building, each time leading out six pupils. She was treated for burns at a hospital.

Casimir Janik, a milkman, arrived at the school before firemen. He ran into the school several times, carrying burned children to safety.

"I found one girl, her shoes missing," he said, "hanging on to a banister, seemingly in a state of shock. I yanked her loose. Twice I carried two girls out, one under each arm."

Leroy Hewlett, who lives across the street from the school, gave this description: "Kids were hanging from the windows, jumping or falling in groups of three or four at a time. Smoke and flame poured from the windows. A little girl stood at the window of a ledge, screaming for help."

Early reports that there had been an explosion was discounted by firemen. The boiler room was intact.

Fire investigators were checking the story of Mrs. Barbara Glowacki, who operates a candy store adjacent to the school on the north. She said just before she learned about the fire a man came into her store and asked to use a telephone.

The man, said Mrs. Glowacki, ran out quickly, calling out, "The school is on fire," after she told him she had no public telephone.

Police began a search for the man, described as middle-aged. Two of the three nuns who perished had celebrated their silver jubilees as members of their religious society. Sister Mary St. Canice, the former May Lyng of Chicago, entered the Sisters of Charity of the Blessed Virgin Mary in 1932. Sister Mary Seraphina, the former Virginia Kelley of Chicago, celebrated her jubilee two months ago. She joined the order in 1933.

Sister Mary Clara Therese, the third nun, entered the order from San Francisco about 10 years ago and took her final vows as a sister two years ago.

Children

Clara Theresa told us to get out of the windows and get on the ledge and stay there. I got out the window and stood on the ledge, but lots of others jumped.

Mary and others on the ledge were rescued by firemen later. Her companions who left the ledge were found in little clusters of dead and dying and injured on the pavement below by the firemen who arrived.

Mary hunted in the milling throng for her two brothers, Gerald, 9, and Dennis, 7, and then ran home. Her brothers had reached home ahead of her. Mary's mother, Mrs. Ann Brock, took Mary to a hospital for treatment of facial burns.

Mary Lattando, 12, a seventh grader, said she knew nothing about the fire until she heard children screaming in an adjoining eighth-grade room.

"Smoke began to pour into our room," Mary related. "A lot of children began to cry. There was a big jam at the door of the room because so many wanted to get out. One boy collapsed from inhaling smoke. Another was hanging out of a window, calling for help."

Joseph Brocato, 11, a sixth-grade pupil, was brought to St. Elizabeth's hospital by his father, Anthony. Joseph said he and a classmate were emptying waste paper baskets from his classroom in the boiler room. That was near 3 o'clock, the time of dismissal of classes.

"Suddenly," Joseph told a reporter, "I saw the janitor running from the boiler room. The janitor yelled 'call the fire department.' My classmates and I ran upstairs and we were told by the nuns to go into the church (around the corner from the school). A lot of children were in the church. We were told to go home."

Kathy Harte, 11, also a sixth grader, said her teacher was giving out an assignment for homework, when one of the girls saw smoke coming out of a window.

"I Couldn't Breathe."

"Miss Rossi (the teacher) lined us up in fire drill line and we began to file out into the hall," Kathy said. "The black smoke kept coming into the hall. It got in my mouth and I couldn't breathe until I got to a window."

"Then I felt someone pushing me. They pushed me all the way down the stairs. I don't know who it was, but I think it was some eighth grader, one of the bigger kids."

Sylvia Tesaro, 13, an eighth grader, told her story from a room in the Walther Memorial hospital, where she was confined with three other pupils.

"Two girls entered our classroom and said the hall was filled with smoke, Sylvia related. "Sister tried to lead the class downstairs. We were forced back by the thick black smoke and had to go to the windows to get air. Many of the girls were crying, sobbing like everything."

"Firemen raised ladders up against the ledge and I came down a ladder. Other pupils were jumping and falling from windows. On the ground children were lying all around and there was a lot of blood on the ground."

George Tomilla, 10, said the smoke forced him out onto the second-floor ledge. He dangled briefly from the ledge by his fingertips then jumped. He suffered a fractured hip.

Thomas Raymond, 12, who was trapped in an eighth-grade classroom on the second floor, said he and several classmates were rescued by firemen who lifted a ladder to the window.

"We thought at first that the yells came from kids playing in the corridor," he said. "Then, we heard someone shout, 'Fire! fire!'"

He said the fire bell rang, and his teacher said, "Get up and get out fast."

Raymond said he was the last of the class to reach the corridor.

"There was lots of smoke," he said. "I couldn't breathe or nothing. I was going to jump, but just then some girls came in. I told them to get down on the floor because of the smoke."

Raymond said he broke a window by hurling school books through the pane. He was thinking of jumping again, when firemen shouted at him not to.

"I kept thinking how I'd look dead," Raymond said. He was not hurt.

Carlos Lozano, 10, whose leg was injured in a leap from a second-floor window, said: "Everybody was jumping. The smoke was terrible. Everybody was screaming. Everybody was trying to get on the firemen's ladders at the same time."

Patricia Perryman, 14, slid headfirst down a fire ladder, scraping her left arm. From her bed in Walther Memorial hospital, she told of panic in the room where 55 girls had been taking a reading test.

"Most of them were fearful, and some of them started jumping up and running around."

Patricia said a nun, Sister Conice, calmed the children before a fire ladder was lifted to the window.

"There were some coming out after me," she said. "I don't know if all of them got out."

JURY CHOSEN IN ATLANTA

TEMPLE DYNAMITING TRIAL

ATLANTA, Dec. 2 (AP)—A jury was completed today for the trial of George Allen Bright, one of five men accused of dynamiting the Jewish temple. The others will be tried later.

The defense exhausted all of its 20 challenges and the state all but one of its 10 before 12 jurors were seated. The state accepted a bus operator who said he was a former member of the Ku Klux Klan as the tenth juror. Observers speculated that the former Klansman was less objectionable to the prosecution than others coming up on the list.

Thirteen prospective jurors were excused because they opposed capital punishment, a possible penalty for Bright. Three or four others of the 24 other veniremen examined today were excused because they said they were biased.

Veniremen opposing capital punishment or expressing bias were excused for cause and did not exhaust pre-emptory challenges of either defense or prosecution.

KANSAS RIGHT-TO-WORK AMENDMENT IS IN EFFECT

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 2 (AP)—Kansas Attorney General John Anderson ruled yesterday that union security clauses in existing labor-management contracts are illegal immediately, with certain exceptions, under the state's so-called right-to-work constitutional amendment approved at the Nov. 4 general election.

The exceptions, Anderson said, are where Congress has authorized individuals and companies engaged in interstate commerce to make such union security agreements. These include railroads and airlines.

Anderson ruled that the amendment became effective as of Nov. 4, when it was adopted by a margin of 88,000 votes.

POPE SENDS CONDOLENCES TO CHICAGO FIRE VICTIMS

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 2 (UPI)—News of the tragic fire in the Roman Catholic grade school in Chicago was received with deep sorrow in the Vatican today, a high church spokesman said.

Pope John XXIII was informed of the fire by Secretary of State Cardinal-elect Domenico Tardini at the customary morning audience.

Before withdrawing to his private chapel to pray for the victims, the Pope instructed Cardinal Tardini to wire papal condolences to Msgr. Albert Gregory Meyer, archbishop of Chicago.

The secretary of state also was instructed to wire the apostolic delegate in Washington, Cardinal-elect Amleto Coggiani, asking that he leave immediately for Chicago or send an emissary to convey the Pope's sorrow to the families of the victims.

PEDESTRIAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Gustave Kruse, 75 years old, was killed yesterday when he was struck by an automobile when crossing the intersection of Lee and Harris avenues. The driver, Raymond D. Newsom, 23, of 3612 Lee, told police he saw Kruse but was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident. Newsom, an auto plant assembler, said his machine skidded when he applied the brakes. Kruse, who lived at 4214 Lee, died shortly after he was brought to Homer G. Phillips Hospital. He was retired. Elmer R. Welker, 55, 4980 Wren avenue, was injured seriously early today when a truck he was driving collided with a Yellow taxicab at Tenth street and Washington avenue. Police said Welker's truck, property of the Columbia Trucking Co., 1415 Singleton street, was going south in Tenth. The taxicab, driven by David Thomas, 277A DeBaliere avenue, was being driven west in Washington. Thomas walked away from the accident scene and was arrested at the taxicab office, 4617 Delmar boulevard, police reported. He was charged with careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident, and was ordered to appear in police court Dec. 18. Welker, who suffered a head injury, was taken to City Hospital. Thomas was treated for a laceration of the leg. $4700 Stolen in Holdup. CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 2 (UPI)—A well-dressed man held up the Sheker Savings and Loan Co. branch in Cleveland yesterday and fled with $4700.

NEW ASSEMBLY MEMBERS TOLD OF FISCAL TASK

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 2 (AP)—New members of Missouri's Legislature were told at a legislative conference at the University of Missouri yesterday that they must figure out a way to cut state spending or find additional state revenue.

"It is not a pleasant task which you have before you," said Dr. John W. Schwada, state comptroller and budget director.

He said the dilemma was this: Either the requested appropriations must be cut some $10,000,000 or additional funds must be raised.

"There are no easy answers," he said.

When state agencies made their requests for operating budgets for the fiscal year starting next July 1, Schwada said, they totaled about $212,000,000, and $25,000,000 more was asked for buildings and other capital improvements.

He said the budget staff cut the operating requests down to about $200,000,000 and had virtually eliminated all capital improvements "because we have no other choice."

But he noted the estimated income for the state's general revenue fund would be only about $188,000,000 at best. Making up the difference will be one of the 1959 session's biggest jobs.

Schwada said the state had to dip into its reserves to finance this year's budget but that could not be done again if the state is to maintain financial stability. Senator John W. Noble, Kennett Democrat and Senate appropriations chairman, sounded the same serious note. He said appropriations "must be held within the revenues and resources of the state."

Gov. James T. Blair welcomed the new members in an informal speech last night. Other speakers told how the Legislature was set up and how it operated.

The new members were briefed today on specific legislative issues expected to arise in the 1959 session.

The two-day orientation course is sponsored by the Committee on Legislative Research. About 70 attended.

PRESIDENT NAMES DODGE TO AID-STUDY COMMITTEE

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 2 (UPI)—Joseph M. Dodge was named today by President Eisenhower as an additional member of the special committee established recently to revalue the relative merits of military assistance and economic foreign aid.

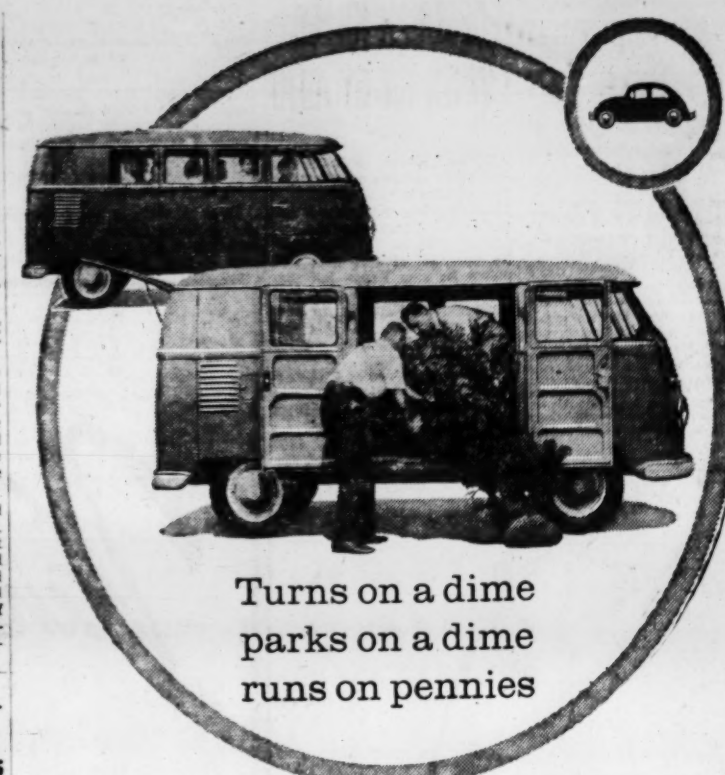

Dodge, chairman of the board of the Detroit Bank, was Mr. Eisenhower's first Budget Director, serving in 1953 and 1954. He then became special assistant to the President and chairman of the Council of Foreign Economic Policy, serving until 1956 when he returned to private business.

Stevenson Position: 'I Am Not, Will Not Be' 1960 Candidate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says "I am not and I will not be" a candidate for a third presidential nomination in 1960.

Some talk has persisted of Stevenson as a possible choice of the Democrats, despite the fact he was snubbed under twice by President Eisenhower.

Stevenson's latest views were expressed in a letter to Richard P. Powers, Associated Press reporter, who had inquired as to his reaction to talk of a third nomination.

Stevenson also was asked whether Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, had been his personal choice for the vice-presidential nomination in 1956.

The delegates to the 1956 Chicago convention, after receiving word from Stevenson that they should settle the vice-presidential nomination on the floor, named Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, to the No. 2 place by a narrow edge over Senator John Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts.

Stevenson in his letter said he had maintained complete neutrality on the nomination for the Democratic vice-presidential candidate in 1956.

"I expressed no preference and had none," Stevenson said. "My decision with respect to letting the delegates select the candidate for Vice President was made prior to the time I met with my party leaders at the stadium."

"As for 1960, my position is what it has always been and that is that I am not and will not be a candidate."

He did not say, however, what he would do if the nomination was again offered to him.

On June 16, prior to his visit to Russia, Stevenson told newsmen in London who had asked him thinking about 1960 "I have not been, I am not, and I will not be nominated as Democratic presidential candidate."

Some political experts, however, think his chances have been strengthened by the results of the Nov. 4 election in which many liberal-type Democratic candidates won Senate and House seats to swell the party's control of both branches of Congress.

They reason that Stevenson would be more acceptable to the South than some possible candidates with more extreme views on such matters as integration and the role of the Federal Government in domestic affairs.

LEHIGH VALLEY ROAD AIMS TO END PASSENGER SERVICE

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The Lehigh Valley Railroad, which operates in New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, announced plans yesterday to discontinue its entire passenger service operations, citing dwindling business and huge losses.

C. A. Major, president, said the carrier would lose $4,500,000 from its passenger business this year. He stated at a press conference that the number of passengers carried by the railroad has declined from 2,000,000 in 1946 to 600,000 this year. He said the Lehigh Valley would file necessary papers with the Interstate Commerce Commission within 10 days.

If it is successful in its plans, the Lehigh Valley would be the first major eastern railroad to abandon its entire passenger operations.

POLICEMAN FINED $2000 ON 4 CHARGES

Patrolman Cornelius Turner of the Carr Street district was fined a total of $2000 in police court today on charges of peace disturbance and committing a lewd act.

Turner was found guilty of the charges in a trial yesterday. The fines, $500 each for three peace disturbance charges and the lewd act charge, were imposed today by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal.

Turner was acquitted on a fourth peace disturbance charge which involved molestation of a minor. He was suspended from the police department last Oct. 22 when police received a complaint alleging that he had molested a 15-year-old girl earlier that day.

The charge of committing a lewd act involved Turner's alleged improper advances toward a woman whose home he entered last Sept. 7, purportedly to ask questions about police matters.

One of the peace disturbance charges grew out of an alleged incident the same day in which Turner entered another woman's home and questioned her.

Turner, 25 years old, announced he would appeal the fines. He lives at 5346A Wells avenue.

SAD TALE ABOUT BOUNTY FOR TAILS OF SKUNKS

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Dec. 2 (UPI)—Marin county offered a $1 bounty for tails of skunks and raccoons.

Some 28 tails later, County Agricultural Commissioner Thomas W. Perryman wasn't sure it had all been worth it.

Twice claimants walked into his office with skunk tails and both times he was unable to use the office for the rest of the day.

GEN. E.P. CURTIS WILL GET COLLIER TROPHY AWARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The National Aeronautics Association has chosen Gen. Edward P. Curtis, former special assistant to President Eisenhower, to receive the 1957 Collier trophy award.

The award is sponsored by Look magazine and is "given for the greatest achievement in aviation in America." A miniature of the trophy will be presented to Curtis by the President at the White House on Dec. 16.

N.A.A. President Thomas G. Langhorne Jr. said Curtis was chosen for "aviation facilities planning," a report to the President on long range planning to meet problems of air space in the jet age.

BOY DRINKS ANTI-FREEZE. HIS CONDITION IS SERIOUS

Billy Hatley, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hatley, 4155 McPherson avenue, was in serious condition at City Hospital today after swallowing a small quantity of automobile anti-freeze.

Mrs. Hatley said her son found a can containing the anti-freeze under a bed in the bedroom of their home yesterday afternoon. He became ill after drinking from the can and fell asleep.

When the parents were unable to arouse him last night, they called police. The boy was taken to the hospital.

Sudan Buying Factory.

KHARTOUM, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The Sudanese defense ministry has agreed to buy an ammunition factory from West Germany, it was reported today. It was understood the ministry plans to send specialists to West Germany for training in operation of the plant.

AUTO CLUB BARRED FROM LAW ACTIVITY

A permanent injunction prohibiting attorneys for the Automobile Club of Missouri from entering pleas or requesting continuances for members involved in traffic offenses was entered yesterday by Circuit Judge Theodore A. McMillian.

The injunction also bars the Automobile Club from giving its members advice and counsel on legal matters relating to traffic violations and from maintaining a legal department for purpose of solving individual legal problems of members or disposing of their "transgressions."

The injunction followed filing of an opinion by Judge McMillian Oct. 21 holding that dispensing legal advice and making appearances in city courts to enter pleas of guilty or not guilty or requesting continuances constituted the unauthorized practice of law by a corporation.

The opinion was given in a suit for declaratory judgment filed by the Automobile Club against the Bar Committee of the Eighth Judicial Circuit, which was about to begin legal proceedings against the club.

The injunction decree held that the Automobile Club, in making court appearances and giving legal advice, was violating the terms of a consent decree signed by the Bar Committee and the Automobile Club in 1941, covering most of the points raised in the suit.

George L. Stemmler, who represented the Automobile Club in the suit, contended the practices of the club were purely ministerial and did not constitute unauthorized practice of law. He said attorneys did not defend members in court.

REDS DEMAND U.S. TROOPS EVACUATE KOREA, FORMOSA

TOKYO, Dec. 2 (AP)—Communist North Korea and North Viet Nam demanded today that the United States pull its troops out of South Korea, Japan and the Formosa Strait and "stop interference in South Viet Nam."

They charged in a joint communique that America was blocking peaceful unification of both Viet Nam and Korea. The communique was signed in Hanoi by North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung and North Viet Nam Premier Pham Van Dong.

It called for establishment of zones in Europe and Asia free of nuclear weapons, the Pyongyang radio reported.

Kim and a North Korean government delegation had been in Hanoi since last Friday. They also signed an agreement on exchange and payments for 1959.

The North Koreans left today for Communist China, where they had conferred with Red Chinese officials before coming to Hanoi.

HEADS OF 9 LOCALS OF UNION SUSPENDED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The governing body of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks suspended the officers of nine big city locals yesterday in order to head off a breakaway movement by the locals.

All assets and properties of the big locals were simultaneously placed in the hands of trustees. The nine locals were said to include about 18,000 members, or some 20 per cent of the total strength of the union, which claims to be the largest organization of federal workers. The action by the national executive committee, the national union's 16-member governing group, was announced after a special session.

Officers were suspended and property put under trustees at Local 10, New York City; Local 251, Brooklyn; Local 89, Philadelphia; Local 100, Boston; Local 295, Detroit; Local 125, Minneapolis; Local 64, Los Angeles; Local 190, Newark, and Local 3, Milwaukee, the announcement said. Local 231, Staten Island, N.Y., and Local 65, St. Paul, Minn., had previously been put under trusteeship.

Union President J. Cline House said many individual union members "are out of sympathy with dissident metropolitan local leaders who have organized a rebel faction known as the 'Progressive Feds.'"

House said the dissenters followed rule-or-ruin tactics in recent unsuccessful demands for election of national officers by union-wide referendum rather than through delegates to union conventions.

"The dissident faction has continued over a long period to flout the expressed will of the majority," House said.

"The national union leadership has been left no alternative but to act to protect the interests of rank-and-file members. Yet we have faith in the ultimate reasonableness and fair play of all our members, and no doors will be closed to anyone."

Patricia Mallory Dies.
SANTA MONICA, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—Patricia (Boots) Mallory, former stage and screen beauty and wife of actor Herbert Marshall, died yesterday of a chronic throat ailment. She was 45 years old.

SPECULATOR FINED IN SOYBEAN FRAUD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2 (AP)—A former millionaire grain speculator, L. V. Butler, pleaded guilty yesterday of using the mails to defraud and was fined $8000 in United States District Court.

Judge Lester L. Cecil of Dayton, O., placed two of Butler's former business associates on two-year probation on similar charges. John J. Wilson Sr. and Ernest Spencer Morgan, both of Mobile, Ala., also pleaded guilty.

Butler and his friends were charged with 14 counts of fraud each. Butler sold 1,800,000 bushels of soybeans he did not possess to two grain companies for $4,441,000 in 1954 when he made a wrong guess in the grain market and was caught in a squeeze.

Judge Cecil imposed fines on Butler of $1000 each on the first two counts and $500 fines on each of the remaining 12. The judge explained the reason for a fine instead of imprisonment or probation thus: "I am satisfied that L. V. Butler did not personally profit by his manipulations. As for punishment the defendant, through humiliation and loss of fortune, has suffered more than any penalty I can inflict."

The judge said he believed the other two men were merely carrying out orders from their employer, Butler, and had no criminal intent in their part of the transaction.

DAUGHTER OF IRAN'S SHAH HAS A GIRL, HER FIRST CHILD

TEHRAN, Dec. 2 (AP)—The daughter of the Shah of Iran, 18-year-old Princess Shahnaz, gave birth to a girl today. The Princess is the wife of an engineer, Ardeshir Zahedi.

The couple sent a cable to the Shah, who is vacationing in Europe, and asked him to name his first grandchild.

Princess Shahnaz is the Shah's only child. Her mother was the Shah's first wife, the former Egyptian Princess Fawzia, eldest sister of ex-King Farouk. The Shah divorced Fawzia in 1948.

The Shah's second wife, Soraya, daughter of an Iranian chieftain, failed to produce any offspring and was divorced last March 14.

Cadillac

Even Newer from Behind the Wheel!

Odds are you've seen the new 1959 Cadillac by now—perhaps sweeping regally past you on the boulevard... perhaps making its majestic arrival at a fine club or hotel.

And odds are, too, that you've wondered if this 1959 "car of cars" could be as superlative in performance as it is in appearance.

Well, once you've found out for yourself, we think the truth will amaze you. For this Cadillac is even newer from behind the wheel! You will sense it, in fact, the moment you hear the whisper-quiet response of its great new engine.

And your sentiment will grow to conviction as you discover—one by one—the other wonders of Cadillac's new performance... responsiveness so immediate and silken that it is difficult to believe ... handling ease so remarkable that you follow the curves and corners with the lightest imaginable movement of hand and wheel... a quality of ride so smooth and level and quiet that even the byways travel like boulevards.

Indeed, the evidence will be overwhelming—a journey at its wheel is the world's most glorious interval between start and stop.

If this sounds almost too good to be true... well, the proof is no farther away than your nearest authorized Cadillac dealer.

He'll be delighted to make you his guest—to explain the virtues of each of Cadillac's thirteen new Fleetwood-crafted models, including the Eldorado Brougham—and to let you take the wheel for yourself.

11 COUNTRIES ACT TO AVERT TARIFF WAR IN W. EUROPE

GENEVA, Dec. 2 (AP)—Eleven countries left out of the European common market called today for new efforts to avert a tariff war in western Europe.

At the end of a two-day meeting, senior economic officials of these countries agreed to pursue efforts to bring about a satisfactory association between the common market and other members of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The meeting was convened by Switzerland to discuss possible joint measures against the trade discrimination feared from the tariff policy of the common market.

The countries represented are Switzerland, Britain, Austria, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Portugal, Ireland, Iceland, Greece and Turkey.

A ministerial meeting of the common market countries—France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—opens in Brussels tomorrow. It is expected to discuss possible further negotiations with the non-common-market group.

Negotiations for establishing a European free trade area of all 17 OEEC countries broke down last month.

ARGENTINE RAIL STRIKE CALLED OFF AT DEADLINE

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2 (UPI)—A rail strike scheduled to start last midnight was called off at the last minute because of reported government concessions to the unions concerned.

Union sources said the government, which had ordered the conscription of all active and retired unionists to meet the strike threat, has agreed to release arrested unionists and to consider lifting a ban on union activity.

TWO GET LIFE FOR KILLING

CRESTVIEW, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two brothers were sentenced yesterday to life terms for the killing of a Crestview police chief 18 years ago.

Circuit Judge Erwin Fleet imposed the life imprisonment on Jesse Cayson and Doyle Cayson. They were convicted Nov. 23 of killing Lester Wilson, father of the present sheriff, Ray Wilson. No motive was established.

RUSSIA REPORTED SUPPLYING JETS, TANKS TO IRAQ

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Russia has started supplying jet fighters, tanks and other arms to Iraq, privately informed diplomats said today.

A Foreign Office spokesman indicated Britain has information to confirm the report that a Soviet merchant ship has been unloading military equipment on the Shatt el Arab river in the last few days. "I would not think that this report is unlikely," he said.

The government of Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, which seized power in Iraq July 14, followed a neutralist policy in foreign affairs and has indicated it is ready to accept arms from any of the big powers.

Iraqi armed forces in the past have been equipped mainly by the British and Americans. The Iraqi air force has a squadron of British Hawker Hunter jet fighters and, as a loan from President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, about a dozen Russian-built MIG jet fighters.

Neither the Russians nor the Iraqis have yet announced an arms agreement. However, if the arrival of Soviet arms is confirmed it would mean that the Russians have gained yet another military foothold among the nations of the Middle East. Any military supplies provided by the Russians usually are followed by the arrival of Soviet military advisers.

Iraq's political and military policy trends will be one of the subjects examined this winter by foreign ministers of its old partners in the Baghdad pact. The ministers are expected to meet in Tehran in January or February. Active members are Britain, Turkey, Pakistan and Iran. The United States is virtually committed to all the obligations of full membership without actually having joined the alliance.

U.S. Inclined to Believe Reports of Arms Sent to Iraq

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A State Department spokesman said today the United States places some belief in reports that Iraq is receiving arms from the Soviet bloc.

That was the reaction of press chief Lincoln White when asked for comment on a British Foreign Office statement that the reports likely were true.

The shipments of Communist arms within the last couple of weeks were said to be in significant numbers.

The United States maintains a military aid mission in Baghdad, Iraq's capital. This group was there at the time of the July 14 coup which overthrew the pro-West regime of King Faisal and it stayed on.

You Can Hear Pinball Drop.

OSAKA, Japan, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The association of pachinko (pinball) operators signed an agreement today to remove the bells from their pinball machines in order to co-operate with the city's anti-noise campaign.

PRAVDA GIVES RED PRESS A LESSON ON WHAT IS NEWS

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The Moscow radio denounced Russian provincial newspapers today for failing to play up Premier Khrushchev's new seven-year plan or for being "intolerably slow" to spread the word.

A broadcast quoting an editorial in the Communist organ Pravda said editorial staffs who do not rush into print with Khrushchev's "theses" are "inconsiderate" and "divorced from life."

The "theses" outline the program which Khrushchev says will enable Russia to "surpass America's standard of living." "Workers, collective farmers and the intelligentsia warmly approve the report by Comrade Khrushchev... which defined the majestic tasks of the most important period in the development of our country," Pravda said.

"Some newspapers, however, have so far failed adequately to discuss the debates on the theses..."

ADMITTS TAKING DRUG BEFORE TESTIFYING

Willard Chatman, a government witness, testified in United States District Court today that he had given himself an injection of heroin shortly before taking the witness stand.

The government called Chatman, of the 5000 block of Enright avenue, to testify in the case of William Robinson, filling station operator, charged with conspiracy to buy, sell and conceal illicit heroin.

"I made my living by gambling and stealing," Chatman said when a federal attorney asked him his occupation. He had been convicted six times, serving prison sentences for narcotics violations and for burglary and larceny.

Chatman and Arthur L. Jefferson, both of whom previously pleaded guilty of participating in a narcotics conspiracy with Robinson, testified they received money from Robinson to purchase heroin in Chicago.

The witnesses said they tested the narcotics on themselves, cut the heroin and then delivered the watered-down product to Robinson in capsule form.

The conspiracy indictment, indictment, which named four other defendants, charged that Robinson paid $1400 for heroin last February, March and April. The narcotics were illegally imported into the United States, it was alleged.

Robinson, whose filling station is near Enright avenue and Kingshighway, is being tried before a jury in the court of United States District Judge George H. Moore. Chatman and Jefferson are awaiting sentence.

LIUTENANT COLONEL TAKES CUT TO AIRMAN FIRST CLASS

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—An Air Force lieutenant colonel became an airman first class yesterday.

George F. Gaertner Jr., 60 years old, a chaplain, was discharged after nearly 18 years of service in the reserve. He could not remain as a reserve officer because, to do so, a reserve officer below the rank of major general must have completed 18 years before reaching 60.

He wanted a pension but could not qualify without serving 20 years. So he enlisted as an airman first class. After two years as an enlisted man, he will be eligible to retire with the pension of his former rank—about $340 a month. Meanwhile, he takes a drop in pay and allowances from $544 to $190 a month.

ITALIAN MARITIME UNIONS ORDER MEN BACK TO WORK

ROME, Dec. 2 (AP)—Striking Italian maritime unions ordered their members back to work today while negotiations continued on demands for higher pay and better working conditions.

The six unions ended a nine-day strike after a meeting yesterday with Giuseppe Spataro, minister of the merchant marine. The strike had tied up 41 Italian ships, including the trans-Atlantic liners Cristoforo Colombo and Giulio Cesare.

BITTEN BY RABBIT BAT, DIES

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 2 (AP)—The nation's first clearly established case of rabies infection from a bat's bite was reported yesterday by the California State Health Department.

Mrs. Flora Menzelaar of Magalia died Nov. 4 of rabies. Mrs. Menzelaar was bitten Aug. 30 when she picked the bat from the ground in her yard. She placed the creature, weakened by illness, on a tree branch to put it out of reach of her dog.

C.A.B. ACTS TO END AMATEUR ROCKET PERIL TO PLANES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board stepped in today to protect airplanes from the hazards of amateur rocketry.

The board proposed to prohibit rocket and missile firings within five miles of any airport, and to bar them entirely in areas of controlled air space such as civil airways and airport traffic patterns.

The new rules would prohibit firings to a height of more than 500 feet unless the launching site and firing were approved by the administrator of civil aeronautics.

The board tacitly conceded it would run into a deluge of complaints. It said that because of the large number of comments it anticipates, it would be unable to acknowledge receipt of each communication. It agreed also that the educational benefits from organized programs of experimental rocketry are of importance to the nation, but it said not all rocket firings have been handled properly.

NIXON HELPS MAP 1960 PROGRAM FOR CALIFORNIA G.O.P.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—A California Republican leader said today that Vice President Nixon helped draft a party program expected to produce victory in that state in 1960.

George W. Milias, state G.O.P. chairman, said "it goes without saying that most California Republicans expect Nixon to head the national ticket in the next election."

Milias and 15 other California G.O.P. leaders conferred with Nixon most of the day yesterday and then were at his home last night.

LAWYER FOR CREDIT UNION FOUND HANGED IN GARAGE

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., Dec. 2 (AP)—The body of one of the attorneys representing the Noble county credit union, Porter D. Crowell, was found hanging in a garage here today.

Crowell, a former prosecutor, left a note blaming himself for "the anguish, bitterness, misery and despair of hundreds of my friends" caused by a fund shortage that may reach $2,000,000.

Yesterday, nine business firms and other assets of Arnold G. Hobbs, former manager of the credit union, were placed in temporary receivership in an attempt to salvage some of the money Hobbs is charged with embezzling. Crowell appeared for the credit union yesterday.

"My life is crushed," Crowell's note said. "I failed in the responsibility that was entrusted to me, and the great wrong that has been committed is a result of my failure in that responsibility. I pray forgiveness for all the suffering and grief resulting from my unworthiness."

TWO MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR SIR HUBERT WILKINS

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Dec. 2 (UPI)—Memorial services for polar explorer Sir Hubert Wilkins will be held here and at Washington, D.C., with burial at Westminster Abbey in London, it was announced today.

Funeral services for the Australian-born polar expert who died of a coronary attack in his hotel room yesterday will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church.

The body will be cremated and the ashes placed in Westminster Abbey.

A memorial service will also be held at the Washington (D.C.) Cathedral with Dr. Harold Dudley of the Episcopal ministry officiating.

FLOOD CONTROL SLIPPING

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (UPI)—A Tennessee Valley Authority official said yesterday that, with cities expanding rapidly into flood-vulnerable lowlands, the nation is "losing ground" in its efforts to solve the flood problem by control measures alone.

Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Volgel, chairman of the TVA board of directors, said flood avoidance must go "hand in hand with flood control."

Vogel addressed a national conference on flood plan regulation and insurance. He said that despite all efforts at flood control, average annual losses have increased rather than decreased.

Vote Canvass

Although some of the totals were quite close, Jules M. O'Neill, chief Democratic clerk of the Election Board, noted that in each township there were 12 to 15 instances in which the regular canvassers reported that a voter had moved while the postcard check did not, and vice versa.

The Election Board decided to check the accuracy of the regular canvassing method by mailing postcards after the Post-Dispatch disclosed registration irregularities before the Wellston city election last April 1.

MANUFACTURER, UNIONIST DIFFER AS TO PAY-OFFS

By EDWARD F. WOODS

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Senate investigators today heard conflicting testimony relating to an alleged pay-off of $27,000 to a union leader to end a boycott.

Carl L. Burrows, manager of the midwest division of the Coleman Co. of Wichita, Kan., swore before the Senate labor racketeering investigating committee that he and another officer of the company made the payments to insure that members of the AFL-CIO Sheet Metal Workers would install heating equipment made by the firm.

But Arthur H. Cronin, president of a 4000-member Chicago local of the Sheet Metal Workers and a vice president of the international, named by Burrows as the recipient of the payoff, denied he had ever accepted any money from the Coleman executives.

Agree $5000 Was Returned. The witnesses agreed in their testimony on one point—that Burrows passed $5000 cash to Cronin in an envelope at a meeting in the cocktail lounge of the LaSalle Hotel in Chicago on Dec. 30, 1954, but that Cronin returned it to the company manager.

Burrows' version was that this was the last of a series of cash payoffs to Cronin dating back to June 1952 and that it came back to him in the form of a cashier's check with a letter dated the following day. In the letter, Burrows testified, Cronin said he had not known when he accepted the envelope that it contained the $5000 and that he could not keep it.

Denying all of Burrows' testimony relating to the purported cash transaction, except that dealing with the $5000 he returned, Cronin told the Senators:

"If they (Burrows and Louis Marks, sales manager for the company) took that money out of the firm, they did something else with it. They didn't give it to me."

Acquainted With Burrows. Cronin conceded that he was acquainted with Burrows and may have met him in Marks' office at Chicago. He also admitted that they had discussed from time to time the trouble the Coleman company was having with the Sheet Metal union because its own plant was organized into an independent union and the subcontracting companies which supplied fittings for its furnaces were members of the AFL-CIO Sheet Metal Workers union, not the Sheet Metal Workers.

But Cronin insisted he did nothing to alleviate their problem beyond a few suggestions. He said he told the company officials to take the matter up with the union's general office.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy questioned Burrows closely about the return of the $5000 in 1954. Senator John L. McClellan (Dem., Arkansas), committee chairman, said he was "intrigued" by Cronin's rebate of the $5000 payment and wanted to know more about it.

Burrows testified that after he got the money back, he called Cronin from Wichita and went to Chicago to try to find out "what happened."

Both Were "Agitated." "Cronin was agitated and so was I," the witness said of this meeting.

Cronin's only explanation, Burrows went on, was that if he had known the envelope contained the $5000 he wouldn't have taken it. The envelope, Burrows testified, also had in it copies of correspondence he had had with an Oregon heating firm about trouble the company was having with the Sheet Metal Workers, and a notation that he had asked Cronin to take care of it.

Kennedy asked the witness if he was aware that an agent of the Internal Revenue Service had watched the transfer of the money-bearing envelope in the cocktail lounge. He said he learned about that later.

Burrows said the company began having trouble with the Sheet Metal Workers in various cities, including St. Louis, in 1952, and that Marks was assigned to straighten the matter out.

In June 1952, he said, Marks reported the problem could be solved with an outlay of $2000. He said he cashed a company check for $2000 at the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, and that he and Marks delivered the money to Cronin on a Chicago street.

Transactions "Off Color." Burrows agreed with Senator McClellan that the purported transactions—with the union agent were "off color" and not above board, but he also agreed with Counsel Kennedy that he got what he paid for. He said the company's problems with the Sheet Metal Workers were "alleviated" after the payments allegedly started.

Though his plant was not unionized by the Sheet Metal Union, it was able to put that organization's label on its furnaces by having a fitting made in a plant which was unionized by the Sheet Metal Workers.

Fleeing in Anti-Semitism Case. OFFENBURG, Germany, Dec. 2 (AP)—Ludwig Zind, a German teacher sentenced to one year imprisonment for anti-Semitic remarks, may have fled to Argentina. Police quoted Zind's son as saying his father had received an offer to teach in Argentina and probably had left. The Federal Supreme Court upheld the sentence Friday and Zind was to have begun serving his sentence the next day.

Hoffa Conferring With Aid

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
JAMES R. HOFFA, Teamsters' international president, right, confers with PETE SAFO, secretary-treasurer of Local 610, Teamsters Union, before addressing a general membership meeting of the local at Kiel Auditorium Opera house last night.

Teamsters

"spending untold sums" of the membership's money. He complained that the monitors "are directing every detail" of the union's affairs, although the monitors were intended "only to oversee union operations."

"We will not under any circumstances surrender our autonomy even if it means violating rules laid down by the monitors," Hoffa declared. "We will fight to keep our elected officials in office," he asserted.

Predicts Worse to Come. Turning to the troubles of the Teamsters' union involving charges of corruption, Hoffa said the "trials and investigations of today are nothing compared to what we will go through in years to come."

The current "hysteria" about the rank-and-file being abused, Hoffa continued, will result in a great deal of legislation aimed at protecting union membership.

"No Congressman can draft a bill to fit organized labor without taking away some of the self-control labor has enjoyed in the last 20 years," he declared.

Ex-Mayor Overton Dies. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2 (AP)—S. Watkins Overton, former mayor of Memphis, died today. He was 64 years old. A top lieutenant in the old E. H. Crump machine, he retired from politics after an attempted comeback in which he lost the 1955 mayor's race to Edmund Orgill, a year after Crump's death.

BIRMINGHAM'S BUS SEATING LAW UPHELD

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—A Birmingham circuit judge today upheld this city's new bus seating law in affirming convictions of 13 Negroes for violating it.

Judge George Lewis Bailes fixed sentences for the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth and 12 other defendants at the same levels as those given earlier in city court.

The Negroes gave immediate notice of further appeal. The new law allows bus drivers to assign seats to all passengers. It does not mention race or segregation but in practice drivers have assigned Negroes to the rear sections and whites to the front.

The new law is somewhat similar in language to the school placement law, recently upheld by the United States Supreme Court, in that it contains no mention of race but in effect preserves separation of Negroes and whites.

Negro Attorney Arthur D. Shores, defending the Negroes, called the new bus law fair on its face but discriminatory in application.

Failure to obey the orders of the drivers is a breach of the peace, a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum of six months in jail and a $100 fine.

Bus driver I. M. Daniels testified that he individually told nine Negroes who took forward seats on his bus to move to the rear. They remained seated.

Police Capt. W. G. Haley testified that a traffic hazard was created downtown when the busses were halted because of the demonstration. He said "a number of people—it was in the 100s—had gathered in the street."

The Rev. Mr. Shuttlesworth was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $100. The Rev. J. S. Phifer was sentenced to 30 days and fined the same amount. The others received suspended sentences but joined in the appeal.

The Negroes were sentenced under a section of the city code dealing with disorderly conduct. Former United States Senator Glen Taylor was prosecuted successfully on this count when he tried to enter

30-DAY FORECAST: UNUSUALLY COLD IN MUCH OF NORTH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Weather Bureau foresees weather colder than normal in the northern half of the nation east of the continental divide in the next 30 days.

The 30-day forecast, issued yesterday, says: "The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for December calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals over the northern half of the nation from the continental divide eastward to the Atlantic seaboard."

"Above normal temperatures are indicated for the California coast and Florida. In other areas about normal temperatures for the season are in prospect."

"Precipitation is expected to exceed normal along the Gulf and Atlantic coast, over the northern plains, and along the West coast."

"Over the northern half of the nation much of the precipitation will be in the form of snow."

"Subnormal amounts are expected in the southern plateau, the southern Rocky Mountain states and the central plains. Otherwise near normal precipitation is indicated."

U.A.R. SAYS ISRAELI PLANES VIOLATED GAZA AIR SPACE

GAZA, U.A.R., Dec. 2 (AP)—The United Arab Republic charged that four Israeli planes violated the Gaza strip's air space today. It protested to the Egyptian-Israeli mixed armistice commission.

Seizure of a little Egyptian ship off Haifa Saturday also drew a protest. The U.A.R. demanded release of the 150-ton Mossada, its cargo and crew. An Egyptian spokesman said the Mossada was sailing 25 miles off the Israeli coast when it was seized by an armed Israeli launch.

a door reserved for Negroes at an interracial meeting when he was the Progressive party's candidate for Vice President in 1948.

$1,500,000 JEWELRY THEFT FROM HOTEL

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—The key to theft of $1,500,000 worth of diamonds, rubies and emeralds from a vault in the Congress Hotel may be just that—a key.

The theft was reported yesterday by Charles Staiger, vice president of Harry Winston, Inc., New York diamond broker. Staiger told police Lt. Charles Pierson he placed the jewels in lock box No. 124 of the hotel office vault when he arrived in Chicago Friday.

He removed them, all mounted in rings and pins and contained in a leather case, several times to show them to possible purchasers. He put them back Sunday.

Lt. Pierson said the box was not forced. Two keys are required to open it—that held by the box renter and a pass key kept by an attendant.

Staiger told police he has had sole possession of the customer's key for Box 124 for two years.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents entered the case at the request of Chicago police on the theory that the case has interstate angles. The Winston firm, which has a Loop office, was robbed of $400,000 last Aug. 22. The loot was recovered by FBI agents and police from a safe deposit box in a Berwyn bank, and Carl Florito of Niles, who held the key to that box, was arrested. He is awaiting trial on charges of robbery and possession of stolen goods.

RULES STATE CAN CONTROL TOURIST CABIN VENT PIPES

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 2 (AP)—The State Division of Health has power to regulate the length of vents for gas heaters in tourist cabins, Attorney General John M. Dalton ruled today.

The ruling was requested by Leon McAnally, prosecuting attorney of Dunklin county, after the Division of Health ordered a tourist cabin owner to extend the vent on a gas-fired water heater.

The division contended the shorter vent might constitute a fire hazard, since it was within two to three feet of the roof.

Can you name one family in St. Louis who wouldn't like to own a swimming pool?

A message from Esther Williams PRESIDENT, INTERNATIONAL SWIMMING POOL CORP. to the Successful Businessman looking for a Sound New Profit Opportunity

First I'd like to suggest that you conduct your own local survey and satisfy yourself completely on one fact...

The family swimming pool is the most wanted product in your section of the country.

Each new survey made by our Market Research Department shows a rapidly increasing popularity for the family swimming pool. The trend to backyard swimming pools is sweeping across the country at a surprising rate. It is fast becoming an accepted part of American family living.

In motivational studies conducted for us by the world's leading motivational research organization, the important causes for this tremendous sales increase in our industry were found to be:

1. More people are talking out their dream for a swimming pool in their own backyard. It is now within the active thinking consciousness of more and more people. The unattainable luxury image is fading rapidly.
2. The motor age is beginning to backfire. Crowded highways, parking problems, etcetera, have caused the automobile to be regarded as something other than a "pleasure" symbol.
3. People are seeking reasons for not leaving home for their relaxation, exercise and family fun. Families are seeking tangible, permanent products to bolster their egos without being wasteful and self-indulgent. A pool increases the value of property, reduces in an acceptable manner the need for repeated large expenditures for vacations, camping, travel.
4. Appliances, cars, new homes, are losing their fresh symbolism of social and economic advancement. The swimming pool is the new symbol of success.
5. Increasing demands on the time of professional people, creative people, responsible job holders and independent businessmen have created problems as to the most effective and rational use of leisure time, and a backyard swimming pool is the answer. It is a recreational, health and fun center within steps of the back door.

Within the framework of this new climate the following facts are clear:

1. There is a fertile market for pool sales.
2. Everyone wants a pool and information about pools.
3. Growing familiarity with pools owned by families with average incomes brings the pool within the "Practical Thinking" reach of almost everyone.

A NEW PROFIT FRONTIER

The distributors of Esther Williams Family and Motel Pools will start marketing a new kind of permanent pool in January—in addition to the world-famous Esther Williams "Supreme" Swimming Pool, which is the best-known, largest-selling pool in the world.

We are confident that this new addition to the Esther Williams line will be a sales sensation, because it will allow the distributors of Esther Williams pools to broaden their sales and profit potentials by at least 300%.

Several distributorships in this section of the country are open. One of our field executives will be in this market shortly to talk to individuals who are interested in this very valuable distributorship—and who have the required energy, talent and finances to adequately serve the market in which they are located.

If you are seeking a new profit opportunity may I suggest that you write or wire me at the address below.

COLLEGE TUITION FEE BOOST
OF 84 TO 116 PCT. PROPOSED

C. New York Times News Service
ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 2—A Harvard university economist said yesterday that college tuition fees should be increased between 84 and 116 per cent in the next 10 years to help meet the greatly increasing costs of higher education.

The recommendation was made by Seymour Harris, chairman of the economics department of Harvard, in addressing the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Eastern Association of College and University Officers.

He said tuition in private institutions, which now averages $600 per year, should be increased in the next decade in excess of $1100 while that of public institutions, which now averages $150, should be increased to $325. He said the 3,000,000 students now enrolled in institutions of higher education pay through tuitions an average of only 20 cents of every $1 of the three billion dollar cost.

$800,000 GONE,
CALIFORNIA BANK
OFFICER IS HELD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 (AP)—Federal Bureau of Investigation Agents arrested a suburban banker yesterday on a charge of misappropriating more than $800,000 through falsification of bank entries. They said the loss may exceed $1,000,000.

John Petersen, vice president and cashier of the Sun Valley National Bank, was arrested at his Van Nuys home.

The bank was sold over the week end to the Security-First National Bank, which agreed to take over liability for the depositors. Security-First National officials said they were aware of the shortage when they agreed to take over Sun Valley's operations.

Just what happened to the money was not explained. It was originally reported that Petersen had been accused of misappropriating the funds. But the FBI said the charge against him was that he "made or caused to be made a false entry in the bank's records."

The falsification consisted of failing to charge to customers' accounts at least $800,000 paid out by the bank for checks drawn on the accounts, said William Alexander, of the Los Angeles FBI office.

Neither the FBI, the bank or the United States attorney's office would offer any further explanation. Bank examiners are still trying to unravel the problem, Alexander said.

All Petersen said was: "I don't have any of this money." Asked by reporters what had become of it, he answered: "That's something I'd like to know. I haven't got it."

He is being held under $35,000 bail.

HURRICANE HITS SUVA, FIJI;
DAMAGE IS UNDETERMINED

SUVA, Fiji, Dec. 2 (UPI)—A hurricane struck this island capital today leaving undetermined casualties and damage in its wake.

The 129-ton inter-island freighter Tulacau was missing in heavy seas and other shipping sheered off from Suva to wait until the hurricane had passed.

The tropical blow, with winds up to 100 miles an hour, hit the north coast of Viti Levu island early today and bore steadily south onto Suva, accompanied by torrential rains.

Communications with the north coast were down, making it impossible to obtain any information about casualties or damage there.

ASSERTS LAWYERS SHOULD LEAD IN RESPECT FOR LAW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The president of the Federal Bar Association said today lawyers should assume the responsibility for communicating to the public their respect for the law and the judges who administer it.

Earl N. Kintner, in a statement at an association lunch in honor of newly appointed Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, said it was the paramount responsibility of lawyers "to preserve the primacy of law and due process under our representative form of government, to insure respect for all courts, including the Supreme Court, the highest of all."

GEN. TULLEY TAKES OVER
U.S. COMMAND IN JAPAN

CAMP ZAMA, Japan, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Maj. Gen. David H. Tulley took over as commander of United States Army forces in Japan at ceremonies here today.

He succeeded Lt. Gen. Emerson L. Cummings, who recently was assigned as deputy Eighth Army commander in Korea. Tulley formerly was commanding general of Fort Belvoir (Va.) engineering center.

BEN-GURION UPHOLD IN VOTE

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, Dec. 2 (AP)—Opposition parties made two motions of no-confidence in the government yesterday because of an attack by Prime Minister Ben-Gurion on Israel's chief rabbi. Both motions were defeated.

The voting left the Labor coalition government in a firmer position than before. The cause of the no-confidence motion was a letter Ben-Gurion wrote to Rabbi Yitzhak Nissim. It accused him of being maliciously misleading in an interview he gave to a magazine.

PLANE GIVEN TO NEPAL KING
BY PRESIDENT OF RUSSIA

KATMANDU, Dec. 2 (AP)—Soviet President Klement Voroshilov has given King Mahendra of Nepal an Ilyushin-14 plane for his personal use.

The Soviet Ambassador to India and Nepal, P. K. Ponomarenko, presented the plane yesterday. Soviet airmen will fly the twin-engine transport until Nepalese pilots are trained. Previously the king of this Himalayan country has used a twin-engine DC-3 flown by Indian pilots.

Voroshilov will pay a state visit to Nepal in January after a tour of Afghanistan.

FALL OF SPUTNIK III ROCKET IS DUE TOMORROW MORNING

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 2 (UPI)—The rocket of Russia's third Sputnik probably will plunge toward earth in flames tomorrow, according to the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

Dr. Luigi G. Jacchia said the carrier probably would complete about 2890 trips around the world before falling into the earth's atmosphere about 7 a.m. tomorrow. The rocket, which went into orbit around the earth with its satellite May 15, probably will disintegrate in flames when it comes in contact with the earth's atmosphere.

The physicist said it could not yet be accurately predicted over what section of the world the object would plunge earthward.

HUMPHREY HAS LONG TALK WITH KHRUSHCHEV

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem., Minn.) said today an eight-hour interview with Soviet Premier Khrushchev left him convinced "the areas of disagreement between our respective foreign policies remain broad and deep."

"It does not appear that for a considerable time these differences will be resolved," the Senator told newsmen.

The Senator said the United States has a commitment in Berlin "and we will keep it."

He said he thought the Berlin question was the most critical in the cold war today. Asked what he thought of prospects of a compromise on the Kremlin's Berlin proposals, he said so far he had found none.

Humphrey said Khrushchev gave him enthusiastic approval on his proposal for expansion of the international medical research program. But he decided not to comment publicly on other phases of the Premier's remarks "since I believe in always beginning with areas of agreement rather than discord."

He told correspondents he made this decision after consultation with United States Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., about his long talk with Khrushchev yesterday. He wishes to present the details first to "the Secretary of State or the President or whoever wants to talk with me in Washington."

Long Discussion. Humphrey said he visited Khrushchev's office yesterday afternoon for what he expected to be a routine conversation. But the long discussion covered many things from Berlin through the Middle East to Formosa and through the subjects of agriculture and foreign trade. The Senator found himself staying on for dinner with Khrushchev and Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan.

"During my interview with Premier Khrushchev I noted the areas of disagreement between our respective foreign policies remain broad and deep," Humphrey said in a statement.

"It does not appear that for a considerable time these differences will be resolved. In the meantime we need to learn how to work together and the best place to start is in the non-political area."

"The world is hungry for some evidence of Soviet-American collaboration. One of the best areas in which to start is the field of health."

Humphrey's statement urged joint action to "end the mass killers, heart disease and cancer."

"Mankind has heard enough and seen enough of atom and hydrogen bombs," he added. "Now let mankind see and hear more of the only kind of destruction we want—the elimination of man's ancient enemy, disease."

5-Point Proposal. Humphrey said Khrushchev endorsed a five-point proposal for Soviet-American co-operation.

Lawyer Admits He Has 'Bugged' Congresswoman's Apartment

Washington attorney BENEDICT F. FITZGERALD JR. with some of his electronic equipment he has been using to eavesdrop on the apartment of Representative Coyn Knutson.

Washington attorney BENEDICT F. FITZGERALD JR. with some of his electronic equipment he has been using to eavesdrop on the apartment of Representative Coyn Knutson.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Representative Coyn Knutson (Dem., Minn.), was understandably unhappy today over a lawyer's disclosure he was "bugging" her apartment, but there did not seem to be much she could do about it.

The best advice immediately available to the Congresswoman, who was defeated for re-election Nov. 4 after an estrangement from her husband, was to be careful what she says and where.

Wiretapping is illegal, but as far as federal law is concerned, eavesdropping, even with the aid of powerful electronic devices, is apparently nothing worse than poor taste.

Benedict F. Fitzgerald Jr., a lawyer, presumably was hoping to learn the whereabouts of his sometime client, Mrs. Knutson's husband, Andy. He said his operatives had been using a parabolic microphone to listen to conversations in Mrs. Knutson's rooms.

He told about the electronic eavesdropping in an interview yesterday. He said other methods of surveillance, including a tracer device placed on Mrs. Knutson's automobile, have been employed.

"This isn't wiretapping. It's just eavesdropping," Fitzgerald explained. He said eavesdropping was not nice, but that it was not illegal.

Fitzgerald said his interest in Andy Knutson stems from a suit he filed for him, and which Knutson recently withdrew on his own. It charged Mrs. Knutson's male secretary, William Kjeldahl, with alienation of affections and with slander.

The lawyers said today he had directed his operatives to drop any surveillance. He said he would take no further action in the suit until something develops.

The lawyer insisted Knutson had no right to act personally in dropping his suit against Kjeldahl. However, the United States District Court Clerk's office said a memorandum signed by Knutson to dismiss the suit was sufficient.

Mrs. Knutson announced last Friday she is asking the House Elections Committee to investigate the election in which she was narrowly defeated by Republican Odin Langen. She contends the opposition was behind a pre-election appeal by her husband that she quit Congress and go home.

In St. Paul, Minnesota Secretary of State Joseph Donovan was notified yesterday that a House committee will investigate the charges by Mrs. Knutson.

Implementation and broadening of medical exchange under the United States-Soviet cultural agreements signed in Washington last January.

2. An additional two-way flow of medical data, including prompt exchange of medical publications and abstracts.

3. A wide increase in personal contacts between medical scientists of Russia and the United States.

4. Speedy planning for an international public health and medical research year, probably in 1961.

5. United States-Soviet collaboration, commencing as soon as possible, on a campaign for intensified prenatal research.

Aviation Education Award. Dr. Evan Evans, executive director of the National Aviation Education Council, was named winner of the Frank G. Brewer trophy for outstanding work in aviation education yesterday.

An educator for 40 years and superintendent of schools at Winfield and Overland Park, Kan., for 16 years, Evans was honored specially for outstanding service as head of N.A.E.C. for the last three years, and for contributions to aviation education throughout the years as a teacher and school administrator.

The fines, levied July 8, were appealed by the Bakers but when the appeal came up yesterday the defendants pleaded guilty of permitting unlawful occupancy in a single-family dwelling.

Arrested last April 22, they had been fined $150 on each of four counts for renting third-floor quarters in their building and for failing to provide separate means of exit for the upstairs unit.

LONDON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The Moscow radio claimed today that a Soviet four-engine turbo-prop airplane had reached a record height of 43,550 feet carrying five tons of cargo.

Tass said the IL-18, with four 4,000-horsepower engines, had gone to the more than eight-mile height on Nov. 17 from an airport near Moscow. On Nov. 14, from the same airport, the IL-18 reached an altitude of 40,915 feet, or more than seven and a half miles, carrying 18 tons of freight, it said.

The IL-18, known as the Moscow, was originally unveiled in 1957 as a passenger aircraft.

ALAMOGORDO, N.M., Dec. 2 (AP)—Bighorn, famed as the last of the Apache scouts, was buried at Mescalero, N.M., yesterday. He died Friday at the age of 108.

Bighorn—the only name he ever had—served as a scout for the United States cavalry in the Indian wars. He had lived at Mescalero for 95 years and had served as reservation peace officer.

Blanchard Bid Investigation. MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 2 (UPI)—A United States grand jury yesterday began investigating complaints from various parts of the United States about alleged bids on gymnasium bleachers and possible price fixing. Witnesses from several states were subpoenaed to testify. The grand jury also was to resume an inquiry on identical bids and possible price fixing on corrugated metal drainage pipe.

IN THIS WEEK'S POST

ROBERT PRESTON

Broadway's biggest surprise!

An ex-parking-lot attendant who "can't sing and can't dance," he's the star of that musical smash hit, "The Music Man." You'll meet him in this week's Saturday Evening Post and learn:

- how he won the lead in "The Music Man" from Ray Bolger and Wally Cox.
- the "secret" behind his dazzling singing, dancing performance.
- why he may win out over Crosby and Sinatra for the movie version.
- how luck made him a movie star, gave him the four biggest breaks of his life.
- why he fought with Cecil B. DeMille and turned his back on Hollywood stardom.

In this fascinating backstage story, you'll join the cast of one of the year's biggest hits. Watch them rehearse. Feel their thrill on opening night. Even attend one of their private parties. And you'll learn why today they call Robert Preston, an ex-Hollywood heavy, the "Happiest Actor on Broadway."

Are you a victim of this hidden disease?

Tired? Tense? Losing weight? You may be one of a million people in this country who have diabetes and don't know it. In this week's Post, read about the simple at-home diabetes test that might save your life. Find out what one community is doing to lick this hidden killer. Don't miss "The Hunt for Hidden Diabetics."

Incredible Con Man of the Country Clubs

Locker-room attendants never thought of questioning the distinguished-looking "guest." Yet he was the most notorious con man in the country. Read how this brilliant crook parlayed stolen credit cards into a $1,000-a-day racket—and bilked the country-club set from coast to coast.

You're being brain-washed...with music!

If you're working harder at your job, spending more when you shop, abandoning your diet when you eat at a restaurant...background music may be the reason! Here's the amazing story of Muzak, Inc., and how their scientifically planned music can change your attitude about almost everything—even your dentist! Read "Background Music: Persuasion in the Air."

Trouble for Americans in Tokyo!

Today in the "new" Tokyo you see Presley haircuts, hear rock 'n' roll, find Japanese avidly copying American ways. But you also see "Off Limits" signs raised to Americans, see Americans openly snubbed. Why this growing antagonism? Don't miss the Post's startling report on the "Biggest City in the World."

Is pro basketball all washed up?

After twelve years of growth, pro basketball faces a vital decision: big-league status, or else! Read "Does Pro Basketball Have a Future?" It's a wonderful week in the Post...8 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photographs.

Orderly Changeover in Mexico; Lopez Mateos Set to Continue Steady One-Party Government

New President Picks Able and Honest Cabinet From Ruling Group — Administration Friendly to Further Capital Development and to U.S.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Copyright 1958, The Post-Dispatch, Inc. MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.

IN A CHANGE OF ADMINISTRATION carried out with stability and order that resembled, on the surface at least, Switzerland more nearly than the conventional view of Latin America, Mexico anticipated six more years of the steady one-party government that has been the rule for nearly 25 years.

In his inaugural address yesterday, the new President, Adolfo Lopez Mateos, put all the stress on the need for discipline and hard work. He gave a more or less explicit promise to maintain the value of the currency, thereby reassuring those who had been fearful that the peso would be written down again as a way out of the inflation that has been building up in recent years.

Lopez Mateos was the choice for President of the small group of political business leaders who govern Mexico with a firm grip. His election was assured by a least 90 per cent of the votes cast once his name had been agreed to within the group which dominates the National Revolutionary party.

Only Token Opposition. There is an opposition party but it offers only a token ticket. All 60 members of the Senate and 154 of the 162 House seats are of the ruling Revolutionary party. They sat on the stage in the crowded auditorium of the Palace of Fine Arts and applauded respectfully.

He is a handsome, serious appearing man who was born in 1910, the year that a revolution brought to an end the long regime of Porfirio Diaz. Minister of Labor in the outgoing administration of former President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines, he is credited with having been instrumental in maintaining labor peace during a period of rapidly rising prices and less stationary real wages.

For his cabinet, Lopez Mateos chose from the ruling group men who are rated on the whole as able and honest. They believe the fears of those who believed he would be unduly influenced by ex-President Lázaro Cárdenas to move toward the left or by ex-President Miguel Alemán to tend to the right. It is judged a middle-of-the-road administration friendly to further capital development and to the United States.

The selection of Manuel Tello, who has been ambassador to Washington, to be Foreign Minister is assurance of the desire to strengthen the ties between the two neighbors. The retiring Foreign Minister Padilla Nervo, by taking the third position as between West and East, has often embarrassed and annoyed the United States. In his inaugural address, Lopez Mateos denounced both "cruel aggression" and "intolerable intervention," the former intended for the Communist bloc and the latter the inevitable warning of a Mexican politician against Yankee encroachments.

Tello, who served as Foreign Minister from 1948 to 1951, is firm in his conviction of the head must soon begin to think.

State Department Charges Russia Violates Potsdam Pact

By E. W. KENWORTHY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.

STATE DEPARTMENT officials charge that, contrary to Moscow's complaint that the West has violated the Potsdam agreement, the Soviet Union itself has broken that agreement as well as other accords on Germany.

These officials have had long experience with what is viewed as Soviet rewriting of history. Nevertheless, they are amazed at what they consider brazen historical distortion and twisted logic in last week's Soviet note on Berlin.

In a speech Nov. 10, Premier Khrushchev called for ending the occupation status of Berlin on the ground that the West had violated the Potsdam agreement, which does not even mention Berlin.

Last Thursday's Soviet note proposing that West Berlin be made a free city did not repeat this error. It specifically denounced two agreements dealing with occupation zones and the four-power control of Berlin.

Nevertheless, the note still charged at length that the Western powers had violated the Potsdam agreement, which was reached Aug. 2, 1945, by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

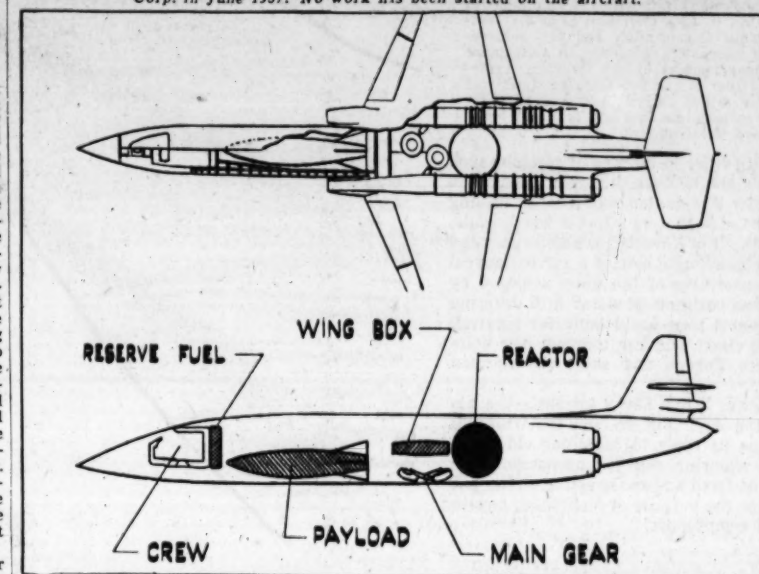

Provisions of Pact. Following are essential provisions of the agreement, with the Soviet violations as charged here. This compilation is based on a document prepared in 1955 for the Senate Judiciary Committee by State Department sources.

THE POTSDAM AGREEMENT. 1. Agreement: So far as practicable the occupying powers should accord uniformity of treatment to the German population in their respective zones. Violation: Beginning in June 1952, East German authorities under Soviet direction, undertook to isolate the East German population from contact

Price Says U.S. Is at Critical Stage On Atom Plane, Hits at 'Bureaucrats'

Artist's conception of possible atomic-powered bomber prepared by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in June 1957. No work has been started on the aircraft.

Schematic drawing illustrating approximate positions of the crew, bomb load, wing, landing gear and nuclear reactor which would furnish heat to the turbojet engine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI).

CHAIRMAN MELVIN PRICE (Dem., Ill.), of the joint congressional atomic research subcommittee disclosed today that United States scientists had reached "a critical stage" in development of a nuclear-powered plane.

He said the United States was in a position "to push forward vigorously to a successful conclusion" of the program.

He added that "the nation can ill afford further delay and indecision" on the multi-million dollar project. Such delay, he said, would mean forfeiting "once again our technological leadership."

Simultaneously Representative August E. Johansen (Rep., Mich.), called on the House manpower utilization subcommittee to look into the possible need for extra scientific manpower in the light of reports that Russia has developed an atomic plane ahead of this country.

Price blamed "bureaucratic snafus in Washington" for America's failure so far to develop a nuclear-powered plane.

He issued a statement contending the Administration had consistently pulled the rug from under scientists working on the project.

Price said he understood "a policy-level meeting is to take place in the near future within the Administration to discuss acceleration" of the atomic plane program.

Price said the "Administration can—and must—come out from behind (its) protective shelter of study committees and panels."

By the Associated Press.

The Pentagon appeared resigned to the probability that Russia will be first in the air with an atomic airplane, but top officials doubted that Russians were already flying one.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy conceded Russia had a "slight lead," but said there would be no change in this country's cautious approach to the job of harnessing nuclear power to an airplane that can serve a definite military purpose.

The nuclear aircraft issue was brought to the fore by publication in Aviation Week magazine of a report Russia had completed an atomic plane six months ago and had been flying it over Moscow for at least two months.

A Moscow dispatch cleared yesterday after a delay of almost 18 hours by Soviet censorship, reported mysterious vapor trails have been sighted over the Russian capital recently. It mentioned speculation that they might be caused by a nuclear powered airplane.

In London, British officials discounted the report that Russia has built a giant atom-powered bomber that can fly nonstop around the world. The British said available evidence from Moscow promotes belief that Soviet aviation has still "definitely not gone past the jet-propelled and turbo-jet power stage."

FLEESON

Minority View Has Control Of Democrats

Conservative Senators From Small States Run Party Committees.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

SENATE DEMOCRATIC LEADER Lyndon B. Johnson's right-hand man, Whip Mike Mansfield of Montana, says he sees "no reason" to broaden the two Senate Democratic committees—policy and steering—which form and direct the operations of the majority. Yet these committees now comprise the narrowest possible base of national Democratic party strength in three major respects.

One is geographical. Both committees are heavily weighted with men from the South, southwest and border states. Their two westerners are both from the relatively static and remote state of Montana. Similarly, their two easterners are from small Rhode Island and scarcely larger Delaware.

The second respect is population. More than 26,000,000 Americans voted Democratic on Nov. 4. It would be hard to figure out how the Democratic policy and steering Senators could be chosen so they would represent a smaller fraction of those voters.

Of the 12 most populous states in the union, only Texas with Johnson and Missouri with Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. can claim such places. And Hennings is often ill and relatively inactive.

In contrast, six places have been given to five of the least populous states—Rhode Island, Delaware, New Mexico, Montana, Pennsylvania, and Nevada, smallest of all with only 267,000 people.

Not one of the great industrial states regarded as pivotal in presidential elections—that is, states where presidential elections are won and lost—is now represented on Johnson's general staff. This group includes New York, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin and California. Only New York does not now have a Democratic Senator; Ohio and Michigan each have two.

The new Democratic bastion, the Middle West, has but one voice in the innermost Johnson councils. Senator Hubert

RESTON

Red Foreign Trade Offensive Widens Split in Administration

U.S. Agencies Said to Recognize Danger but Have No Policy to Combat It—Illustrations of Problems.

By JAMES RESTON

© New York Times News Service. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.

THE ANNUAL BATTLE over the nation's foreign economic policy started yesterday with the Administration more divided than ever over how to deal with the Communist world's economic offensive.

When experts from seven federal agencies finished testifying yesterday afternoon before a Ways and Means subcommittee on the challenge of Communist trade policy, Chairman Hale Boggs of Louisiana remarked: "They all recognize the danger but have no policy equal to it."

In the last few days, several isolated incidents have illustrated the nature of the danger they were discussing:

1. Last week, it was disclosed that the Soviet government had concluded an agreement to sell $13,500,000 worth of benzene to the Dow Chemical Co., at a price equivalent to 24 to 25 cents a gallon. The current price in the United States is 31 cents a gallon.

2. Coincidentally, Augusto Frederico Schmidt, head of the Brazilian delegation to an inter-American economic conference in Washington, announced that his country was increasing its exports to the Communist nations. The British Commonwealth and the European Common Market nations, he observed, were "gradually closing their doors to our production," and the United States was not able to absorb Brazil's losses in those markets.

3. Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union, in his latest maneuver to influence the political future of Berlin and Germany, held out once more the promise of a vast market for German products in the whole of the Communist world.

Radical Changes Due. A high official of the United States government, discussing the problem of meeting the Communist offensive, commented yesterday: "It is politically impossible for us to discuss in public the radical changes we shall have to make to deal effectively with the Soviet economic offensive."

"They control all of their foreign trade. They can use it as a political instrument regardless of cost. They can take losses to drive competition out of a given market precisely as large producers once were able to do to eliminate small competitors in this country.

"We have been discussing quietly inside our own government for six months the need to establish an overseas trade monopoly to compete with the Soviet monopoly on equal terms, but this is so foreign to our normal way of doing business that we dare not mention it in public."

Split on Other Issues. What the public hearings before Boggs's Ways and Means subcommittee demonstrated yesterday was that the Administration was just as divided on less radical policies as on the creation of a monopoly for the sale of United States products overseas.

Henry Kears, assistant secretary of commerce, predicted the Administration would ask the next Congress to approve tax concessions to encourage increased United States private investment abroad.

It is known, however, that some of Kears's superiors in the Commerce Department are opposed to dealing with the problem through tax concessions, and the Treasury Department's chief tax expert, Dan T. Smith, refused to go along with Kears's prediction that the Administration would ask for tax concessions.

Conflict Reflected. The Division within the Administration on this subject reflects the conflict between those who have been stating the nation's foreign policy objectives and those who have to tend the nation's treasury.

The State Department and the International Co-operation Administration, concerned with the dangers of Communist economic subversion, are prepared for radical revision of United States foreign economic policy to meet what they regard as a radical attack by

Letters from the People

Unfair to Missouri U.

I consider your editorials about the recent atoms-for-power conference in Columbia unfair to the University of Missouri. I was a member of the conference and as a member of the board of curators of the University, I found in the session no attempt by the University to influence public subsidy for private nuclear power.

The University sponsors many conferences during the year and from personal observation does not try to influence any such meetings. Conferences are held at the University for discussion, for the expression of opinions and for study. Whatever the conclusions of participants, it is of no concern of the University itself. I have long been, through this newspaper, an advocate of rural electrification. I think I would have noted any attempt to favor private over public power. It is my considered opinion that the University has been unjustly accused.

There were, it is true, conflicts of interest at the atoms-for-power conference between public and private power. I, for one, found their discussions enlightening because as a newspaperman I had little to offer from my meager knowledge of atomic energy and nuclear power.

However, there were preachers, teachers, business men and farmers there who listened and took part in discussions. I believe that these laymen would agree with me that any conclusions drawn were not intended to favor either public or private control of energy.

Entering the Museum

After reading the letter criticizing the gift shop in City Art Museum, we were curious to see the monstrosity. We found it full of lovely and enticing gifts, a perfect place for Christmas shopping. Perhaps after the holidays it should be moved over to the side, since it does rob us of an impressive view of Sculpture Hall.

Too Much 'Gimme'

I think reader "R.G." is pretty far afield in his letter, "What the Spenders Did," when he says: "The Spenders made all the foregoing possible in my town." He has apparently swallowed their gimme, hook, line and vote.

He can thank them for what he got for his and my tax dollar. But I resent having mine spent to make an 18-hole instead of a 9-hole golf course available to R.G., for disposing of his sewage at the same time M.S.D. is (rightly, in my opinion) planning for a vote on a facility to do the same for about $20 a year taxes per home; for building his schools, when I am voting for bond issues to build ours, and accordingly have seen my local taxes increase to approximately 160 per cent of what they were four years ago.

When are we going to grow up and stand on our own feet instead of looking to Washington—which, after all produces money only by printing and inflating it—for golf courses, riverfront memorials and what have you in the way of local, pork-barrel projects?

I am willing to pay for schools, golf courses and whatever is decided by vote is necessary in my community. R.G. should be willing to do the same. After I am ashamed to sign my name to my opinion.

After all, Gov. Bradford found socialism wanting and discarded it some 300 years ago. Why turn back the clock and try it again?

How to Hold Teachers

Adm. Rickover says that men are leaving the teaching profession because their own children cannot buy what father "produces"—education.

Most dedicated male teachers are prepared to have their families wear hand-me-downs, and generally live below the national standard. However, they eventually find other more lucrative fields when faced with college expenses for their children.

Which School Board will be the first to stabilize its faculty by offering college costs to the head of the family (man or woman) for each child enrolled in a university?

Why Delay?

I was glad to read your editorial regarding fluoridation in St. Louis county, and agree that it is about time we fluoridate.

I think the youngsters in the county should have the same dental opportunity as St. Louis children.

As matter of fact the rate that the county is growing in population the need is just as great, if not greater. Every important medical and dental organization in the United States has endorsed fluoridation, and I know the people are also anxious for it to begin. Especially people with children.

A Free Bridge Now

Toll collections on the Jefferson Barracks bridge probably can be discontinued within the next three to five months unless the Missouri Legislature directs otherwise. Should the Legislature step in to prevent the bridge from becoming free?

The very fact that the question can be asked at all is something of a pleasant surprise. The $2,185,950 span, financed by revenue bonds issued by St. Louis county, is on the verge of becoming debt-free. Revenues have increased steadily since the opening in 1944. At the current rate they soon will be sufficient to pay off the last of the bonds, originally scheduled to be retired in October 1961.

Under existing law, as soon as the bridge has paid for itself the county loses control. The State Highway Commission is empowered to acquire title and to operate it as a free bridge, much in the same manner as the Clark bridge is being operated upstream. The issue is whether it would be prudent for the Legislature to change the law to permit the county to continue collecting tolls. An attempt to do so died in the last regular session.

There are two sides to the question, and those who would like to see intervention from Jefferson City can make an impressive case. Proponents of intervention include Supervisor Matthews and his consulting engineers. Their argument for continuing to collect tolls is based on the belief that the bridge will not be able to handle the sharply rising traffic loads that will be attracted when tolls are removed.

By continuing the collection of tolls, so the argument runs, the county will be able to help finance a new bridge adjacent to the present two-lane span. Each bridge then would carry one-way traffic. Revenues from both would make it possible to pay off the cost of the new bridge, $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

The J.B. bridge is on the federal interstate highway system and, tolls or no tolls, it eventually will become a responsibility of the Missouri Highway Commission. If a new bridge is needed alongside the present span, the commission eventually will build it. "Eventually" is the key word to those who want tolls continued.

Based on present traffic loads, they say, this project carries a relatively low priority, and 15 or 20 years might pass before the Highway Commission got around to it. Meantime, the county would suffer increasingly from a traffic bottleneck at the bridge. By keeping the toll house open and using the revenue to finance a second span, the county could get its bridge, paid for by those who would use it, perhaps as much as 10 years ahead of time.

Against these arguments must be placed the proposition, which grows daily more important to the whole metropolitan area, that ways must be found to speed up the freeing of all the bridges where tolls now act as a tax on traffic. Can progress toward that goal be made by postponing the day when tolls end on a particular bridge, however plausible the pretext?

We are open to persuasion; but on the whole we incline to the view that the best way to get free bridges is to free each one as rapidly as possible. If that is true, then the Legislature ought to let the J.B. bridge become free now. If a second bridge is needed, let the state government build it. If the state evades its responsibility, let the county build the new bridge but collect tolls on it alone.

St. Louis needs free bridges. The best way to get them is to free each one whenever the opportunity arises.

Sailing Under False Colors

Dock workers around the world are in the midst of a four-day boycott against ships which fly "flags of convenience." These are ships actually owned in the United States or other countries but registered in Panama, Honduras or Liberia. The false flags are raised to escape wage standards, taxes and regulations imposed by the countries in which the ships really are owned. Although an old one, this is not a very artful dodge. What if these ships had to depend on Panama, Honduras or Liberia for the navigational aids provided for modern shipping, not to mention the protection afforded only by the true countries of origin?

Limits for a Limited Task

Freeholder advocates of a metropolitan merger are obliquely attacking the rival plan for a functional district with some curious arguments. One of these is that since any kind of metropolitan reorganization will take away from the municipalities most of their vital functions, St. Louis may as well go all the way and establish one big central government.

What is wrong with this argument is the factual basis of its major premise. It simply is not true that a metropolitan district would wipe out the municipalities.

The kind of district proposed by the Metropolitan Survey would assume responsibility for traffic, transit, planning, industrial promotion, sewers, civil defense and property assessment.

With a metropolitan district handling those functions, the area's 98 municipalities still would have plenty to do. In St. Louis the city or its agencies would continue to handle water, parks, recreation, public health, hospitals, building inspection, excises and licenses of all kinds, fire protection, public welfare including the Workhouse, forestry, smoke regulation and non-arterial streets, as well as such tasks as operation of the Zoo, Public Library, Art Museum, Kiel Auditorium, public housing and land clearance for redevelopment.

In the county, the 97 municipalities would handle some of these same tasks, as well as the important police function. Police in St. Louis and operation of the schools in the city and the 29 school districts would be handled by the agencies now responsible for them. And the county government would operate municipal services, including police, in its unincorporated areas, and run such county tasks as the courts, jail and allied functions plus assessment and collection of taxes.

To argue that a limited purpose metropolitan district would leave the municipalities with nothing to do is to ignore the realities of local government in this area. While it might be desirable to assign some of these municipal functions to a metropolitan district, it is not necessary. Nor is it necessary to assign all of them to a single government as the advocates of merger propose.

What is necessary is to create a governmental device that will permit the people to deal with those limited problems that neither city nor county alone can solve. That device, in our judgment, is the metropolitan district.

The Attention It Deserves

Secretary Dulles's proposal of foreign minister talks on how to answer the Soviet Union's note on Germany is most welcome. It suggests that serious attention may be given to the essence of the Khrushchev initiative—and this is, not his vague threat to turn over control of Berlin traffic to the East Germans six months from now, but his urgent appeal for negotiations within the next six months on a German and a central European settlement.

It was the propaganda bombast and the fiery words about Berlin that attracted most notice when the note was first published. But a study of it offers convincing evidence that Khrushchev is willing to consider Berlin in a more comprehensive framework.

What he has to say about making a "free city" of Western Berlin is presented as a course to be followed in case the Soviet Union decides to end its occupation of East Berlin unilaterally. But before raising that possibility, Khrushchev offers an alternative.

The best way to solve the Berlin question would be to take a decision based on the enforcement of the Potsdam Agreement on Germany. . . . In the present circumstances, this would mean the withdrawal of West Germany from NATO with the simultaneous withdrawal of East Germany from the Warsaw Treaty Organization and the achievement of agreement whereby, in accordance with the principles of the Potsdam Agreement, neither of the two German states will have any armed forces in excess of those needed to maintain law and order at home and guard the frontiers.

The difficulties in the way of reaching such agreement are obvious, but it is good news that official Washington seems to be turning toward the view that an effort is worth while. Along with all of Khrushchev's distortions and propaganda, his note carries a moving appeal for the restoration of the unity achieved by the wartime coalition. If states with differing social systems then could unite for survival, he says in effect, why can they not now unite to stabilize Europe and solve the German problem?

One answer is that Soviet intransigence has stood in the way. But we hope the West will not confine its reply to rehearsing old wrongs and renewing rejected proposals. The West needs fresh and constructive offers, put forward for the purpose of facilitating negotiation and compromise.

Box Office Gushers

More than a century after the discovery of gold, the National League moved to golden California to mine some of the wealth at the box office. The American Association did not wait so long to respond to the oily odor of Texas. Three well-chosen Texas cities—Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth—have been granted franchises in the bon ton AAA loop which henceforth will have 10 members. After plenty of lean years, what club would drop out just when the league struck oil? Think of a Dallas-Forth Worth double-header. And look at Texas football crowds.

It is nice to know that St. Louis baseball man Bill DeWitt was the honest broker in a deal which may make even Minneapolis and St. Paul less eager to get into the majors. Who knows? The American Association may grow up to be that third major league that sports writers speculate about on dull days. If so, it is nice to know, too, that St. Louis baseball man Marty Marion is in on the ground floor at Houston.

French Pig-in-a-Poke

The French have voted decisively—they know not for what. In Sunday's parliamentary run-offs, De Gaulle's Union for a New Republic got 32.1 per cent of the votes, good for 188 Assembly seats. These combined with the 121 won by the pro-Gaullist Peasants and Independents and the 71 of the Algerian puppet delegates add up to 380 of the Assembly's 546 seats, or 309 of the 465 held by Europeans.

There has been nothing quite like this before in French politics. What makes it even more unusual is that none of these deputies stood on a platform other than a vague pledge of fidelity to De Gaulle. Beyond their generally rightist coloration, nobody knows what they stand for, and nobody knows what De Gaulle specifically stands for.

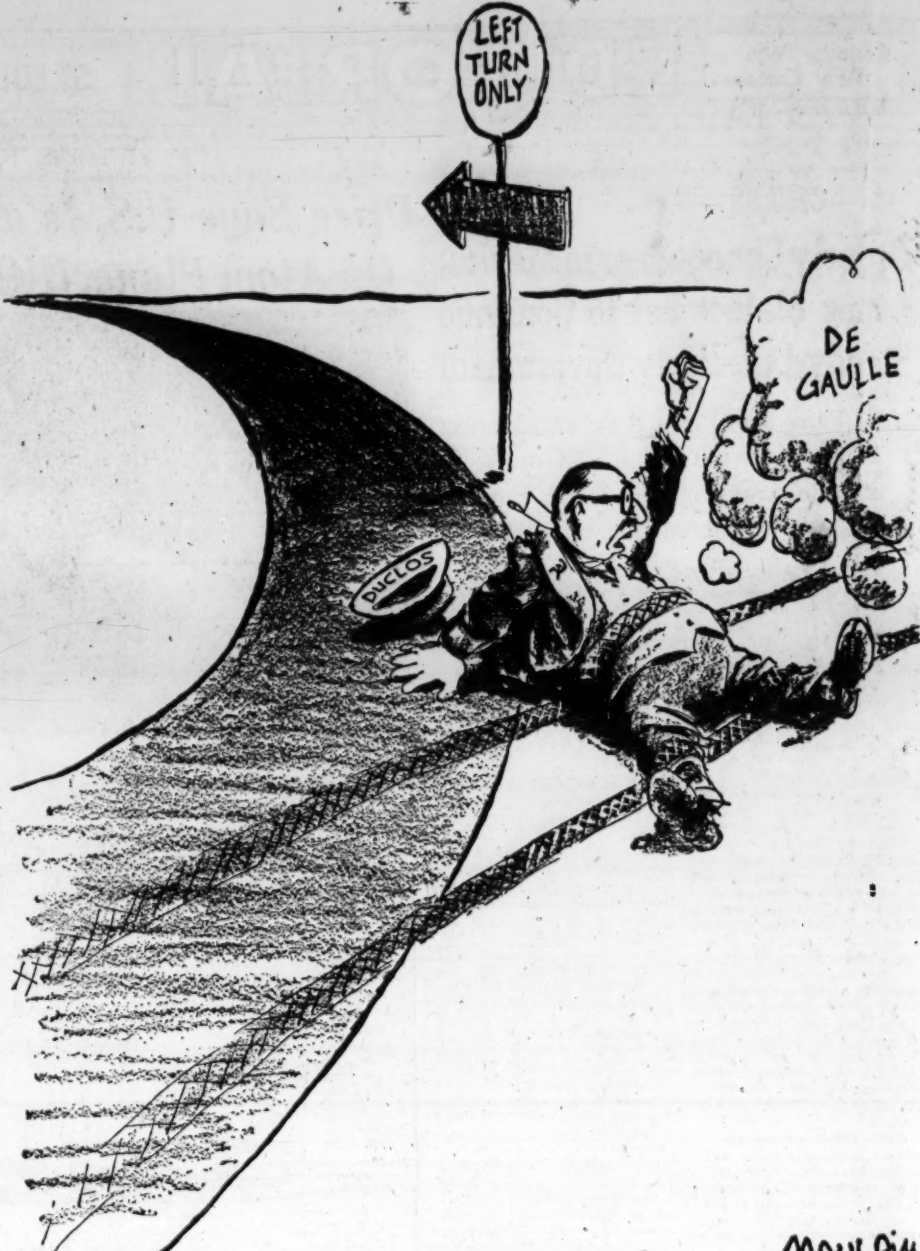

Nor does the character of the opposition, such as it is, sharpen any issues. For all practical purposes, the Communists are out of the picture. They got 22.9 per cent of the popular vote but only 10 seats. In the last Assembly they had 149. This is the end of the automatic Red opposition. The other Fourth Republic parties did a little better, but not well enough to count against the majority, if that proves to be a solid bloc. The Socialists dropped from 95 seats to 43. The Radical-Leftists from 71 to 27. The M.R.P. from 74 to 44. And their most effective leaders—men like Mendes-France, Moch, Faure and Pineau—were defeated. The opposition leaders probably will be the shop-worn Guy Mollet and Pierre Pflimlin.

The Assembly's "strong man," if there is to be one, undoubtedly will be Jacques Soustelle. He has managed to make himself, as De Gaulle's Minister of Information, the leader of the new U.N.R., but he also maintains his alliance with the Algerian colonels and colons and what, in general, may be called the fascist element in the new parliament. How much influence De Gaulle will have on him, or how much influence Soustelle will have on De Gaulle is the big question. In view of Soustelle's pre-election propaganda, it must be hoped that De Gaulle will have far the stronger hand.

Three at Once

There should have been at least a small cheering section on hand Monday when work started on the second and third of the Plaza apartment buildings. This means, of course, that all three will be finished at about the same time. With the renovation and additions to St. John's church and the refurbishing of Centenary Methodist, not to mention landscaping, the project will have a "finished" look by the time it is ready for its first tenants. There will not be just one building in the midst of a rubble field. This should make the apartments really attractive; and it will give passers-by—and the whole city—a genuine "lift."

With demolition of the first section of the Mill Creek Valley area scheduled to start March 15, St. Louis is a city on the move.

Pupil Assignment Ruling Gives South Latitude But No Basis for Defiance

From the Arkansas Gazette

While the Supreme Court decision upholding Alabama's pupil assignment law was a cause for celebration in Montgomery, it in fact followed the line of previous decisions and made no perceptible change either way in the practical situation confronting the South.

From its first decision in 1954 through all subsequent rulings the Court has stressed the fact that the courts would not, and should not, assume an affirmative role in the internal administration of school affairs. Broad powers of pupil assignment traditionally have been assigned to local school officials.

The Alabama law, which the Court upheld, simply spelled out many of the practices long followed—i. e., assignment of pupils in accordance with room and teaching capacity of schools and availability of transportation; the effect of new pupils upon established courses of study; adequacy of the pupil's preparation for study in the affected school; the psychological effect of admission upon the pupil and his fellows; the possibility of disorder in the event of admission, and the home environment, morals and health of the student.

But the Alabama law also specifies that these standards of assignment are to be applied to all pupils, white and colored, without discrimination. The high court simply said that since the law had never been applied in practice, it would accept its anti-discrimination provision at face value.

And this, of course, is the heart of the line of court decisions. They standards and requirements normally applied to white applicants.

As it happens, Arkansas has a pupil assignment law similar to Alabama's—one this newspaper endorsed at the time of its passage. It, like Alabama's, will stand until and unless it is used to discriminate against Negro applicants; at that point, as the Court clearly warned in the Alabama case, it will be declared invalid.

No one, including the Supreme Court, has ever contended that the admission of Negro students to previously all-white schools would not create problems. Many of these obviously could be averted or reduced by honestly applying legitimate pupil assignment laws designed to group children according to aptitudes and interests—and could be used to meet the legitimate objections of those who fear the consequences of mixing children of disparate backgrounds.

The record of litigation here in Little Rock indicates that the federal courts are willing to go a long way to leave maximum latitude to school districts honestly attempting to solve the problem posed by the 1954 decision. But the record with equal clarity demonstrates that the courts will not accept the contention that these problems are insoluble, or the manipulation of legitimate administrative procedures to maintain absolute segregation by subterfuge.

It is not the courts, but the resistance leaders of the South, who have reduced the issue to all or nothing.

—The Washington Post.

"Any Questions?"

are negative in character; they do not require mass integration, or even any integration at all in the absence of specific complaint to the courts. In essence they provide that a Negro child who applies for admission to a white school cannot be barred on the basis of race if he meets the

Benson Proves Parkinson's Law

From The Des Moines Register

Senator James E. Murray, (Dem., Mont.) recently pointed out that since 1952, under Secretary Ezra Benson, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has added 18,000 employees.

Mr. Benson came into office talking about the Department of Agriculture being an overloaded bureaucracy. He was determined to reduce farm subsidies, remove acreage controls and whittle down the bureaucracy. The Secretary has been fairly successful in reducing price supports and acreage controls. But he has been losing ground in his announced drive to cut the government bureaucracy in agriculture.

Senator Murray said the Benson record was a verification of Parkinson's Law. This law was formulated by a British professor named C. Northcote Parkinson. It holds that bureaucracy tends to grow regardless of performance or need.

The Washington Newsletter of the National Farmers Union reports that Parkinson himself commented on Senator Murray's contention concerning the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Parkinson wrote, "My belief is that the increase in U.S.D.A. employment would have been the same had the entire continent gone out of cultivation."

Between Book Ends GI in Germany

CRAZY IN BERLIN, by Thomas Berger. (Scribner's, 438 pp., $4.75.)

When James Joyce wrote "Ulysses," he led many a young writer down the primrose path of writing folly. The ultimate madness of this type of creation is the belief that form is more important than content, that playing with words is better than making sense.

Fallen head first into this pitfall is a young American writer, by name Thomas Berger, who has written another first novel about the occupying GI in postwar Germany. Berger, who himself participated in securing the Nazi capital, has been a teacher, journalist, and book publisher—quite a lot crowded into 34 years of living.

There's a lot crowded into his book also—and the title is a reasonable facsimile of the inside. For Berger shows us the young American soldier as a conqueror of the fallen city, paints with nice irony and trenchant humor a portrait of youthful teenagers running wild in a chaos where women can be bought for a bar of soap, in a jungle where the politicians have created a new war among the recent allies.

How much living and despair is packed into these pages. There's the bully of the concentration camp now serving both Russian and American "intelligence" as spy and counter-spy. There's the toadying pimp, the German intellectual who didn't believe Hitler was serious and found out too late, the flock of willing girls who cluster like flies around GI Joe, and GI Joe himself—sometimes naive, sometimes corrupt, carrying the cargo of his own passions and fears.

Berger has done a remarkable job—and it would compare well with David Buckley's "Pride of Innocence," similarly scented and plotted, of a year ago. That is, it would if only Berger could have escaped the compulsion to ape some of the meaningless Joycean mannerisms. They have reduced clarity to confusion where Berger has surrendered his own identity as a writer.

Though Berger lacks the poetic sensitivity of Buckley, he offers a more powerful realism and that sardonic wit which twists the reader wryly. Both are young men to watch for each has talents of quality. "Crazy in Berlin," despite its tasteless title and its occasional foggy passages of stylistic virtuosity (or folly), is one to read. And it may even be remembered, as the first step of a writer who's better than his book.

Buffalo Bull

BUFFALO CHIEF, by Jane & Paul Annister. (Holiday House, 219 pp., $2.95.)

This Indian story is told through the lives of Standing Elk, a wise old Sioux medicine man, his headstrong, warlike son, Hawk, and Hawk's adopted brother, Stabs-the-Bear. Woven through their experiences and adventures are the ways of the buffalo, centered on the life of the king bull, Kahtanka, from birth through his sagacious later years as herd master. And opposed to these plain dwellers is the advancing, disrupting tide of the white man.

Those sections of the book which deal with the buffalo in their native habitat, aside from the human relationships involved, reveal a strength of reality which is extraordinarily well-sustained and dramatic. A well-written novel for young adults.

The West's New Senate Strength

PERHAPS THE MOST FUNDAMENTAL SHIFT in the balance of political power of this generation is unfolding with ever rising significance in the American West. Alaska's decision in its belated balloting to send two new Democratic Senators here has had far more important results than to swell the Democratic majorities that had resulted from elections held across the rest of the country on Nov. 4.

It means, of course, that the master the Southern Senate wing in general have long been close to the Western Democrats. The association has rested in part simply on mutual liking and in part on common interest. These Western Democrats are universally liberal in things like public power, spending for public works and agricultural subsidies. They have an empire to build.

They represent for the most part a have-not section of the country, long subject to economic discrimination from the East.

Civil Rights Cleavage. And so the Southerners, with a handful of Old Guardist exceptions, find it easy to make common cause with the Westerners. Each section believes, from one point of view, in moving the country forward. Or each section, from the orthodox Republican view, is quite expert in widely distributing money from the Federal Treasury.

On a single issue, civil rights, the Western-Southern comradeship is far from close. But even here, the Westerners have never been willing to burn the last bridge with the moderate Southerners.

What is likely for the future is an increasingly successful Western-moderate Southern coalition. Actually it is potentially capable of mastering the Senate—and it will probably do so.

No Power in Small States. At the same time, the power of the West in presidential elections, in presidential nominating conventions, has not risen with its Senatorial power. This, of course, is because in the Senate the smallest state has equal representation with the largest, whereas the presidential electoral vote of Nevada, say, is a small prize indeed.

Finally, then it is entirely possible that we shall see a new contest for ultimate power over public policies between the Western-Southern Senate on the one side and the presidency that after 1960 is still likely to be dominated by the interest and attitudes of the East and Midwest.

TWO FOR SEESAW OPENS AT AMERICAN

Two-Character Play Concerns Loneliness of People Adrift.

By MYLES STANDISH

The two-character play is, just for the accomplishment, a tour de force. Merely to have two people use up two hours talking to each other, even with the handy prop of the telephone for a little variety, is something. But it needs much more than the mechanical accomplishment to make a play.

I was disappointed in William Gibson's two-character drama, "Two for the Seesaw," which opened a two week's run last night at the American Theatre.

The closest thing I can think of for comparison is John Van Druten's three-character comedy, "The Voice of the Turtle." Both had the same theme—loneliness of people adrift in the big city, New York, and how a male and female element of the flotsam are fused.

But whereas the Van Druten play had warmth and wit and a few flashes of insight which pass for wisdom on the stage, the Gibson drama has nothing of these endearing elements.

It has a couple of fairly unsympathetic characters. One is a lawyer from Omaha, named Jerry Ryan, whose wife is suing him for divorce. He has suddenly realized his wife's powerful father has paved the way for him. He wants to prove himself in new surroundings, but can't even whip himself up to taking the New York bar examination.

The other is Gittel Mosca, a tough girl from the Bronx who has wanted to be a dancer, but who actually is a lousy dancer and takes it out with ulcers, sleeping around, and a constant stream of "goddams" and "whatahells" in dialect.

The idea seems to be that Gittel is honest and earthy and cute. I thought she was a pain. Jerry seemed to me merely to be wishy-washy, undecided and mentally adrift.

They often offer the acceptance of such a play as this is tied up strongly with personalities, aside from what it has to say. Ann Bancroft and Henry Fonda seem to have had a great deal to do with the drama's initial success in New York.

Both Roman and Jeffrey Lynn, both of whom attained prominence in movies, are handling the roles in this company. I would say that Miss Roman's performance achieves a rough realism, but it is too strong for much sympathy—I myself couldn't really like the girl.

And Mr. Lynn, although his acting is convincing enough, gives a portrayal of too weak a character.

Actually, this business of only two characters is a lot of nonsense. Two very essential people in this drama, although they don't appear, are Ryan's wife and his domineering father-in-law. They are talked to on the telephone, and talked about, and Ryan goes back to his wife because she finally needs him and is dependent on him. But they are never real—just conversation cardboard cutouts.

The evident theme that people need each other didn't emerge too strongly for me—Ryan goes back to his wife with his damaged ego mended, but Gittel seems to end up much as she began—adrift. I didn't receive from this what was evidently intended—tenderness and poignancy. Instead I got a sordid, grubby and unhappy little sex episode unsatisfactorily concluded.

Sure, these things happen. But that doesn't make them necessarily capture your heart or even your interest.

Funeral services for Mrs. James H. Howe, wife of the president of the Lewis-Howe Co., manufacturers of Tums and Nature's Remedy, will be at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at Holy Redeemer Catholic Church, 347 East Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves. Entombment will be in Oak Grove Mausoleum.

Mrs. Howe, 83 years old, died of infirmities yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital. She lived at 340 East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves. Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Nelson H. and James Howe Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. William T. Dooley.

INTER-FAITH CHRISTMAS MEETING OF P.-T. A. COUNCIL

Representatives of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths will speak at the annual Christmas meeting of the St. Louis Council of Parent-Teacher Associations at 1 p.m. Thursday at Central Public Library, 1301 Olive street.

The speakers will discuss their religious observances at this season of the year. The program, "Holiday of Faith," will point out the P.-T.A.'s inter-faith beliefs.

Delegates from city schools have been invited to bring other P.-T.A. members with them to the meeting, which is open to the public.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN BACK CIGARETTE TAX

2-Cent-a-Package Levy Approved—Would Equalize Opportunities.

A proposal for a county-wide cigarette tax of 2 cents, a package to finance a sharply modified school equalization program in St. Louis county was approved last night by the County Conference of School Boards and Superintendents.

The equalization program is intended to insure a minimum level of educational opportunities for children in the county's 30 school districts.

As approved at last night's meeting, at the Clayton Community Center, the cigarette tax plan would produce an estimated $900,000 a year in revenue to inaugurate the plan. The money would be distributed to school districts on the basis of need.

Last month the conference rejected a proposal for a county-wide tax of 41 cents on each $100 of property valuation, which would produce about $4,800,000 a year. This would have permitted a complete program, with distribution on the basis of $350 a year for each child, the amount considered essential for minimum needs.

Last night's proposal was drafted as a substitute by the conference's legislative committee, headed by Herbert W. Schoelling, Webster Groves school superintendent.

The vote on the cigarette tax proposal, by district delegation, was 21 districts in favor and seven opposed, with two delegations absent. Opposing the proposal were the delegations from Hancock, Hazelwood, Jennings, Lindbergh, Maplewood-Richmond Heights, Valley Park and Webster Groves districts. Delegations absent were those from Jefferson Barracks and Riverview Gardens districts.

Some objectors argued that the modified program was too modest, others that the county should delay action pending determination of proposals for increased state aid to schools.

Proponents noted that the program, while starting on a relatively small scale, at least would establish a pattern of equalization. It also would draw from a source of revenue other than real and personal property. It was pointed out. A major reason for the conference's rejecting the property tax proposal at last month's meeting was that the heavy tax increase probably would be turned down by voters.

Also dropped from the equalization program under the modified proposal was a plan for a flat grant to all districts from the equalization fund at the rate of $5 a pupil. Such a distribution would be deferred until additional sources of revenue were found and the full program under way.

Imposition of a cigarette tax would require an enabling act by the Missouri Legislature.

The legislative committee set a meeting for Dec. 10 at Forest Park Hotel to iron out details of the approved plan and arrange for a meeting with county legislators.

MISS RUTH M. DOUGHERTY FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Miss Ruth M. Dougherty, account executive for Smith & Neiswander, Inc., advertising agency, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, 7152 Forsyth boulevard, University City. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Miss Dougherty, 51 years old, died Sunday at St. John's Hospital after an illness of five weeks. She lived at 7571 Hoover avenue, Richmond Heights.

She was active in committee work of the Women's Advertising Club of St. Louis and took part in preparation of the club's annual Gridiron Show. During World War II, Miss Dougherty served with the Red Cross in Europe and in the Pacific area. Surviving are her father, Chester A. Dougherty, and a brother, William J. Dougherty, both of University City.

DR. JULIUS A. STRATTON NEW M.I.T. PRESIDENT

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 2 (AP)—Dr. Julius A. Stratton, chancellor and acting president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was named as M.I.T.'s eleventh president last night. The appointment becomes effective Jan. 1.

The M.I.T. Corporation said it appointed Stratton on the recommendation of Dr. James R. Killian Jr., who served as president of the famed scientific institution since 1948. Killian will continue on leave as special assistant to President Eisenhower for science and technology. Killian was elected chairman of the corporation, a post in which he will devote full time when he returns from Washington service.

IOWA DOCTOR NAMED PHYSICIAN OF YEAR

General Practitioner Has Delivered 2000 Babies in Their Homes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP)—An Iowa doctor who delivered 2000 babies in their own homes was chosen today the nation's outstanding family physician of the year.

Dr. Lonnie A. Coffin, 68 years old, of Farmington, was awarded the honor by the American Medical Association. The award is given each year to the doctor who typifies the thousands of general practitioners throughout the country who have dedicated their lives to the practice of medicine and who have given exceptional service to their communities.

The award is given each year to the doctor who typifies the thousands of general practitioners throughout the country who have dedicated their lives to the practice of medicine and who have given exceptional service to their communities.

Dr. Coffin terms himself "an ordinary country doctor." He was instrumental in getting and developing Indian Lake, a 200-acre park which has made boating, fishing and picnicking available to the surrounding area.

The doctor bought basketball tournament tickets for high school students who could not pay their own way. He also bought graduation clothes for students who could not afford them.

He donated stage settings for junior and senior plays at Farmington High School.

Dr. Coffin was selected last April as Iowa's outstanding general practitioner of the year.

He was born on a small farm in Clark county, Missouri, and moved to Iowa at the age of 5. He was graduated from Farmington High in 1909 and four years later was a member of the first medical class graduated from Drake University in Des Moines.

Following a year of internship at Iowa Methodist Hospital in Des Moines he returned to Farmington where he engaged in the general practice of medicine.

Except for two years of military service in World War I he has served his community continuously for 44 years.

Dr. Coffin recalled he has delivered 2500 babies in his years of practice, 2000 of whom were delivered at home.

After suffering a heart attack eight years ago, Dr. Coffin gave up his obstetrical work. His other practice, however, still keeps him busy.

SHAW'S GARDEN ORCHID IS NAMED 'MAYOR TUCKER'

The Mayor Tucker orchid, newest orchid developed at the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden, has been named for Mayor Raymond R. Tucker "as a tribute to his work, during his term as smoke commissioner of St. Louis," Director Frits W. Went announced today.

"The orchid is one of the new, modern, cluster types of hybrids and was grown by Robert J. Gillespie, the garden's orchidologist," Went said.

"It is particularly fitting that this new plant should be named after Mayor Tucker, since it is a variety that is especially susceptible to smoke damage and could not be grown in the garden today if it were not for the work of the Mayor during his term as smoke commissioner," Went said.

The Mayor Tucker orchid will be on display in the orchid house daily for the next few weeks.

NEW CITY MANAGER FOR UNIVERSITY CITY

Charles T. Henry Chosen—Holds Similar Post in Milwaukee Suburb.

Charles Talmadge Henry, of Shorewood, Wis., has been named city manager of University City. The University City council announced last night. The appointment is effective Jan. 1.

Henry, currently city manager of Shorewood, a suburb of Milwaukee, was named to succeed Elmer Gunter, who resigned last Sept. 15 to take a similar post at Des Moines, Ia. The appointment was formally announced at a meeting of the council.

A graduate of Princeton University, Henry served last year as president of the Wisconsin City Managers' Association, and as president of the Milwaukee chapter of the American Society for Public Administration. In addition, he taught public administration at the University of Wisconsin. He is 38 years old, married and has four children.

Henry was chosen from among about 60 applicants, University City Mayor Nathan Kaufman said. The position carries a salary of $13,000 per year, and is held "at council pleasure," Kaufman said. City Attorney Marvin Boisseau has been acting city manager in the interim since Gunter's resignation.

BELGIAN BOOK WINS TOP FRENCH PRIZE

Prix Goncourt Awarded to Francis Walder for Historical Novel.

© New York Times News Service. PARIS, Dec. 2 — The Prix Goncourt, France's top literary prize, was awarded yesterday to Francis Walder, a Belgian.

Walder won the honor for his historical novel "Saint Germain et la Negociation," which deals with the diplomatic negotiations surrounding the peace of Saint Germain in 1570 between French Protestants and Catholics.

It took four ballots before 10 Goncourt jurors settled on the 52-year-old Belgian by a vote of 6 to 4 over Robert Sabatier, French author of "Canard au Sang" (Smothered Duck).

The prize itself is only 5000 francs ($11.90) but the prestige of the award is so great that the winning novel automatically moves on to the best-seller lists and later on to movie screens.

Walder is a retired artillery officer in the Belgian army and has held diplomatic posts with international organizations in London and Paris.

Besides his prize-winning novel, he also has published two philosophical works, "L'Existence Profonde" and "Les Saisons de l'Esprit."

The Prix Goncourt is named after the French writer Edmond Goncourt. The only eligibility qualification is that a work be written in French.

Last year's Prix Goncourt went to Roger Vailland for "La Loi" and the 1956 award to Roman Gary for "Les Racines du Ciel" (Roots of Heaven). Both of these novels were solid financial successes at book stores and both were made into movies.

MRS. WILLIAM F. BORDERS FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Funeral services for Mrs. William F. Borders, widow of the East St. Louis city court judge, were held today at Kurus undertaking establishment, 2525 State street, East St. Louis. Burial was in Valhalla Cemetery.

Mrs. Borders, 76 years old, died Saturday of a heart ailment at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Russell Orr of Springfield, Ill. She had gone there for a visit. Mrs. Borders lived with another daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Sedwick, 600 North Seventy-fourth street, Belleville.

Judge Borders was judge of the East St. Louis city court for 21 years. He died in 1943. Surviving, besides the two daughters, are a brother, R. B. Harmon of Miami, Okla., four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Draft—And Hot Air

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—Young Lee MacPhail, Baltimore's new general manager, estimated that only six players would be claimed in the annual baseball grab-bag known as the draft.

Broeg

Veteran Frank Lane topped the oral ante to 10. This was a hotel-lobby bull-session just before yesterday's mid-afternoon meeting in which 12 players actually were promoted to the majors and it prompted a good-natured needling session in which MacPhail, Lane, Paul Richards, Fred Hutchinson and Bill Terry matched words and wits.

"We're passing our turn," said MacPhail, round-faced, smooth-faced older son of baseball's former volatile redhead, Larry MacPhail. Tall, lean and leathery Richards, now only manager of the Orioles since Baltimore brought in the junior MacPhail from the Yankees, nodded.

"It's no use," the Texan drawled. "This guy (Lane) leaves the Cardinals for Cleveland and tips me to draft Gary Geiger, outfielder-pitcher. So what happens? Lane and Cleveland claim Geiger before we get a chance."

Lane, several pounds heavier than when he was Redbird G.M., wasn't stopped by that one. "Yeah," he said, "because Bobby Bragan (whom he inherited as manager of Cleveland) sold the Cubs on Tony Taylor in the Cuban Winter League and they took the second baseman I wanted."

Counting Geiger, Etc.

The reporter wanted to know how slim, trim left-handed Geiger, considered a pretty good prospect by the Cardinals, had impressed at Cleveland, where he hit for only .231.

"I don't think he can make it as a pitcher, but he's a good outfielder," said Lane. "Like a lot of kids, he tried to go for the fences too much, but he's still a prospect."

Hutchinson, his thick, curly-hair standing on end from wintry wind, volunteered the opinion that Geiger would make it. "He's only about 21," said Hutch, who soon found former boss Lane ribbing him over desk duties of his new job as combination general and field manager.

Hutchinson informed Lane, sadly, it seemed, that because of his new duties he'd have to give up his happy home at Anna Maria Island off Bradenton, Fla., and return to his native Pacific Northwest.

Richards, an ex-batter-mate at Detroit, came to Hutch's relief. "The way they're taking jobs away from me," he said, "I'll soon be down to coaching, Hutch, but at least," and here Richards jabbed Lane, "he G.M. at Chicago—at least you won't have to be second-guessed by any general manager unless you decide to second-guess yourself."

Just then Terry, still handsome and rugged, former star first baseman and manager of the old New York Giants, strode up to exchange greetings. "Here," said Lane, "is a guy who has the thing beat. He not only operates the Jacksonville club, but I understand they want him to be president of the Sally League again."

And He Hit, Too

Terry laughed and, as Solly Henus passed, Richards remembered the difference between the present and past when Terry also was a playing manager. Richards was a seldom-seen, light-hitting (195) reserve catcher behind Gus Mancuso on the Giants the year Terry replaced John McGraw as manager and boosted New York from a sixth-place tie to the 1933 world championship.

"Bill," asked Richards, "you made your own deals, didn't you?"

"That's right," Terry replied, "made the deals, signed the players and opened my own mail and we operated about nine farm clubs."

Richards chuckled softly. "Yeah," he said, "and still hit about .320."

The Orioles manager suggested Terry and the Giants then had only one scout, Pat Monahan, who always has claimed fame for convincing Tom Kearney, late St. Louis betting commissioner, that Kearney's winter-book odds against the Giants were much too heavy that magic '33 season.

Terry corrected Richards, smiling. "Now, two scouts, not one," he said. "After all, I couldn't forget Heine Groh."

Lane caught the intramural joke and explained. "Sure, Bill hired Groh," Frankie Frank explained. "Back in '21 when the Giants bought Terry from Toledo—paid a pretty good sum for those days, too—none of the Giants would let him into the batting cage or even talk to him. Finally one day Groh said, 'Hello, kid, and the next day he invited the rookie to take his cuts in the cage.'"

"Heine didn't know it then, but he won himself a lifetime friend then and a job later."

Cards Pursue Trade Efforts; Minor Clubs Begin Draft

Durham Claimed By Birds

By Bob Broeg

Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The delightful snafu of modern-day baseball was illustrated best today when the American Association had about as many Texas cities as the Texas League, and Glenn (Rocky) Nelson, a first baseman who always insisted he never had a real chance, returned to the majors for the sixth time—with a ball club that already owns three first basemen.

Pittsburgh's draft selection of Nelson, a colorful character who has hit hard everywhere except in the majors, brought smiles broader than the grins Marty Marion and partner Milton Fischmann wore after Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth won the right to transfer from the double-A Texas League to the triple-A American Association for $75,000 damages.

Cards-Lane Agreement

The Association, once as Midwestern as a hog-calling contest, now extends from Minnesota on the North, and West Virginia on the East, to Colorado on the West and Texas on the South. And the deflated and depleted Texas League confusingly talked as much about adding Albuquerque, N.M., Pueblo, Colo., or Wichita, Kan., as it did two Lone Star State cities, Amarillo and El Paso.

With the Cardinals

paving the way for the latest geographical jumble in baseball by selling the Houston franchise and 18 undetermined players to Marion and his St. Louis partner, the Redbirds were understood to be ready to fulfill a realignment promise to the Texas League by giving a working agreement to Tulsa, Okla.

To yield their three largest cities to create a 10-team Association, the Texas League extracted promise of playing assistance for the remaining members—San Antonio, Austin, Victoria, Corpus Christi and Tulsa.

The draft by minor league clubs, in which the Cardinals have come up with more prizes than the major league selection, began this morning under Farm Director Walter Shannon as General Manager Bing Devine of the Cardinals continued trade talks about which neither he nor Manager Solly Henus was optimistic.

"We're not going to close," said Henus, following talks with the Cubs, Reds and Giants, "and we're not going to give away what we've got just to make a deal."

In the draft in which big league clubs paid a new high of $25,000 each, 12 players were taken yesterday, including two acquisitions by the Cardinals from Baltimore's Vancouver club of the Pacific Coast League. The Redbirds drafted Richard Luebke, a 23-year-old left-handed pitcher, and Joe Durham, 25-year-old Negro outfielder.

Another Al Brazie?

The Cardinals claimed Luebke primarily on the recommendation of Coach Harry Walker, who had watched him each of the last two seasons at San Antonio and expressed belief Luebke could provide much-needed southpaw bullpen help. An 11-7 hurler last season, the 6-3, 195-pound performer had a 3.5 earned-run average and walked only 41 (fanning 37) in 150 innings.

"He reminds me of Al Brazie," said Walker. "He's sidearmed, throws a sinker and has good control. He's quick enough, I believe. Doesn't have a good curve, but he's got a slider and the way he kept the ball away from right-handed hitters in Texas League parks, where wind always blows to left field, he impressed me very much."

The Cards drafted Durham in a belated selection before the midnight deadline. The outfielder, 6 feet, 180 pounds and a righthanded hitter, batted .392 at San Antonio in 1957, but apparently failed to impress in a brief trial with the Orioles.

At Vancouver this year he hit .285 in 135 games, hit 18 homers and drove in 85 runs. Business Manager Art Routzong was especially impressed with him a year ago in the Texas League, however, and Durham was reported to be a good fielder and good runner with a good throwing arm.

Redbirds Lose O'Brien. The Cardinals also lost one player in the draft as the Phillies took infielder-Pitcher Johnny O'Brien from Rochester, presumably as infield protection at second base. Some observers were surprised that Philadelphia didn't exercise its first pick by taking Wayne Terwilliger, fifty-fielding 32-year-old former Cubs and Giants second baseman who then was plucked by Kansas City.

Loss of O'Brien meant little to the Cardinals, but former Redbird Manager Fred Hutchinson won. Hutch had hoped to buy little Johnny-O from the Redbirds, then coax Seattle University to permit its new athletic director, Eddie O'Brien, to play as a shortstop side-kick of his twin brother. The basketball land would be big box-office there.

Other draftees included Jim Pisoni, defensive-slick St. Louis outfielder, 28, taken by Milwaukee; Pitcher Art Ceccarella, by the Cubs from Phoenix; Outfielder Dale Bennet and Shortstop Ray Webster, claimed by Cleveland from Buffalo and Sacramento and Pitcher Claude Raymond, by the White Sox from Wichita.

Royals, With New Coach, Play Hawks

By Harold Flachsbart

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

NEW YORK, Dec. 2—The two top teams in professional basketball are featured in tonight's N.B.A. doubleheader at Madison Square Garden but the Hawks and Boston Celtics are not scheduled to be opponents until tomorrow night at Boston.

The presence of Bob Pettit and the Hawks in the first game (at 6 o'clock St. Louis time) and the continuation of the Celtics' feud with the New York Knickerbockers in the nightcap were expected to lure a near capacity crowd to the Garden, perhaps between 15,000 and 16,000.

St. Louis' pro champions were trying to avoid that look ahead, for Ed Macauley's swiftness were matched here against the hapless Cincinnati Royals, a team they have defeated three times in three 1958 meetings, and in nine out of 12 last season.

Royals Fire Wanner. Victors only three times in 18 games and conceded no chance by most observers to finish in the playoffs, the Royals yesterday fired Bobby Wanner as coach. Tom Marshall, a part-time player, will be in charge tonight.

Marshall has the same team, seven rookies, plus Sihugo Green, back from the service, and veterans Jack Twyman, a consistent scorer, and Dave Piontek, an in-and-outter. Marshall, 6-4, is known for his big hands but he will need more than big hands to make the Royals spin.

Opinion among the Hawks is divided over the merits of the Eastern teams. Clyde Lovellette is one frontliner who believes the Knicks will continue to be a potent force, but some of the other Hawks point to Boston's recent surge as the "business" part of the campaign.

Pettit, the No. 1 scorer in the N.B.A. with a 29.9 average for 16 games—11 of which the Hawks have won—said "I wouldn't count the Knicks out. They have some real good shooters. But Boston's really rolling now and Philadelphia also is tough and Syracuse isn't going to be as bad as it was in recent games."

Hawks Clicking. The four-time league all-star from Baton Rouge, La., who won one individual scoring title and was knocked out of two others by broken bones, believes the Hawks are finally "working together."

"We're moving that ball better, getting better shots and Macauley has done a real good job in dividing the playing time. Some of us have to play longer than others to keep sharp on our shooting. I personally like to play about 35 to 40 minutes a game."

"That's what makes Clyde Lovellette's spot jobs all the more important in our team effort. It's tough to come off the bench, and Clyde has done that and averaged what? About 15 points a game? He's been a real shot in the arm for us."

Lovellette's average is 15.4 after a 27-minute stint for 20 points against Cincinnati in St. Louis Saturday night. Cliff Hagan is averaging 20.1 but no other St. Louis player is over 10.

The Knicks hold a 2-1 edge over the Celtics this season and one of their meetings was marked by a free-for-all with at least five or six players swinging punches. If Boston wins this one it will tie New York, in a mild 1-3 slump in its last four games, for first place in the Eastern race.

Hawk Notes. The Hawks, who usually perform well in Manhattan, have lost here twice this season—to New York and Philadelphia.

Jack McMahon was due to join the club today after remaining an extra day in St. Louis for treatment of an injured little finger on his left hand.

Bears Get Hot Tip On Foe

Blair Gullion and his Washington University basketball Bears have one tip-off even before they tip off their season against New Mexico A. & M. tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Field House.

The tip is the opening foe will not be easy. The New Mexico Aggies last night at Evansville, Ind., outlasted the presumably strong Evansville College team to win in double overtime, 91 to 85.

Evansville is a team that has all nine men back from a third-place finish in the national college division championship last season. During that campaign Evansville defeated such teams as Western Kentucky, U.C.L.A., and others.

New Mexico A. & M., which finished second in the Border Conference race last year, presents 6-8 Billy Price at center and is expected to have good backboard strength.

Gullion himself is encouraged by the pre-season practice performance of his Bears, however, and has noted they are farther advanced in fundamentals than his Washington team have been for several seasons.

Heisman Trophy to Dawkins

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Pete Dawkins, Army's versatile halfback, today was named winner of the Heisman Memorial Trophy as the outstanding football player of 1958.

Dawkins' selection was announced by the Downtown Athletic Club after balloting by 118 sportswriters and sportscasters throughout the nation.

The Army captain, a senior from Royal Oak Mich., will receive the award at the Downtown A.C.'s Heisman Dinner Dec. 10.

Missouri U. Coach Dan Devine will speak tonight at a Kirkwood High-Coyle High joint football banquet, at 7 o'clock in the Kirkwood High cafeteria. The Kirkwood Lions Club sponsors the affair.

Giants Offer Two For Blasingame

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The San Francisco Giants today were understood to have made overtures to the St. Louis Cardinals for Second Baseman Don Blasingame. The Giants are willing to give up Shortstop Daryl Spencer and one of their three young outfielders—Bill White, Willie Kirkland or Leon Wagner.

The West Coast club has surplus talent because of the return from service of White and Jackie Brandt. Thus, it has made a proposition to the Philadelphia Phillies for two of their strongarmed pitchers. Right-handers Jack Sanford and Jack Meyer. Manager Billy Rigney declined to say what he was offering, but acknowledged interest in both men.

The Cards have asked for more time to consider the offer the Giants made them. It is believed they favor White, of the three outfielders offered.

The Giants are badly in need of a second baseman. Last season they struggled along with Danny O'Connell and Eddie Breasoud most of the way. Each barely hit above his weight. The situation became desperate as the veteran Whitney Lockman, normally an outfielder-first baseman, was given a shot at second base. Spencer finally switched over to second to make room for Rookie Andre Rodgers.

Players Seek More Pay. Major league player representatives withdrew their request for 25 per cent of the radio and television receipts of the 16 clubs. They submitted a new proposal for 20 per cent of the gross receipts from all sources of income from each major league club as a salary basis.

The club owners asked for time to discuss the new proposal at their league meetings tomorrow and Thursday.

Champion Akins Says He Never Worked Harder for a Bout

By W. J. McGoogan

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2—Work was over for the day and Virgil Akins, welterweight boxing champion of the world, sat swathed in a heavy bath robe, sweat rolling down his face. He had finished four rounds with two of his sparring partners in preparation for the first defense of his 147-pound title scheduled for the Olympic Auditorium here Friday night against Don Jordan of Los Angeles.

"I never worked harder for a fight than I have for this one, and never felt better," he said, stooping to unlace his shoes. "Don may be a pretty good boxer, but I believe I'll knock him out. How long? That depends upon how long it takes me to measure him."

Crystal Gazer. The champion is getting to be something of a forecaster. He caused gasps last June when he remarked that he thought he would win the welterweight title over Vince Martinez in "half the time it took me to knock out Isaac Logart." He had disposed of Logart at Madison Square Garden in the sixth round.

Well, he knocked out Martinez in four rounds. His boast was very nearly true. Maybe he will be able to make good on this prediction come Friday. Joel Patrick and Ike Vaughn, sparring partners who have been with him through the long grind at Carlinville, Ill., and here, agree that Akins is in top form. They should know.

"We don't care what kind of fight Jordan fights, just so Virgil fights his fight," said Bill (Tooney) Farrell, the champion's trainer. So, all in the camp of the title-holder are confident of a triumph over Jordan who has won seven straight and has never been knocked out. Reports to headquarters indicate that Jordan, in his camp at San Jacinto, has stressed speed and boxing on the theory that Akins can be outboxed but not outslugged.

His handlers point to the two matches Akins had since winning the championship, both of them non-title. Charley (Tombstone) Smith had Akins outpointed for nine rounds, got careless in the tenth and Virgil knocked him out.

Akins, however, had serious face cuts after that match. He then went into St. Paul and lost a decision to Del Flanagan.

Those results give Jordan hope of being able to gain a

One Difference.

He'll find, however, that Akins is a tough competitor in a title fight.

The match will be televised nationally with the Los Angeles area blacked out. In St. Louis it will be shown over KSD-TV, Channel 5, at 9 o'clock.

That means that the contest will start here at 7 o'clock, Los Angeles time. The weigh-in will be at 10 a.m. because of the early starting time of the contest.

George Parnassus, matchmaker of the Olympic Club which is handling the bout in conjunction with the International Boxing Club, is hopeful the fight will attract a capacity crowd of 10,000 and gate receipts of more than $75,000.

C.B.C. Soccer Victor

Christian Brothers College won from Corpus Christi, 7-0, in the opening High School Soccer League game at Forest Park. Carl Gentile tallied two goals for C.B.C., while Mike Lyons, Tim Knox, Terry Knox, Tom Layton and Ken Bini had one each. In three years of competition, C.B.C. has a 35-1 record.

New Tourney Liked

Although there was general agreement that the bowling system should be altered so that a team would receive greater credit for knocking down larger pin totals than its opponent, the feeling at the recent National Team Match Game bowling tournament was that the new format was a success. It is probable that the scoring will be revised by next year, as most tournament officials admitted the defects.

This was the first time that the title awarded by the Bowling Proprietors Association of America was decided entirely in one establishment. In previous years, the custom was to hold eliminations in one city, then have the first- and second-place finishers meet in a home- and-home match.

The pro bowlers prefer the new method because it takes up only one weekend instead of three. That leaves them the additional time to make profitable exhibitions, such as at opening ceremonies of new tenpin establishments.

Other than the scoring problem, the only complaint heard very often was that the teams from the tournament city had an advantage because they were allowed unlimited practice on the lanes used for the meet. Eddie Lubanski, captain of the Detroit Pfeiffer team, lived only a few miles from the tournament site and was known to have rolled hundreds of games on the six alleys used for the tourney finals.

Steve Nagy of the Falstaffs, said in the midst of the event, "This is like a home- and-home match, but we don't have any home alleys! The Pfeiffer definitely have an advantage."

Nobody blamed Lubanski or his teammates for taking advantage of the situation. If the meet were held in Chicago or St. Louis, the local teams would be expected to do likewise, until there is a rule to stop them.

Such a rule would probably be effective. If the B.P.A. said that teams entered in the national meet should not bowl on the tournament lanes for a month prior to the date of the event, few of the top tenpinners would take a chance on being caught violating the regulation.

Crowd No Advantage

Asked if he thought the cheering of a home crowd was an added advantage for the Pfeiffer, veteran campaigner Nagy said no.

"I think a friendly crowd can hurt you sometimes," said Steve, "because it steams up few of the top tenpinners would take a chance on being caught violating the regulation."

Do you think that the professionals aren't bothered by pressure? There were several occasions in Detroit when contestants were really bothered, but the obvious example came in the match between the Pfeiffer and the Minneapolis Hamms. The Pfeiffer's Bob Hitt, after getting marks in his first three frames, took an unusual amount of time getting set before going into his approach in the fourth. Finally, after "pumping" the ball a dozen or more times, he placed the ball back on the rack and motioned for his opponent to go ahead and bowl. Then Hitt again took his ball and went into the pumping motion. Still he couldn't move forward. He put the ball back and again waved the man on the adjoining lane to proceed.

Hitt, a 29-year-old Detroit, made a third attempt to deliver, but the pressure had built up too much by then. He motioned to teammate Bob Kwolek to replace him and then retired to the bench.

A new five-man team game record was set at Eddie's Lanes when the Mock-Phillips club bowled 1125 scratches. Members and their scores: GEORGE BLACKFORD 232, NORB EULENTROP 221, WILLIAM WESSLER 221, MAX MOEK 237, VINCE ANELLO 214.

The Frank's team in the Cherokee Lanes Major League has a winning streak of 21 straight games.

While practicing before league play at Red Crown Lanes recently, BILL ZIB shot a 299 game, leaving the No. 3 pin on the last ball.

RAY SVOBODA, of the Herfels, shot a 147 triplicate in the Arway Lanes Sportsman League.

Budweisers, Rabens In Match Tonight

The Budweisers, with a three-game lead over the Falstaffs in the Masters Bowling League, will meet the third place Rabens at Burton's Lanes, Delmar and Del Monte Way, tonight. The Falstaffs oppose the Benders. In other matches, the Willens oppose the Cliff Antons, while the Leonard roll Authorized.

Cincinnati, Kan. State Fives Win

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UPI)—The first returns of the new college basketball season indicated Kentucky, Cincinnati, Kansas State and West Virginia are ready to pick up where they left off last March.

Although Coach Adolph Rupp used three sophomores in his starting lineup, Kentucky's defending N.C.A.A. champions opened their campaign Monday night by rolling to a convincing 91-68 victory over Florida State.

Cincinnati, led by All-America Oscar Robertson's 41 points, breezed to a 93-64 triumph over Indiana State. Bob Boozar totaled 45 points as Kansas State turned back Purdue, 96-83, and West Virginia, voted the No. 1 team in the nation by the UPI board of coaches at the end of last season, opened with a 76-67 victory over Furman.

Kentucky got off to a slow start against Florida State but managed to open a five-point lead at halftime and then smothered the Seminoles in the second half. Johnny Cox, the lone holdover from last season's starting five, led the Wildcats with 27 points.

Just So-So. Rupp, who admitted he did "a poor job of substituting in the first half," wasn't too pleased with Kentucky's debut.

"We didn't play nearly as well as we are capable of," said the Baron. "Our defensive work was bad and our offense wasn't too solid."

Robertson, the nation's leading major college scorer last season with a 35.1-point average, helped Cincinnati run up an 11-1 lead in the first six minutes against Indiana State. The Bearcats held a 45-31 advantage at halftime and led by 30 points throughout most of the second half.

Purdue outscored Kansas State from the field, 31-27, but was unable to halt Boozar, who dropped in 11 baskets and 23 of 26 free throws. The entire team scored in the second half, with Boozar leading from the free throw line, converting 42 of 56 attempts.

West Virginia also won its opener on charity shots, dunking in 22 of 32 while Furman converted 13 of 23. The Mountaineers trailed 65-60 with three minutes remaining, but rallied to win behind the shooting of Jerry West, who wound up with 29 points.

New Fast Break. Kansas, playing without two-time All-American Wilt Chamberlain, who turned pro at the end of last season, unveiled a new fast-breaking offense in whipping Rice, 65-49. Ron Long paced the Jayhawks with 22 points.

Indiana and Temple—two other top-ranked teams last season—weren't as impressive in their debuts. The Hoosiers, defending champions of the Big Ten, pulled ahead in the second half to defeat Drake, 68-59, while Temple turned back Gettysburg, 60-53.

Michigan swamped Pittsburgh, 75-55, despite a 28-point effort by the Panthers' Don Hennon; Northwestern set a school scoring record in downing Western Michigan, 102-60; Iowa gained its eighteenth straight home victory over a non-conference foe by downing Colorado, 67-46, and Steubenville, last season's U.P.I. small college champion, dumped St. Michaels (Vt.), 81-63, for its twenty-fourth straight victory.

In other major games, Jackie Moreland scored 39 points to lead Louisiana Tech to a 77-59 victory over Southeastern Oklahoma State; Fred Edmondson's 23 points sparked Georgia to a 76-59 triumph over Clemson; the Citadel defeated Richmond, 55-45; Oregon State whipped Oregon, 68-60, and Stanford coasted to a 57-40 victory over San Jose State.

Two More Archers Get Their Deer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 2 (UPI)—Two more archers have killed deer, the State Conservation Commission reported.

Del Arder, 32, Osceola, got a 75-pound buck while hunting near the Knobnoster Park in Johnson County.

Cleo Arthur Laney, Kansas City, bagged a 134-pound doe near Knobnoster Park.

State Conservation Commission headquarters here said the two kills boosted the total number of deer slain by archers this year to 65. Bow and arrow hunters can hunt deer through Dec. 15.

Wamser, O'Dell Top Metro Bowlers

Bill Wamser of Sun Crest had a 253 high single and Wally O'Dell totaled 672 to top the 1958 Classic Scratch League bowlers last night at Bowl-Mor. Team results: Monnigs 3, Kutis 0; Sun Crest (2872) 2, Cugueta 1; Pellins 2, Cliff Antons (1019) 1; Parentes 3, Phelim O'Toole 0; Lindenbusch 3, Beckleries 0.

Cotton Bowl Tickets

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 2 (UPI)—The Cotton Bowl Association has announced that ticket allotment requests by the competing schools have released about 2500 additional tickets for public sale. The tickets go on sale immediately and will be sold by mail only. Orders are limited to four tickets each at $5.50 each. The game, between Texas Christian and the Air Force Academy, will be Jan. 1.

From Baseball to Bonds

BILL SARNI, former Cardinal catcher whose career was cut short by a heart attack, has retired from the game to enter the securities business. With Sarni and his wife, BETTE JANE, are their children, from left: KIM, age 2; MARC, 10 weeks, and JEFF, 4.

Baseball Is 24-Hour Proposition With Hemus, Sarni Says

By Neal Russo

When Solly Hemus became manager of the Cardinals, one of the least surprised was Bill Sarni. During their tenure with the Redbirds, Sarni had a chance to see the other side of the jovial Hemus. They were roommates.

And when the bell rings in April at Grady and Dodier, Sarni will be there rooting for his old roommate. The former catcher, whose playing career was cut short at 29 because of a heart attack, has retired from baseball for good after coaching at Rochester in the International League. Hand-some Bill is selling stocks and bonds for the A. G. Edwards Company here and will continue to make his home in Florissant.

"Most fans saw Solly chiefly as a showman," Sarni said. "They didn't see him as he really was, a good student of the game, which will help him become a good manager."

A to Z

On the road, especially, baseball was a 24-hour proposition with Hemus, his roommate recalled.

"First, he'd play the game at the breakfast table, find out in the morning paper who was going to pitch against us and discuss that pitcher's weakness and how to hit him best," Sarni said.

"If it was a day game, Mighty Mouse would play the game over at night."

"Solly would study his stance in front of the mirror," Sarni said. "He'd chart every pitch that the pitcher threw him, what the count was, where the pitch went, what stance he used, how far back he stood, how he gripped the bat."

"He kept books on every pitcher in the National League. When he was going good, he'd spend about 15 minutes making the entries in the charts, which he kept from year to year. If he went for the collar in four or five times at bat, he'd take around 30 minutes on the research."

Another strange thing about Solly, Sarni pointed out, is that the new pilot never gave credit to an opposing pitcher for a tremendous game.

"Even if somebody like Newcombe shut us out on three hits," Sarni said, "Hemus would say that he did something wrong at bat. That's why he'd be out there every day an hour or so earlier for practice, hitting or fielding."

Solly was constantly cadging free advice on hitting from people like Ted Williams. On train rides he frequently bent Stan Musial's ear, Sarni said.

"There never was any question in my mind of Solly eventually becoming a manager," said the retired catcher. "Having lived in Houston and having played for the ball club there, he centered his thoughts on managing Houston some day. I know. He was a hero there, just as Musial is here."

Detroit Fires Grid Coach

DETROIT, Dec. 2 (AP)—The University of Detroit today fired head Football Coach Wally Fromhart and named John Ray, one of his assistants, to take over until a successor is named.

Detroit, shooting for national football prominence and obviously unhappy with Fromhart's 4-1 record in the season just finished, said Fromhart's dismissal was effective immediately.

Fromhart, a former Notre Dame quarterback, compiled a 19-25-2 record in his five years at the helm of the ambitious Titans.

The university said Fromhart's position would be filled immediately by Ray, who was hired by the U. of D. with Fromhart five years ago.

Ray, also a former Notre Dame player, coached the freshman team three years and last year moved up to the varsity, handling the offensive line chores.

Harts Second In Pin Event

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 2 (AP)—The Harts of St. Louis, finished in second place to a record setting team total in the Missouri State bowling tournament which was completed here Sunday night.

A 3302 effort by the Hart team Saturday night threw them into the lead in that division, but Clinton Bowl No. 1, Clinton, hit a record total of 3347 to erase that yesterday.

Others in the top five teams were: Bert's, Kansas City, 3297; Herman Clurman, K.C., 3265; Missouri Valley Amusement, K.C., 3264.

The team record was the second one to fall in the month-long event, held on the Pony Express Lanes here. Bob Hepburn and Kenny Flint of St. Joseph had a 1438 doubles total.

Among the top spots in the all-events was Fred Taft of St. Louis, with 1871, good for third spot.

O'Neill Rolls 300 At Floriss Lanes

Jim O'Neill, 23-year-old member of the Illini team of the Masters League, rolled a perfect game of 300 on alleys Nos. 7 and 8 at Floriss Lanes, last night. The 300 followed games of 151 and 181, giving him a 632 total. The score was rolled in the American Handicap League.

Buchholz Latest Pinup Boy

MELBOURNE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Performance in the Victorian tennis championships here probably will decide the making of the American Davis Cup team for the Interzone final, United States Captain Perry Jones said.

"I am honest when I say I haven't the faintest idea whom we will use against the Philippines or Italians at Perth," the 70-year-old leader of the Yank forces said. "After the tournament here I will go into a huddle with Jack Kramer. Then we will decide who we think will do us the most good."

The Victorian tournament at Kooyong opening Thursday is the last competitive test before the Americans swing into the Davis Cup play. They next go to Perth for a Dec. 19-21 meeting with winner of the Philippines-Italian match this week-end at Sydney.

The United States entries in the Victorian will be Earl Buchholz Jr. of St. Louis, 18-year-old runnerup to Ashley Cooper at Sydney; Barry McKay of Dayton, Ohio; Peruvian Alex Olmedo and young Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif.

Butch the Pinup Boy

If Buchholz, who has all Australia acclaiming him a certain future champion, should approximate his sensational play at Sydney he would almost certainly clinch a singles spot on the team.

"If we had to pick a team today we would be compelled to choose Butch the nickname for Buchholz," Jones said. "But McKay is working hard and Olmedo has one of the soundest games in tennis when he is at his best. Picking our lineup will be far from easy."

Buchholz has become the "pinup boy" of the American tennis party. Australian enthusiasts lavish attention on him as they once did players like Kramer, Ted Schroeder and Vic Seixas.

"You certainly have a fine bloke there," a taxi driver will remark when he finds an American in his back. "He looks like another Lew Had or Ken Rosewall. I reckon he will be taking the cup back one of these days for sure."

Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va., this country's ace who has been suffering increased reaction from diabetic condition, will not play in the Victorian but will limit himself to two hours practice daily.

"Ham's setback is a big disappointment and worry for us," Jones said. "He played so poorly in Sydney we felt we would like to see him score at least one big win before definitely settling on him in our Davis Cup plans."

Hey! Duck Hunters!

(Supplied by U.S. Weather Bureau.) Climbing temperatures yesterday melted much of the snow on the ground in Missouri and Illinois, and this morning only central Illinois reported more than an inch on the ground. Elsewhere in the two states only scattered snow cover was left.

The snow cover to the north remained almost unchanged with more than six inches on the ground through most of North Dakota, southern Canada and northern Minnesota.

This morning in southern Canada and over the Mississippi Valley most temperatures ranged from 10 to 20 degrees. Over the plains temperatures reached into the 40s in the western parts.

Partly cloudy and mild weather will prevail for the next day or two over the entire area with a chance of some light rain or snow in the upper Mississippi Valley.

AAA Clubs Draft Only Three Players

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Only three players were selected today by AAA league clubs in the annual minor league draft. Seattle, Buffalo and Minneapolis drafted lower rank players at a cost of $12,000 apiece.

Seattle of the Pacific Coast League claimed right-handed Pitcher Dave Stenhouse from Fort Worth; Buffalo of the International League chose Shortstop Gordon Figgard from Birmingham; and Minneapolis of the American Association drafted Third Baseman Don Lynk from Sioux City of the Western League. All three performed in Class A ball this year although Stenhouse and Figgard were on Class AA rosters.

The 21 other clubs in the three AAA leagues passed. Little Rock of the Southern Association, made the only draft selection by Double-A teams, claiming Third Baseman Jay Ward from Birmingham of the Eastern League at the $7500 price.

First Season Is Their Last

Guelker Seeks Strong Foes for Bills' Eleven

By Dent McSkimming

A chief objective of Coach Bob Guelker when he attends the Midwest College Soccer Conference meeting at Purdue University Saturday will be the scheduling of strong opponents for his Billkens for the 1959 season.

"We are new in the college soccer picture and it is necessary for us to get in some good matches quickly," said Guelker. "For example, if we can get a game with Michigan State U., which is unbeaten for three seasons, we will be in position to pick up prestige in a hurry. Of course, we hope to score some important victories."

Most college soccer teams play an 8 to 10-game schedule and St. Louis U. hopes to fill out such a program.

For the first time, the colleges will be playing toward an official national soccer championship, to be recognized by the National Collegiate A.A. The Billkens thus will have a double incentive for booking a strong schedule and for coming out with a winning season.

Substantially, the 1959 Billkens should look much like the team that went through its five-game inaugural schedule unbeaten. Some of the losses, through graduation, will be difficult to replace but the winning season is expected to create further interest in the squad with a greater response to the call for players. The seniors who will be ineligible next season are: Bill O'Brien, brilliant right winger who was second high in goal-scoring; Jim Monahan, center forward; Mike Houlihan, goalie who gave up only five goals in five games; Dan Puricelli, left fullback who starred in each of his games; Tom Quigley and Steve Murphy, reserve halfbacks. O'Brien, who may be the best right winger in the city, will be most sorely missed.

Two Sophs Will Open For Tigers

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 2—A pair of free-scoring sophomores will be in the Missouri starting lineup as the Tigers open basketball competition against the Arkansas Razorbacks here tomorrow night.

Charles Henke, 6-7, from Malta Bend, a Class S high school all-stater with a 23-point average two years ago, and Joe Scott, 6-3, Class M all-stater from Gainesville with a 31-point average during the same year, have been added to Tiger starting front to get height and scoring punch.

Coach Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup otherwise will use three of his five veterans at the start, including Al Abrams, 6-5, and Bud Harbin, 6-5, both from St. Louis, and Mike Kirksey, 5-10, Buffalo senior. Abrams with 14 points and Henke with 12 were leading scorers when the Tigers defeated the freshmen, 63-50, in a ragged game here last week.

Coach Stalcup wrote off Cliff

Schanen Replaces Bujack in Pin Meet

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Ray Schanen of Milwaukee, was named to replace Fred Bujack of Detroit, in the starting field of the second annual world match game bowling championships opening Thursday.

Bujack was forced to withdraw due to illness. Schanen has an average of 244 in the Greater Milwaukee All-Star League and has rolled the two highest three-game series in the nation this year, 843 and 837.

College Bowling League Planned

Plans for a college bowling league to start Saturday morning were announced today by the Arena Bowl.

Entries are teams representing St. Louis U., Southern Illinois (at East St. Louis), Parks, Harris, Eden, Concordia, Logan, St. Louis U. dental school, Washington U. and Belleville Junior College, with another school possibly to be added.

A trophy will go to the winning school and prizes to the top individual bowlers. A meeting at 10:30 a.m. Saturday will be followed by the first bowling session at 11 a.m.

The teams are unofficially sanctioned by the schools, the announcement said.

Globetrotters Play In Their 32nd Year

The Harlem Globetrotters, in their thirty-second consecutive season as a touring pro basketball team, will play the Hawaii 50th Staters at Kiel Auditorium Thursday night. This year the Trotters feature Wilt Chamberlain.

At the beginning of this season the Trotters claimed a 31-year record of 6114 wins against 313 defeats.

STOCKS TURN LOWER Final Trading Prices on New York Stock Exchange

TRADING SLACKENS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—The stock market went into a mild and not unexpected decline today after three advancing sessions. Trading slackened on the selloff. Final prices were about at the day's lows. Losses ran from fractions to around a point in key issues. A few stocks flew higher in face of the major trend and made substantial gains.

Goodyear was an upside feature with a jump of 5% and strength appeared in Radio Corp., up 1 1/2%, Standard Packaging, up 1/2% and Siegel, up 1 1/2%.

Steels, aircrafts and metals were uniformly lower. Magna Copper led 2%. Chemicals mostly declined. Major motors eased but American Motors ran up 1 point late in the day.

Rails displayed an easier trend all day and Illinois Central, one of the weaker issues, ended down 1 1/2%. In the lower chemical group du Pont lost 1 1/2% and Air Reduction 1 1/2%.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 60 cents to $204.50 with the industrials down 70 cents, rails down $1.60 and utilities up 20 cents.

Of 1248 issues traded, 433 advanced and 600 declined. There were 97 new highs for the year and seven new lows.

Volume totaled 3,320,000 shares compared with 3,800,000 yesterday. It was the smallest turnover since Nov. 3.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials was 558.57 up 1.50 points at the close of business the 20 rails 154.32 up 1.70 and the 15 utilities 89.91 up 1.25.

Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks was 52.46 up 23 of a point at the end of the session; the 425 industrials 55.98 up 27; the 25 rails 35.55 up 36; and the 50 utilities 41.09 up .03.

WHEAT UP ON BUYING BY BAKING INTEREST

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—All grain futures contracts were on the plus side of the market today on the board of trade but only a few of them mustered very substantial support.

The broadest gains were in the nearby contracts and were led by wheat and corn. The demand for wheat was mainly good renewed buying by some bakers.

The nearby corn attracted active bakers by some good renewed buying of cash grain in Chicago.

At their best, both corn and wheat were ahead by a cent or more a bushel.

Utah Heavy Stops Six Rivals in 9 Minutes

COPPERTON, Utah, Dec. 2 (UPI)—Sensational Heavyweight Lamar Clark of Cedar City, Utah, went on a knockout spree here last night, knocking six opponents in less than nine minutes of fighting.

Clark also celebrated his twenty-fourth birthday and ran his professional win streak to 27 with a raw display of punching ability that saw five of his opponents fail to survive the first round.

It took Clark only seven seconds to dispose of Jack Read, Salt Lake City. Clark stopped Read with a right hand to the head, the only blow of the bout.

The only real competition was offered by Wayne Ennis, Ogden, Utah, who managed to engage in a heated exchange with Clark in the first round.

Ennis's efforts were short-lived, however, as he was blasted out in 1:37 of the second.

In the other matches, Clark knocked Dick Pierce, Ogden, in 44 seconds of the initial round; stopped Del Randall, Phoenix, Ariz., in 22 seconds of the first; killed John Low, Reno, Nev., in 1:19 of the first, and put away Tom Kidd, also of Ogden, in 1:52 of the first round.

Clark's bouts with Randall and Low were unscheduled as the two men challenged the hard-punching Clark to a bout. The fights were held in the Bingham High School gymnasium.

Soldan Puts 4 on League All-Star Team

Public High League champion McKinley placed only one player, End John Reinhold, on the all-star team voted on by league coaches.

Soldan, which finished seventh among the 11 teams, placed four players, End Willis Greenshaw, Tackle Albert Cole, Guard Charles Jones and Halfback Robert Brown.

Hadley Tech placed Quarterback Cliff Baker and Fullback Robert Walker. Southwest placed Tackle Rich Green and Halfback Bruce Geiger.

The only repeat from last year was Center Dave Grant of Vashon. Sumner placed Guard Fred Lyles.

McKendree Jayvees Top Sanford-Brown

McKendree College Junior varsity defeated Sanford-Brown, 96-91, in a basketball game last night. Willie Williams scored 15 and Bob Schultz 12 for the winners. Dave Pearce and Ron Holtman each scored 18 and Dave Daniels 17 for Sanford.

Harris Retains Title

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 2 (UPI)—Roy Harris, the Texas heavyweight champion, who retained his title in a bout with Donnie Fleeman here last night, says he may meet Willie Pastrano in a return match next.

Sitting in his dressing room after the unanimous decision over the 180-pound fighter from Midlothian, Tex., Harris, showing only a faint scratch on his brow, said: "At least I heard Lou Viscousi (his manager) say that."

Harris, who weighed in at 200 for the 12-round match, was never in trouble through out the fight.

OIL STATION ROBBER ELUDES PURSUER

A total of $310 was taken from an attendant at a filling station at 2725 North Lindbergh boulevard by an armed robber last night.

A second employee chased the robber through St. Louis county roads but he escaped on foot after abandoning a stolen automobile.

Frank Dowdy, the attendant, handed over the contents of a cash register at the fuel pumps after the robber drove in and displayed a revolver. When the man departed, Dowdy reported the holdup to Carl Zimmerman, a fellow employee, who was in the office.

Zimmerman gave chase in his automobile to Page avenue and Warsaw road, where the robber jumped out and ran across fields. Overland police were called, but were unable to trace the fugitive. The machine was stolen a short time before the holdup, police learned.

John Egan, a baker, 3832 Lafayette avenue, reported to police he was robbed of $570 by three men who attacked him in Easton avenue, east of Grand boulevard, last night.

Egan said he left a tavern with a chance acquaintance and was walking east when the acquaintance was joined by three other men. All participated in the attack and robbery, Egan said.

The three men treated at Homer Phillips Hospital for a fractured rib and contusions of the head. The robbers were Negroes.

Donald Workes, a driver for the Cherokee Candy and Tobacco Co., 3115 Cherokee street, was held up and robbed of an undetermined sum when preparing to make a delivery at Manchester and Sulphur avenues late yesterday.

Workes told police he was in the rear of the truck when a man jabbed a hard object in his back and demanded money. The robber grabbed the driver's wallet, slammed the door of the truck and ran away.

On Nov. 21, Otto Gummer, a driver for the candy company, was held up in the 1500 block of Klemm street by an armed man. The robber fled with 25 checks and an unreported amount of cash.

Jesse Small, a patient at Cochran Veterans' Administration Hospital, 915 North Grand boulevard, told police he was robbed of $173 by two men, who forced him into an alley, near Arsenal street and Morganford road, at 5:30 p.m. yesterday. After beating him the men fled in an automobile.

An attempt to crack a safe in the office of the York Hotel, 8 South Sixth street, was interrupted by an employee last night. Albert Seifert, a bellboy, surprised a man outside the office and spoke to him. A second man ran from the second floor office, and both men left the hotel.

security and border police. To counter this violation, the West decided to raise and arm a West German force to be incorporated into the Atlantic Alliance.

3. Agreement: The administration of Germany should be directed toward the decentralization of the political structure and the development of local responsibility.

Violation: Soviet authorities restricted the activities of non-Communist parties by depriving them of facilities equal to those of the Socialist Unity (Communist) party, interfered in their affairs and coerced their leaders. Leaders unacceptable to Soviet authorities were removed from party positions. All parties were compelled to support the government.

The Social Democratic party was denied the right to operate as an independent organization and was incorporated into the Communist party.

Freedom Violated.
4. Agreement: Subject to the need for maintaining military security, freedom of speech, the press and religion was to be respected and free trade unions were to be permitted.

Violation: Soviet authorities, by police and party intimidation and suppression, have eliminated freedom of speech and the press. Basic human rights and legal processes have been denied. The authorities have resorted to arbitrary seizures of property, detentions, deportations and forced labor.

5. Agreement: During the occupation period Germany was to be treated as a single economic unit, with common social policies on transportation and communications.

Violations: From the beginning the Russians followed a unilateral economic policy and made trade across the zonal borders more difficult than is customary across national frontiers.

6. Agreement: Reparations payments should be scaled to leave enough resources for the subsistence of the German people without external assistance.

Violation: The Russians took large amounts of production and absorbed a substantial amount of industry into state-owned enterprises. They have refused to submit detailed reports on reparations removals.

7. Agreement: Reparations should not be exacted from Austria.

Violation: Under the guise of "German assets" and "war booty," materials and equipment were removed from Austria.

8. Agreement: The western frontiers of Poland, in conformity with a Yalta conference decision, were to await a peace settlement.

Violation: On July 6, 1950, East Germany and Poland signed an agreement making the Oder-Neisse demarcation line the definitive German-Polish frontier.

Cabinet Department for Cities Called for by Senator Clark

BOSTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The growth problems of American cities are big now and they are going to get bigger, mayors and other municipal officials were told at the opening of the thirty-fifth annual American Municipal Congress yesterday.

Senator Joseph S. Clark (Dem.), Pennsylvania, told the opening meeting of the three-day session that the time has come for creation of a new federal department at the Cabinet level to help the cities with their massive problems.

Clark said the tens of millions of people living in the vast metropolitan area which stretches along the East coast have no advocate in Washington—while big federal departments deal with the farms and the sparsely settled states.

He said a case in point which affects the city and suburban dwellers is that the East coast and other mass transportation.

Washington Is Powerless.
This has been deteriorating, and yet the Federal Government is powerless to be of any assistance because no agency of government or committee of Congress has either the interest or jurisdiction, he said.

Walker Mason, deputy administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, said the cities' problem isn't peculiar to the United States.

"It is world-wide," he said. He added he has just returned from a trip to South America where he said he met with a number of city officials whose growth problems are similar to those facing American cities.

Since the beginning of the century, in all but one decade, city population has been increasing twice as fast as that of the country as a whole, he said.

He said it has been estimated two thirds of the population will live in the cities in ten years. Other estimates run higher, he added, one placing the city dwellers at 150,000,000 by 1975.

He said these statistics "spell trouble to every municipal government" and these problems stretch beyond the scope of many municipal jurisdictions.

Lure of City Growing.
Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, president of the American Municipal Association, called the country's growth "frightening" and said a population growth of nearly 100,000,000 in the next 20 years will create problems of tremendous magnitude in every field of endeavor.

"No community, however large or small, will escape the effects of this impact," he said.

Mayor Christopher said he did not think the great days of the cities were at an end.

"Let us not be lulled—the lure of the modern city is getting stronger and stronger. Otherwise why build skyscrapers, a continuing decline in farm population and a steady trek toward the city?" he ended.

MARITIME UNION BOYCOTT TIES UP 75 SHIPS IN U.S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (UPI)—About 75 "flags of convenience" ships in American ports were tied up today in a boycott called yesterday by two maritime unions. Teamsters and longshoremen refused to cross picket lines in most United States ports and in some foreign ports.

The National Maritime Union pickedet a number of ships in New York and in Portland, Ore. In Europe, some ships were boycotted at most major ports but not always with success. The boycott was termed "effective" in most British ports.

The Seafarers' International Union is a co-sponsor in the United States but the worldwide boycott was called by the International Transport Workers Federation.

The federation has called on affiliate unions in 62 countries to boycott ships flying "flags of convenience" of Liberia, Panama, Honduras and Costa Rica. Such vessels enjoy tax benefits and labor regulations the unions consider below standard.

The four-day boycott was called in an act against ships not covered by wage agreements with unions in the federation.

Fleeson

H. Humphrey of Minnesota is an articulate but lonely piling on the 14-man steering committee.

The third and final mark of Johnson's closely-held Senate corporation is its conservatism, which is not merely political.

Bypassed almost entirely are the movers and shakers of the Senate, men of great physical stamina, possibly inconvenient zeal or—worse yet—those who feel the party has a mandate to take affirmative action in the social and economic fields.

The three oldest men of the Senate are these: Theodore F. Green, R-Ide, 81; Carl Hayden of Arizona, 81. Better than half the rest are above 60 despite the prevalent impression that the Democratic Senate gives off the vigor of middle age and even youth.

This conservative emphasis attaches even to the Southerners among the Johnson advisers. The growing number of "New South" Senators, who are more moderate and flexible in their general attitudes, are represented only by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama.

Reason for Johnson's Control.
In such facts lies much of the reason why Johnson is able to maintain his iron control over the Democratic majority and to tower above so many able contemporaries. Where it is not vigorously conservative, as in the case of Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, it is far too much a shadow cabinet.

The committee rosters include: Policy: Senators Johnson, Mansfield, Murray, Hayden, Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Hennings, Green, Russell and Hill.

Steering: Senators Mansfield, Hennings, Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, J. Allen Frear of Delaware, Hayden, Spessard L. Holland of Florida, John L. McClellan of Arkansas, John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, A. Willis Robertson of Virginia, Alan Bible of Nevada, Humphrey, and O. D. Johnston of South Carolina.

ECONOMISTS SPEAK THEIR PARTS

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Just as June is the month of brides, December is the month of those who read tea leaves to foretell the future of business.

Already the predictions are for better days ahead—perhaps because the day's behind weren't notably too good.

The Agriculture Department is out on the limb with a forecast that everything will be better in 1959 except farm income.

This limb is a bit shaky because farm income depends on many things, but a major one is weather. Even Washington isn't too confident when predicting weather.

Most corporate executives now holding forth think business will be better—particularly for their own firms.

THEY'RE COUNTING HEAVILY on the consumers. The Prudential Insurance Co. of America says that consumers will spend 16 billion dollars more next year for a record total of 307 billion dollars. The share that will go for consumer durables—autos, household appliances and the like—will rise from this year's

STOCKS TURN LOWER, TRADING SLACKENS

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—The stock market went into a mild and not unexpected decline today after a session of advancing sessions. Trading slackened on the sell-off. Final prices were about at the day's lows. Losses ran from fractions to around a point in key issues. A few stocks fell higher in face of the major trend and made substantial gains.

Goodyear was an upside feature with a jump of 5 1/2 and strength appeared in Radio Corp., up 1 1/2. Standard Packaging, up 3/4 and Siegel, up 1 1/2.

Steels, aircrafts and metals were uniformly lower. Magna Copper rose 2 1/2. Chemicals mostly declined. Major motors eased but American Motors ran up 1 point late in the day.

Rails displayed an easier trend all day. Illinois Central, ended down 1 1/2. In the lower chemical group Du Pont lost 1 and Air Reduction 1 1/2.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 60 cents to $24.50 with the industrials down 70 cents, rails down $1.60 and utilities up 20 cents.

Of 1248 issues traded, 433 advanced and 600 declined. There were 97 new highs for the year and seven new lows.

Volume totaled 3,320,000 shares compared with 3,800,000 yesterday. It was the smallest turnover since Nov. 3.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials was 558.57 off 1.50 points at the close of business the 20 rails 154.32 off 1.70 and the 15 utilities 85.91 up 1.25.

Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks was 524.67 off 23.4 points at the end of the session; the 425 industrials 55.90 off 2.7; the 25 rails 35.55 off .36, and the 50 utilities 41.09 up .03.

School Disaster

Rescue work and fire fighting going on side by side yesterday in fiery destruction (left photograph) of Our Lady of the Angels parochial grade school on Chicago's west side. Nun weeps (above) as bodies of children caught in the raging inferno are carried out. Numb from shock and the pain of burns, three pupils who escaped, receive treatment (bottom) at a hospital.

The Ruins

Charred desks and walls stand out today in blackened ruins of second floor classroom (above). Some children trapped on the second floor leaped out windows, many suffering broken arms and legs but escaping with their lives. Others suffocated in their classrooms. At right, Fireman Richard Scheidt, his face drawn in horror, carries an unconscious boy from the building.

John Crosby Even Ad Men Join In Blasting TV

SOMETIMES I get to wondering who is minding the store or if anyone is. Just in front of me here is a survey from Tide Magazine which queried some 1100 advertising executives across the country about this season's television programs. The ad execs were full of complaints about this season's television, in many, if not most cases, their criticisms being severer than those of us who criticize for a living.

JOHN CROSBY

theoretically run the show and, if they don't like the monotony, why do they put it on?

Perhaps the best answer was supplied by Robert Foreman, executive vice president of B.B.D. & O., who said that the recession "took the guts out of those few who had any." A lack of guts, you'll find, is at the root of most of the ad men's complaints about TV programs.

For instance, of the shows disliked most, six of them were big name comedies or emcees—a list headed by Jackie Gleason and including such old standbys as Steve Allen, Milton Berle and Garry Moore. All those guys have been around a long time and it's possible the ad guys are just plain sick of them.

But the only alternative to old faces is new faces and that takes guts and guts, according to Foreman, are in short supply. There are plenty of new faces around, including many very talented new faces. First you've got to find them. But to find them—now pay attention back there—you have to look for them. And nobody's looking.

It always dumfounds me how talent suddenly springs to fame from the Jack Paar show after the same people have been beating at doors for years. There are no orderly channels of arrival for new talent but there is, I believe, a very great thirst for new talent and new ideas. New faces crop up unexpectedly and new ideas do, too. Witness Jackie Gleason suddenly spouting boozey wisdom on Arthur Godfrey's show the other day. This was an old face in a new bottle, as it were. And that made it a new face, in a way. Everybody seemed to enjoy the Godfrey-Gleason yockfest thoroughly and I think the reason is that it had a wonderfully "unexpected" quality.

The big hits this year have sneaked up on us. Fred Astaire, for instance. I don't know why we were so caught by surprise since Astaire on stage and screen has practically never done anything badly; still we were. When I look back over the years, all the big hits have burst like thunderbolts. Nobody, for example, expected Milton Berle to make such a hit. The Texas Co. had lined up six other emcees to rotate on their variety show. Berle was to have been just one of them. But he not only took over the show, he practically took over all television. George Gobel, similarly, burst into flower on the electric company spectacular.

It would seem that playing it safe is the best way to lay an egg. This has been a disappointing season in the field of drama, largely because the drama producers have been playing it safe. The dramatization of "The Count of Monte Cristo" was a triumph of organization but it set no worlds afire. Neither did "Swiss Family Robinson," which was pretty dull, or "The Winslow Boy," a dramatization of a Broadway and London play, which was thoroughly respectable but plodding. The most exciting dramatic effort of the year so far has been "Days of Wine and Roses," which was an original by J. P. Miller. It was about alcoholism, a thoroughly contemporary problem, and it was handled with tremendous insight and had enormous impact.

But when the advertising fraternity starts complaining about the monotony, the lack of originality, I think the rest of us have the right to ask: Who, if not the ad men, is responsible for this state of affairs? For instance, one of the largest complaints of the ad men is the Westerns. Twenty-four Westerns are too many Westerns and, as one ad man said: "The Westerns are so much alike that if it weren't for the commercials you couldn't tell them apart."

But who put the commercials on all these Westerns—If not the advertising men themselves?

Try and Stop Me

TWO ADVERTISING TYCOONS, dining in an expensive restaurant that befitted their expense accounts, fell into violent argument. One beckoned a waiter to ask, "Could you lend us a dime to settle a bet?"

The waiter produced the dime, the coin was flipped, the argument settled—and eventually the check was produced. One item thereon startled the tycoons—even though they were only signing the agency's name. It read, "Loan of a dime: 25c."

CEDRIC ADAMS tells of two dauntless fishermen who were trolling for muskellunge on a lake in northern Minnesota. The muskies were vicious that day, and snapping at everything—but they absolutely refused to be hooked. "I say we quit," said one fisherman finally. "Okay by me," agreed the other. "I don't mind them having Sunday dinner off my bait, but what gets me is when they shove their heads up, lean back on their flippers, and use my line for dental floss!"

Bill Vaughan Says

SO MANY of the things we worry, fret and stew about never happen. Remember when serious observers predicted that television would bring back the musical saw?

A Yale professor picks an all-time Supreme Court from among those who have sat on the bench. The question is whether some of the famed legal sluggers of yesterday would have been able to hit today's livelier issues.

Another needed accessory for the de luxe motorcar is some sort of after-burner to melt the snow off the part which protrudes from the too-short garage.

Post-season football games, which once numbered 31, are now down to a mere 11, leaving 20 beautiful girls without any bowl to be queen of.

The TV networks sell their old quiz-show isolation booths, and Mother of Eight is sorry she didn't put in a bid for one to use when the togetherness gets out of hand.

Other double acts have broken up acrimoniously, but Khrushchev is saying things about Bulgarians that Martin wouldn't say about Lewis.

Youth Parade--Perky Pin-ons for Holidays

By Bonnie and Reba Churchill

1. LOOKING FOR some perky pin-ons for the holidays? The patterns for these chubby-cheek Santa and Snowman cut-outs are your free. For this special Christmas gift to "Youth Parade" readers, check P.S. at the end of this column. Designed by Ruby Hopkins, they can be made of felt or velour paper and used as dress appliques, package tie-ons, tree trims, or, as June Kenney illustrates, as corsages.

2. The weather may not co-operate with a white Christmas, but you can still be sure of snowballs. The latter are Styrofoam balls, the size of quarters, which have been wired into a festive corsage. When flecked with red sparkles and backed with chenille glitter sticks, you're ready for any holiday party.

3. A frost-tipped poinsettia made of bumpy chenille provides another Yule dress dazzler. The crimson petals boast a cherubic face with sequin features, instead of the conventional stamen. June, who appears in the Allied Artists' release, "Teen-age Doll," finds the durable chenille weather-proof even for coat collars.

P.S.—Free holiday gift! If you'd like the patterns, including actual cut-out facial features, for the Santa and Snowman novelties, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to "Youth Parade—Santa," in care of the Post-Dispatch. Remember the Christmas rush, write early!

True Weightlessness in Space

Was Laika in gravity-free space? Russian scientists say yes. Dr. Levitt thinks differently—and has figures to prove it.

By I. M. Levitt
Director, Franklin Institute
Planetarium, Philadelphia

IN PREPARING for space travel it is imperative we know how weightlessness affects the mental and physical condition of human beings. But simulating weightlessness for extended periods of time is extremely difficult.

Weightlessness, of course, will be experienced whenever man blasts away from the earth in a rocket. After he overcomes the force of the earth's gravity and the rocket stops firing, it will begin "coasting" into space.

Whether it goes into orbit around the earth or continues onward, the rocket and everything in it will be weightless.

The Russians sent the dog Laika on a rocket trip to study the reactions of a living animal to the stresses of space travel. A Russian aviation medicine expert, Dr. V. Malkin, has reported in a Russian medical journal that within four or five minutes after the dog reached a "weightless" state its pulse rate, blood pressure and respiration shook off the effects of acceleration and returned to normal.

Unfortunately for science, Dr. Malkin ignored or overlooked the fact that Laika may not have entered the weightless state at all.

Laika, remember, was riding in Sputnik II which tumbled along on an orbital path. It could be seen with the naked eye because of periodic change in brightness. This tumbling set up a centrifugal force providing an artificial pull of gravity. In this case, Laika could not have felt true weightlessness.

This writer has worked out the mathematics of the situation:

Laika's container was tumbling with a four-second period of rotation. If the dog's head was positioned five feet from the center of rotation, then it felt an acceleration of 11 feet per second; this is approximately one third of the gravitation all of us experience on earth.

Hence, if Laika weighed 30 pounds on the earth's surface, it weighed 10 pounds in Sputnik II—and true weightlessness requires the absence of anything measurable on any scale.

This points up the difficulty in investigating weightlessness. So far, scientists have been able to simulate it for about 30 seconds at a time in a plane. But they need longer experimental periods, and apparently this will require a great deal more time and effort.

Ultimately the solution may come in launching a "biological satellite" in a unique type of stable platform.

In the ordinary stable platform, the animals are always positioned in a certain direction with respect to space. While they may turn around once in the length of time it takes to circle the earth, the centrifugal force will be relatively minor.

Again arithmetic shows that if a stable platform is used and the satellite has a 100-minute period and the distance from the center of motion to the dog is again five feet, the dog will be subject to an acceleration about one-thousandth that of the force of gravity on the earth's surface. This may be so small as to be negligible. But it still won't be true weightlessness. There seems to be always a slight rotation which gives a small gravitational field.

The only way to overcome this is to use a stable platform which will rotate once a revolution around the earth to compensate for the motion of the platform. If this can be done, then we have achieved true weightlessness.

While the Russians' statements that Laika was weightless may not be substantiated by fact, both the Russians and our own scientists will, in time, create weightless conditions. But it will not be easy. Certainly the Russians, with their ability to launch payloads, are in a better position than this country to succeed.

Today's Brain Game

HERE'S a horsey quiz. Six correct answers are excellent.

1. Can you name the TV hero who rides Tornado?
2. What breed of horse is usually used by equestrian acrobats in the circus?
3. Is a Clydesdale a trotter or a draft horse?
4. What breed of horse was Gen. Custer's Comanche?
5. What breed of horse is famous for its golden color and snowy mane and tail?

6. What color are Vienna's famous Lippizans?

7. Which Confederate general had a horse named Traveler?

8. Who offered his kingdom for a horse?

Answers

1. Zorro. 2. Percheron. 3. Draft horse. 4. Mustang. 5. Palomino. 6. White. 7. Gen. Robert E. Lee. 8. King Richard III.

They'll Do It Every Time

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Sylvanus and Evelyn Duvall

"There's no such thing as love at first sight!"

True — False —

False. It happens many times, and we know why. Sometimes the person reminds us of someone we once did love. Sometimes it's because he looks like the "ideal" we had in mind. Will it work? It has about the same chance that marrying any relative stranger would have. If the stranger turned out to be a good and suitable person, it might work out all right. But marrying anyone you don't know well is a considerable risk, love or no love.

Do most people know how popular they are?

Yes — No —

Apparently they do. Groups of boys and groups of adults in a number of studies have been asked whom they would like to be friends with, and whom they thought would wish to be friends with them. The less popular people want to associate with those of higher rank. But they usually have a fairly good idea of which people would associate with them. Such realism is wholesome, especially if people aren't ashamed to be what they are. It's far better to be human than to be important.

MISS HAASE... To Give Pre-Wedding Party.

Mrs. Chester C. Sharp will be hostess at a luncheon at the Junior League tearoom.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Maritz, 24 Carrswold, Clayton, will give a cocktail party at their home Friday afternoon, Dec. 26. This party will precede the rehearsal dinner to be given by Mr. Mesker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Mesker, at their home on Old Jamestown road, St. Louis county.

Miss Priest, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Bowditch Halliwell and Henry Samuel Priest, will be married to Mr. Mesker at the Church of St. Michael and St. George at 5 o'clock in the afternoon with the Rev. Dr. J. Francis Sant officiating. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Halliwell will give a reception for the two families at their home, 9743 Litzinger road, Ladue.

William Edward Maritz will attend his brother-in-law as best man. A partial list of ushers includes John Gordon, Detroit; Barry Schleicher, Forest Hills, N.Y., and Robert Boden, Chicago. Miss Priest's attendants were announced last month.

Annual 'Trim-the-Tree' Luncheon.

FOR THE FOURTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR, the women of St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Ladue are planning a "Trim-the-Tree" luncheon to benefit the City Mission Society.

Guests at the event, which will take place Tuesday, Dec. 9, at 12:30 o'clock, at the church, Warson and Ladue roads, will trim a Christmas tree with contributions for the society's work in helping young persons brought before the juvenile courts.

A program of seldom-heard Christmas folk songs will be presented by Mrs. Clifford C. St. James, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas P. Deaton. Speakers after the luncheon will be George Ryan, superintendent of the Missouri Hills Training School, and the Rev. J. Albert Dalton, canon of Christ Church Cathedral, and one of the chaplains of the juvenile courts.

Tables will be centered with little red sleighs which will be filled with the guests' contributions. Later the tree will be trimmed with the festive centerpieces.

Mrs. Theodore P. Desloge, chairman of last year's event, is again in charge of arrangements. She will be assisted by Mrs. George W. Ittner Jr., chairman of the luncheon; Mrs. Bertram B. Culver Jr., hostesses; Mrs. Robert J. Woodruff Jr., serving; Mrs. Gupton Vogt, table decorations; Mrs. Ruth K. Jacobson, invitations; Mrs. Edwin D. Geisler, telephone, and Mrs. J. Bachman Brown, reservations.

Miller-Hamilton Wedding Saturday.

MISS ANN HAMILTON whose engagement to Oren F. Miller Jr. was announced early in October, has completed plans for a Dec. 6 wedding. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. John Worden Hamilton of Winnetka, Ill., and the late Mr. Hamilton. Mr. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oren F. Miller, 919 Lay road, Ladue.

The wedding will take place at 4 o'clock at Christ Episcopal Church, Winnetka, the Rev. Dr. Charles Schreiner officiating. The reception will be given by Mrs. Hamilton at the Women's Library Club in Glencoe, Ill.

Miss Hamilton has asked her twin, Mrs. Frank A. Smith of Pittsburgh, Pa., the former Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, to serve as her honor attendant. Bridesmaids will be another sister, Miss Catherine Hamilton; Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Janet Tourtellot and the prospective bridegroom's sister, Miss Margaret Ann Miller. Miss Hamilton will be given in marriage by her godfather, C. M. Putnam of Peoria, Ill.

Richard H. Miller of Cleveland, O., will serve as his brother's best man. Ushers will be Lester J. Grigsby Jr. and James K. Mellow of St. Louis; George J. Lyon, Minneapolis; Daniel M. Pierce, Highland Park, Ill., and Frank A. Smith, and Willard Smith, Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller will give the rehearsal dinner at the Orrington Hotel in Evanston, Ill., Friday evening, Dec. 5. St. Louisans who will go to Winnetka to attend the wedding are: Mr. and Mrs. Hartley B. Comfort, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Cornwell, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Agatstein, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Gereke, Mrs. Grigsby, Mrs. Mellow, Mrs. Gerald F. Pauley and Mrs. Richard H. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Gair Tourtellot and their daughter, Miss Janet, will entertain the out-of-town guests at luncheon the day of the wedding at their home in Winnetka.

THE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S CLUB will honor its past presidents at a Christmas luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Saturday in the Student Center. Mrs. W. Sherman Skinner, accompanied by Mrs. J. P. Blake, will sing Christmas songs. President of the club is Mrs. David M. Skilling Jr. Other officers are Mrs. Earnest Brandenburg, first vice president, and Mrs. Nelson Magill, second vice president.

MISS SARAH A. CRAWFORD, a senior at Northampton School for Girls, Northampton, Mass., spent the Thanksgiving recess with a classmate in Rochester, N.Y. Miss Crawford is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Crawford, 7441 Bland drive, Clayton.

To Aid Science Academy

MRS. HOWARD T. BLAND, president of the Junior League of St. Louis, presents a check for $1000 to STRATFORD LEE MORTON, president of the Academy of Science, the first of such checks pledged by the league for three consecutive years. The Junior League will also participate in volunteer activities in two new museums to be conducted by the Academy of Science.

Miss Janine Renaud To Sing in Oratorio

MISS JANINE RENAUD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Renaud, 4165 Kettler road, will sing in the soprano section of the Albion (Mich.) College Choral Society next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The oratorio "The Son of Man," by Anthony Taffs, associate professor of piano and theory at the college, will have its premiere performance in Goodrich chapel on the campus.

The oratorio will be presented by the choral society with the assistance of four guest soloists and an orchestra of 39 instrumentalists from the college orchestra and the Kalamazoo Symphony. Conductor of the concert will be Prof. David Strickler, chairman of the music department. Miss Renaud is a sophomore at Albion. She will be in St. Louis for the Christmas holidays.

Reception, Tea For Women Engineers

By Fay Proffitt

ST. LOUIS SECTION of the Society of Women Engineers will give a reception and tea for its national president, Miss Catherine Eiden of Chicago, Saturday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the lounge of the Women's Building at Washington University. All women interested in engineering may attend.

Miss Eiden is staff engineer of the plant extension division of Illinois Bell Telephone Company, Chicago. She is a charter member of the Chicago Section which she served as its first treasurer, two years as section chairman, and two years as section director. She has served as national finance committee chairman and had just completed a two-year term as national treasurer prior to accepting the national presidency. Miss Eiden is also a member of the Western Society of Engineers and the Oak Park, Illinois Business and Professional Women's Club.

Miss Joan Westermeyer is in charge of reception arrangements. Mrs. Beulah Loomis is chairman of the St. Louis Section.

MRS. HARRY W. ASTROTH will read a paper, "Music of Religion," at a meeting of the Morning Etude Club tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at Baldwin Hall. Mrs. George A. Kercher, president, will preside.

The piano duo section, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Le Mert, will present the program. Pianists taking part will be Mrs. Fred A. Ulmer and Mrs. Carl Schneider; Mrs. William Chamberlain and Mrs. J. Lawrence Jones; Mrs. Cass Bickerton and Mrs. Henry Rupp.

To Be Honored

MISS CATHERINE EIDEN, national president of the Society of Women Engineers.

Vocalists will be Miss Eliza Richeson and Mrs. Irving Peppel; a violin selection will be played by Mrs. George Filcoff and Mrs. Walter Diekmann, and an organ solo will be given by Mrs. Harry Bonewitz. Mrs. Bonewitz and Mrs. Chamberlain will also be the accompanists.

THE ZONTA CLUB of St. Louis will hold its annual Christmas party Thursday evening at Missouri Athletic Club. Miss Miriam Schmidt is the program chairman.

A special feature of the evening will be presented by Millard Glaser, St. Louis caricaturist and television entertainer. He will draw caricatures of members, following a cocktail interlude and dinner, and also present a program of impersonations of well-known radio and television personalities.

Scottish Rite Club Schedules Programs For Three Sections

MRS. FOREST H. REVEL will preside at a meeting of the social welfare section of the Scottish Rite Woman's Club tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Scottish Rite Cathedral. John Freiss, executive director of the Community Music School, will present a student group in a Christmas musical. Mrs. Freiss, organist of Pilgrim Congregational Church, will be the accompanist. Mrs. William F. Mellis will be program leader.

A dessert luncheon will be served at 11:45 a.m. under the supervision of Mrs. Eric Homberg. Following luncheon Mrs. Robert Groppe will preside at a meeting of the art section. Mrs. William Calhoun will introduce Mrs. Howard Cook, who will speak on "Art From the Sidewalk of Paris." Mrs. Jessie M. Clayton, vocalist, will be accompanied by Mrs. Harold Schlutow.

After the art section program, Mrs. Ida Bowersox will preside at a brief meeting of the social section. The afternoon will conclude with a social hour and cards.

The Shakespeare Drama Study Club will meet at the College Club, 5428 Delmar boulevard, Thursday, Dec. 11, at 11:15 a.m. The program will precede luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Mrs. William C. Collins, St. Louis author, will speak and a musical program will be given by Miss Dorian Scott, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Arthur Poss, pianist, and Mrs. A. B. Secombe, harpist.

Ancient Lamps

By Ramon Coffman

LAMPS of several kinds were used in ancient times. They were without glass chimneys, but they helped to light the darkness.

The Egyptians used lamps made from hollowed stones, also from clay. Melted animal fat was placed in the hollow, and it is believed that bits of cotton took the place of wicks.

The Greeks and Romans improved the lamps in several ways. Using both clay and metal, they produced covered bowls to hold melted grease or olive oil. Often there was a handle at one side of the lamp, and an open place at the opposite side.

A wick (usually made by twisting threads loosely) was placed in the opening. When the wick was lighted, it provided a flickering light.

Some of the ancient lamps were made with two or more openings to hold wicks. A large Roman lamp, found at Cortona, has 16 openings! This ancient lamp is adorned with sirens and other figures from mythology.

Q. Did the Romans hang lamps from the ceilings of their homes?

A. This was done in some homes. The hanging lamps often were made of bronze, and were held to the ceiling with chains.

The Romans also had stand lamps with a height of three feet or more. An oil lamp burned at the top of each stand.

Torches were kept flaming at night in front of some Roman homes. It was a custom to make the torches from twisted wool, which had been covered with pitch or soaked in oil.
